Tavern Operator Who Slew Thug Blasted To Death

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Chicago tavern operator virtually blew off the head of a thug lying in wait to kill him during an underworld drive to shake down pinball machine operators, Senate investigators said Tuesday.

The Senate Labor-Management Committee was told the tavern operator, Willard Bates, himself was blasted to death a few days after slaying Frank Mastari.

Investigator James J. P. McShane testified the shootings occurred during the summer of 1957. He said they came amid a wave of acid-hurling and axe-wielding by hoodlums trying to push reluctant gaming machine operators into line.

McShane said an organization known as Chicago Independent Amusement Assn. Inc. hired three musclemen—Mastari, James Rini and Alex Ross—to help pressure amusement machine operators into joining the association and paying monthly dues of $1 for each machine.

Pair Takes 5th Amendment

Handcuffed together, Rini and Ross were brought before the committee. They refused on Fifth Amendment grounds to say whether they were involved in the Bates incident or any other violence.

Rini and Ross now are serving time in the Illinois State Prison at Joliet—Ross 7 to 14 years, Rini 2 to 14 years for offenses including malicious destruction of property.

McShane said Rini, Ross and Mastari intended to kill Bates on July 29, 1957, but that the attempt backfired.

While Rini and Ross waited in a car a half block away, the investigator said, Mastari hid in Bates' car. But McShane said Bates spotted Mastari, returned to his home and got a gun, walked to his car and shot Mastari when the thug raised his head.

"It blew his head off?" Kennedy asked.

"More or less," McShane replied.

Bates Pays With Life

A few days after Mastari was slain, McShane told the committee, Bates was killed by a fusillade of bullets.

The committee turned back to the coin machine industry after hearing its counsel accuse a Cicero, Ill., man of fronting for Capone-era mobsters in counterfeiting popular records and selling them at cut-rate prices throughout the Midwest.

But when asked about the alleged racket, Charles (Chuck) English refused to give the Senate Labor-Management Committee any answers. He invoked the Fifth Amendment as he heard himself pictured as a hanger-on in Chicago's gangland.

Controversial Housing Bill Taking Shape

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Banking Committee Tuesday approved a sharp reduction in minimum down - payments for higher-priced government - insured houses and a much bigger slum clearance program than President Eisenhower proposed.

The committee approved federal grants of 500 million dollars a year for slum clearance for the next three years, double the annual rate proposed in the President's six-year $1,450,000,000 program.

The actions were taken as the committee worked behind closed doors on a catch-all $2,100,000,000 Democratic housing bill. Members said the committee probably would hammer the bill into final shape Wednesday.

Before the final vote outnumbered Republicans were expected to offer as a substitute the President's $1,650,000,000 bill, even though it obviously had no chance of being adopted.

The Democratic measure represented a major challenge to the President's economy drive along with other proposals to set up broad federal aid programs for airports and chronically-depressed areas.

By a 21-to-3 vote, the committee refused to knock out of its bill an administration - opposed provision which would provide direct federal lending for construction of houses for elderly people.

The provision calls for 100 million dollars in low interest loans. The committee adopted an amendment to require that builders of such houses pay their employes not less than prevailing wages. Similar provisions already apply to certain other types of FHA programs.

The reduction in down payments required under the FHA mortgage insurance program would permit a lender to offer terms under which a $25,000 house could be purchased with a down payment as low as $2,065. The present FHA minimum is $6,980.

Smell-Taste Price

LONDON (AP) — A high court judge has ruled that losses of the senses of smell and taste are worth $9,800 to 50-year-old Eileen McLaughlin. The judgment was against motorist Derek Fitness, whose car injured Miss McLaughlin to the extent, she testified, that she can't smell a rose or frying bacon and all food tastes the same.

Reuther Plan For Jobless Rally Adopted

President Of UAW Apparent Victor In Feud With Meany

SAN JUAN, P. R. (UPI) — The AFL-CIO Executive Council Tuesday scheduled a mass conference of unemployed workers in Washington soon in an apparent victory for Vice President Walter Reuther over President George Meany in a dispute over labor's jobless policy.

The two powerful labor leaders buried their differences, however, in another move to open an organizing "war" on James R. Hoffa's Teamsters Union, which was ousted from the AFL-CIO for failing to clean out corruption-charged union officials.

No Specific Date Set

Reuther, president of the United Automobile Workers, was named chairman of a four-man committee which will draft plans for the meeting designed to dramatize for President Eisenhower and the Congress the plight of almost five million unemployed Americans. No specific date for the mass meeting was set.

The move was seen as a victory for Reuther who rebelled against Meany's policies. Reuther had called for a mass protest march on Washington to dramatize unemployment, but Meany wanted only to hold a conference of labor leaders. The settlement apparently averted an open rupture between Meany and Reuther which threatened to split the merged labor federation.

4,000 May Attend

The executive council agreed on a mass meeting to be held at the capital's biggest indoor meeting place, National Guard Armory.

Meany said that perhaps 4,000 jobless workers and union leaders were expected to attend to pressure Congress and the White House into action to reduce unemployment.

The mass meeting settlement was reached after Reuther had offered to resign as chairman of the key economic policy committee. Meany said Reuther decided to continue in the post at Meany's request.

Meany said the jobless protest meeting "is not a march anywhere" and that participants would not buttonhole congressmen en masse during the conference.

ABA Charges High Court Too Easy On Reds

CHICAGO (UPI)—The American Bar Assn. Tuesday accused the U.S. Supreme Court of going easy on Communists and called on Congress to step in with tough remedial legislation.

The accusation and recommendation were contained in a controversial resolution approved by overwhelming voice vote at the mid-winter meeting of the ABA's House of Delegates.

The vote made the resolution the official policy of the powerful organization representing 200,000 American lawyers. The nation's most prominent lawyer, Supreme Court Chief Justice Earl Warren, is not a member. His resignation was accepted by the ABA Friday.

The 50-plus page resolution, prepared by the ABA's special committee on Communist tactics and strategy, said the Supreme Court had weakened the nation's security by its ruling on 24 cases involving accused Communists or anti-subversive legislation.

Flying directly in the face of the court, the ABA delegates demanded that state statutes against sedition be given concurrent enforcement powers as federal laws. The court has held that anti-sedition laws are the exclusive business of the federal government.

The ABA also asked that "wherever there are reasonable grounds to believe that as a result of court decisions internal security is weakened" the Congress should enact legislation to plug the loopholes.

The ABA also wanted the House Un-American Activities Committee to take on the job of studying the operation of existing anti-Communist laws and the House itself to set up a standing anti-Communist investigative committee.

The bitterest criticism of the ABA action came from Washington. Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) of the House Judiciary Committee called the resolution "irresponsible" and "most unseemly."

The ABA delegates were "obsessed with security and oblivious of individual liberty," Celler said. He called their resolution "a maligning of the Supreme Court."

Governors Plan To Tour Russia

BILOXI, Miss. (UPI) — The nine-man Executive Committee of the National Governors Conference tentatively agreed Monday to accept an invitation to tour Russia next summer.

The governors, however, took no action on a proposal by Florida Gov. Leroy Collins to find a "moderate" approach to school desegregation.

Judge Upholds Paddlings By High School Principal

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Angry parents were rebuffed Tuesday when they demanded assault warrants against a high school principal who paddled 14 students and has three more to go.

Sessions Court Judge Willard Dixon said whacking errant students was not probable cause for an assault charge—that the boys needed it and the principal was within his legal rights.

The judge called the informal conference to hear the complaints of six mothers and a father who came up fighting mad after their sons were punished for trying to start a school cafeteria boycott.

Dixon cited a 1944 ruling by the State Supreme Court, which said school teachers have—to a reasonable degree — the disciplinary rights of parents while the child is in their care.

A mother argued that the punishment, though perhaps deserved, was too severe. The judge said he didn't think so.

"You should have seen my boy's rear end!" cried Mrs. George B. Scott.

The judge was unmoved. "I have seen my own rear end after similar incidents," he said.

The trouble boiled up when Principal John Barnes of Bartlett High carried out a threat to shut down the soft drink machine in the cafeteria after it became clogged with lead slugs.

In reprisal, Barnes said about 20 boys tried to organize a boycott of the cafeteria. When their efforts failed they left the school grounds without permission.

Barnes said the boys who were caught were given a choice:

Either bring their parents to school for a chat with the principal, or take a paddling—seven whacks on the stern with a maple paddle about 12 inches long, 3 inches wide and 3/8ths of an inch thick—and nothing more said.

Troops Fire On Africa Rioters

BLANTYRE, Nyasaland (UPI) —British-led troops opened fire for the first time on African rioters Tuesday and a Royal Air Force plane bombed them with tear gas in new outbursts of African violence in this British protectorate of southeast Africa.

Two casualties were reported in the fighting at Lilongwe in the central province of Nyasaland. An African constable was stabbed at Balka in another outbreak of rioting triggered by demands for independence.

An RAF plane swooped low over the demonstrators in Lilongwe and dropped tear gas bombs while troops on the ground opened fire.

Troop reinforcements were moving into the area. Police riot squads turned out in force, but the mob held fast against their billy clubs in the Lilongwe market place.

British authorities were rushing in more troops.

Aluminum Deep Sea Submarine Planned

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—Reynolds Metals Co. announced Tuesday it was designing an aluminum submarine capable of plumbing the ocean deeper than any other known sub.

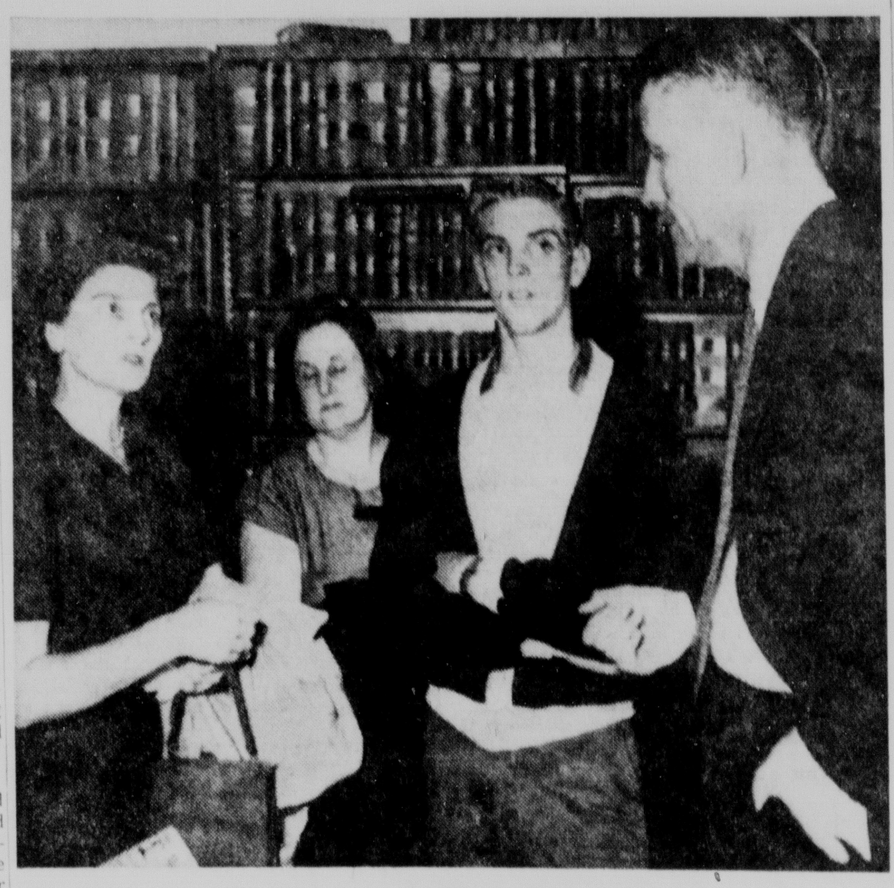

The company said the submarine, called the Aluminaut, would b able to descend more than three miles and touch more than 60 per cent of the world's ocean floor.

J. Louis Reynolds, executive vice president of the firm, said the Aluminaut could lead to a new concept in undersea warfare. Aluminauts posted as sentries at varying depths could make Russian submarine reconnaissance of American waters all but impossible, Reynolds said.

Supreme Court Upholds States In Tax Disputes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court Tuesday gave the financially harassed states broad power to put the tax bite on out-of-state corporations which do business within their borders.

In a 6-3 decision involving cases from Minnesota and Georgia, the court ruled net income from operations within a state by an out-of-state corporation may be subjected to state taxation provided:

(1) The levy is not discriminatory and, (2) it is properly apportioned to local activities within the taxing states.

While the ruling specifically applied only to Minnesota and Georgia tax laws, it was far reaching enough to cover similar laws by other states. Hundreds of corporations could be affected.

Justice Clark, speaking for the majority, said:

"While it is true a state may not erect a wall around its borders preventing commerce and entry, it is axiomatic that the founders did not intend to immunize such commerce from carrying its fair share of the costs of the state governments in return for the benefits it derives from within the states."

Justice Whittaker wrote a dissenting opinion in which Justices Frankfurter and Stewart joined.

Whittaker said that, in his view, the levies imposed by Minnesota and Georgia laws plainly violated the commerce clause of the Constitution. This clause provides that Congress shall have the power to regulate commerce with foreign nations and among the states.

In another decision, the high court upheld 6-2 the right of states and cities to impose property taxes on materials imported to meet current manufacturing needs.

The court rejected the contention of Youngstown (Ohio) Sheet & Tube Co. and United States Plywood Corp. that such taxes violated the Constitution's ban on state levies on imports.

Justice Whittaker read the majority opinion, which involved taxes imposed on Youngstown iron ore by the state of Ohio and on U.S. Plywood lumber veneer by the city of Algoma, Wis. He said they were not taxed as imported material because at the time of the assessment they were being used in every practical sense for the purpose for which they were imported.

Marshall Remains In Serious Condition

FT. BRAGG, N. C. (AP) — Gen. George C. Marshall, 78, still conscious and comfortable following a second stroke and mild pneumonia, remained in serious condition Tuesday at the Army hospital here.

A late afternoon medical bulletin from his physician, Col. George M. Powell, reiterated that "the prognosis is guarded."

Marshall, former secretary of state and of defense, entered the hospital Jan. 15 after a stroke at his Pinehurst home. Last week, he suffered another stroke and pneumonia.

3 Blonde Wives Sad As Bigamist Sent To Prison

NEW YORK (UPI) — A judge separated Michael (Lover Boy) Cannella and his three blonde wives Tuesday.

The wives—Lillian, 29, Ethel, 27, and Patricia, 23 — appeared sad as Cannella was sentenced to from 2½ to 5 years in Sing Sing for bigamy.

Each said she would be happy to marry Cannella again if he could restrain himself to one wife at a time.

Cannella, a plumber, had managed to commute from one wife to another without arousing suspicion until last August. His marital world collapsed when he tried to buy a ring for his third wife by giving the names of the first two as credit references.

AEC Refutes Report Wheat Contaminated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission's top medical scientist disputed Tuesday a British Parliament member's statement that American wheat is dangerously contaminated with radioactive strontium.

Dr. Charles Dunham, head of AEC's division of biology and medicine, told a reporter that "in terms of averaging things out over a period of time, there is no reason to think that anyone is getting excessive amounts of strontium in their diet" from wheat or any other food source.

Dunham made his statement in commenting on a complaint by Laborite Konni Zilliacus that American wheat has been so contaminated by strontium fallout from atomic tests that it should be barred from Britain.

Zilliacus said 1958 samplings of U.S. wheat averaged 50 per cent above the AEC's safe limit for strontium, a substance which concentrates in bone. If present in sufficient amounts it could cause bone cancer.

Dulles In Good Spirits On Eve Of 71st Birthday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will observe his 71st birthday Wednesday fighting cancer and fighting communism.

The hospital again reported Tuesday that Dulles was doing about as well as can be expected.

In his second battle with cancer, Dulles has undergone four treatments of massive doses of X rays of a minute or more duration. Doctors says this will go on for three or four weeks at Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

A medical bulletin reported his appetite has improved and he is in good spirits.

So far, Dulles has shown no adverse reaction to the X-ray treatment. Some people get fatigued and nauseated. Dulles' X-ray dosages have been relatively light and doctors do not rule out such reactions as they get closer to the five-minute maximum duration.

Dulles telephoned his special assistant, Joseph N. Greene Jr., to talk about State Department business Tuesday. The 10-minute call was reported to have touched on British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's current Moscow visit and a speech by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The State Department had no word on Dulles' birthday plans beyond his usual daily trip to the X-ray room in a wheelchair. There was a possibility that President Eisenhower might visit him. Eisenhower has called on Dulles four times since he entered the hospital Feb. 10.

The State Department is shaking down into its new method of operation. Virtually a one-man show since Dulles took office Jan. 21, 1953, the department is now trying a pattern which could continue indefinitely.

Acting Secretary Christian A. Herter is nominally in charge. But C. Douglas Dillon, undersecretary for economic affairs, has shouldered much of the work.

Campanella's Son Admits Participating In Burglary

NEW YORK (UPI) — The 15-year-old son of Roy Campanella, paralyzed Negro former baseball star and a leader in the war on youth crime, Tuesday night confessed he participated in a drugstore burglary in which he stole money and cigarets, police reported.

David Campanella was booked on a police station on the theft charge shortly after he was convicted in Children's Court of juvenile delinquency for participating in an interracial treet gang fight.

Children's Court Judge Wilfred A. Waltemade acquitted three white boys who were involved in the fight and then told David he was free to go home with his mother.

Police took the boy instead to a police station for questioning about the Feb. 14 burglary of a drugstore. Lt. Terrence Gaffney said David confessed that he and George Delemos, a white boy, broke a plate glass door to enter the store.

Daniel Statesman, proprietor of the store, claimed $500, cigarets and cosmetics were taken, but David told police he took only $9 and some cigarets.

David was released in the custody of his mother pending a hearing Wednesday. The burglary charge was listed as juvenile delinquency because of the boy's age.

The elder Campanella, paralyzed and confined to a wheel chair as a result of auto accident injuries, was not in court. He is chairman of a special juvenile delinquency committee of the Knights of Pythias March of Youth program.

Khrushchev Blast Shock To Macmillan

West Bid For Big 4 Ministers' German Meeting Rejected

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev caustically attacked Western foreign policies on Germany Tuesday in a Kremlin speech. British sources said visiting Prime Minister Harold Macmillan reacted with some shock when he heard of Khrushchev's remarks.

Macmillan was an apparently amiable guest at a British Embassy reception later but became slightly ill there. A British spokesman blamed it on the high room temperature at the crowded party.

Macmillan had to go off to an anteroom and lie down for 20 minutes, then rejoined the gathering.

Afterward Macmillan motored to the country house where the two leaders are due to resume their private conversations Wednesday.

Timing Surprises Britons

There Macmillan met with top advisers to work out the best attitude toward Khrushchev's tough speech on Germany, the Middle East and Western policies generally.

British officials with Macmillan expressed surprise at the timing of Khrushchev's speech at a local political rally.

The Moscow diplomatic colony was buzzing with reports that the talks have struck a snag.

If there was any change by either side on their positions on cold war issues as a result of last week's talks, it was not apparent.

The Khrushchev speech was described by British sources as unusual since it came right in the middle of private conversations between the two leaders. It was delivered during a break in the talks while Macmillan was on a one-day trip to Dubna, the Soviet atom center 90 miles northeast of Moscow.

Western Idea "Obsolete"

Khrushchev apparently rejected the West's proposal for a Big Four foreign ministers meeting on Germany. It would have been justified at the windup of World War II, he said, but "now the idea is plainly obsolete."

The Soviet Union, the United States, Britain and France cannot discuss German unification, he contended, because "this is a question for the two German states themselves."

Khrushchev repeated as "more expedient" the Soviet proposal, already turned down by the West, for a meeting of the government chiefs of all nations that waged war against Hitler to work out a German peace treaty.

Navy To Scrap 43 Warships

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy plans to scrap 43 outmoded warships, including five battleships.

It announced Tuesday that 520,000 tons of shipping to be sold for scrap steel will also include 9 heavy cruisers, 10 light cruisers, 4 antiaircraft light cruisers and 15 World War II light "jeep" carriers.

The ships now are in mothball fleets at Philadelphia, Bremerton, Wash., San Diego, Calif., Stockton, Calif., and Boston, Mass.

The original cost of the ships was $697,640,000. The Navy thinks it can salvage about $3,082,000 worth of equipment from the ships and figures the scrap value will be about $27,194,000.

The disposal program will be spread out over about one year. This presumably will avoid the impact of dumping 520,000 tons of scrap steel onto the market in one chunk.

The battleships are the Tennessee, completed in 1920; the Maryland and California, in 1921; and Colorado and West Virginia in 1923. All of the ships being sold have been out of operation for at least 11 years.

Dag Plans Official Visit To Moscow

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. said Tuesday Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold plans a four-day official visit to Moscow next month. A spokesman said Hammarskjold and Soviet leaders would discuss such matters as the Berlin crisis, disarmament and international cooperation in outer space. Hammarskjold intends to leave New York next Saturday.

Justice Clark, speaking for the majority, said:

"While it is true a state may not erect a wall around its borders preventing commerce and entry, it is axiomatic that the founders did not intend to immunize such commerce from carrying its fair share of the costs of the state governments in return for the benefits it derives from within the states."

Justice Whittaker wrote a dissenting opinion in which Justices Frankfurter and Stewart joined.

Whittaker said that, in his view, the levies imposed by Minnesota and Georgia laws plainly violated the commerce clause of the Constitution. This clause provides that Congress shall have the power to regulate commerce with foreign nations and among the states.

In another decision, the high court upheld 6-2 the right of states and cities to impose property taxes on materials imported to meet current manufacturing needs.

The court rejected the contention of Youngstown (Ohio) Sheet & Tube Co. and United States Plywood Corp. that such taxes violated the Constitution's ban on state levies on imports.

Justice Whittaker read the majority opinion, which involved taxes imposed on Youngstown iron ore by the state of Ohio and on U.S. Plywood lumber veneer by the city of Algoma, Wis. He said they were not taxed as imported material because at the time of the assessment they were being used in every practical sense for the purpose for which they were imported.

3 Blonde Wives Sad As Bigamist Sent To Prison

NEW YORK (UPI) — A judge separated Michael (Lover Boy) Cannella and his three blonde wives Tuesday.

The wives—Lillian, 29, Ethel, 27, and Patricia, 23 — appeared sad as Cannella was sentenced to from 2½ to 5 years in Sing Sing for bigamy.

Each said she would be happy to marry Cannella again if he could restrain himself to one wife at a time.

Cannella, a plumber, had managed to commute from one wife to another without arousing suspicion until last August. His marital world collapsed when he tried to buy a ring for his third wife by giving the names of the first two as credit references.

Dulles In Good Spirits On Eve Of 71st Birthday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will observe his 71st birthday Wednesday fighting cancer and fighting communism.

The hospital again reported Tuesday that Dulles was doing about as well as can be expected.

In his second battle with cancer, Dulles has undergone four treatments of massive doses of X rays of a minute or more duration. Doctors says this will go on for three or four weeks at Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

A medical bulletin reported his appetite has improved and he is in good spirits.

So far, Dulles has shown no adverse reaction to the X-ray treatment. Some people get fatigued and nauseated. Dulles' X-ray dosages have been relatively light, and doctors do not rule out such reactions as they get closer to the five-minute maximum duration.

Dulles telephoned his special assistant, Joseph N. Greene Jr., to talk about State Department business Tuesday. The 10-minute call was reported to have touched on British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's current Moscow visit and a speech by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The State Department had no word on Dulles' birthday plans beyond his usual daily trip to the X-ray room in a wheelchair. There was a possibility that President Eisenhower might visit him. Eisenhower has called on Dulles four times since he entered the hospital Feb. 10.

The State Department is shaking down into its new method of operation. Virtually a one-man show since Dulles took office Jan. 21, 1953, the department is now trying a pattern which could continue indefinitely.

Acting Secretary Christian A. Herter is nominally in charge. But C. Douglas Dillon, undersecretary for economic affairs, has shouldered much of the work.

AEC Refutes Report Wheat Contaminated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission's top medical scientist disputed Tuesday a British Parliament member's statement that American wheat is dangerously contaminated with radioactive strontium.

Dr. Charles Dunham, head of AEC's division of biology and medicine, told a reporter that "in terms of averaging things out over a period of time, there is no reason to think that anyone is getting excessive amounts of strontium in their diet" from wheat or any other food source.

Dunham made his statement in commenting on a complaint by Laborite Konni Zilliacus that American wheat has been so contaminated by strontium fallout from atomic tests that it should be barred from Britain.

Zilliacus said 1958 samplings of U.S. wheat averaged 50 per cent above the AEC's safe limit for strontium, a substance which concentrates in bone. If present in sufficient amounts it could cause bone cancer.

Controversial Housing Bill Taking Shape

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Banking Committee Tuesday approved a sharp reduction in minimum down - payments for higher-priced government - insured houses and a much bigger slum clearance program than President Eisenhower proposed.

The committee approved federal grants of 500 million dollars a year for slum clearance for the next three years, double the annual rate proposed in the President's six-year $1,450,000,000 program.

The actions were taken as the committee worked behind closed doors on a catch-all $2,100,000,000 Democratic housing bill. Members said the committee probably would hammer the bill into final shape Wednesday.

Before the final vote outnumbered Republicans were expected to offer as a substitute the President's $1,650,000,000 bill, even though it obviously had no chance of being adopted.

The Democratic measure represented a major challenge to the President's economy drive along with other proposals to set up broad federal aid programs for airports and chronically-depressed areas.

By a 21-to-3 vote, the committee refused to knock out of its bill an administration - opposed provision which would provide direct federal lending for construction of houses for elderly people.

The provision calls for 100 million dollars in low interest loans. The committee adopted an amendment to require that builders of such houses pay their employes not less than prevailing wages. Similar provisions already apply to certain other types of FHA programs.

The reduction in down payments required under the FHA mortgage insurance program would permit a lender to offer terms under which a $25,000 house could be purchased with a down payment as low as $2,065. The present FHA minimum is $6,980.

Governors Plan To Tour Russia

BILOXI, Miss. (UPI) — The nine-man Executive Committee of the National Governors Conference tentatively agreed Monday to accept an invitation to tour Russia next summer.

The governors, however, took no action on a proposal by Florida Gov. Leroy Collins to find a "moderate" approach to school desegregation.

Aluminum Deep Sea Submarine Planned

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—Reynolds Metals Co. announced Tuesday it was designing an aluminum submarine capable of plumbing the ocean deeper than any other known sub.

The company said the submarine, called the Aluminaut, would b able to descend more than three miles and touch more than 60 per cent of the world's ocean floor.

J. Louis Reynolds, executive vice president of the firm, said the Aluminaut could lead to a new concept in undersea warfare. Aluminauts posted as sentries at varying depths could make Russian submarine reconnaissance of American waters all but impossible, Reynolds said.

Marshall Remains In Serious Condition

FT. BRAGG, N. C. (AP) — Gen. George C. Marshall, 78, still conscious and comfortable following a second stroke and mild pneumonia, remained in serious condition Tuesday at the Army hospital here.

A late afternoon medical bulletin from his physician, Col. George M. Powell, reiterated that "the prognosis is guarded."

Marshall, former secretary of state and of defense, entered the hospital Jan. 15 after a stroke at his Pinehurst home. Last week, he suffered another stroke and pneumonia.

Navy To Scrap 43 Warships

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy plans to scrap 43 outmoded warships, including five battleships.

It announced Tuesday that 520,000 tons of shipping to be sold for scrap steel will also include 9 heavy cruisers, 10 light cruisers, 4 antiaircraft light cruisers and 15 World War II light "jeep" carriers.

The ships now are in mothball fleets at Philadelphia, Bremerton, Wash., San Diego, Calif., Stockton, Calif., and Boston, Mass.

The original cost of the ships was $697,640,000. The Navy thinks it can salvage about $3,082,000 worth of equipment from the ships and figures the scrap value will be about $27,194,000.

The disposal program will be spread out over about one year. This presumably will avoid the impact of dumping 520,000 tons of scrap steel onto the market in one chunk.

The battleships are the Tennessee, completed in 1920; the Maryland and California, in 1921; and Colorado and West Virginia in 1923. All of the ships being sold have been out of operation for at least 11 years.

Dag Plans Official Visit To Moscow

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. said Tuesday Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold plans a four-day official visit to Moscow next month. A spokesman said Hammarskjold and Soviet leaders would discuss such matters as the Berlin crisis, disarmament and international cooperation in outer space. Hammarskjold intends to leave New York next Saturday.

Smell-Taste Price

LONDON (AP) — A high court judge has ruled that losses of the senses of smell and taste are worth $9,800 to 50-year-old Eileen McLaughlin. The judgment was against motorist Derek Fitness, whose car injured Miss McLaughlin to the extent, she testified, that she can't smell a rose or frying bacon and all food tastes the same.

Judge Upholds Paddlings By High School Principal

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Angry parents were rebuffed Tuesday when they demanded assault warrants against a high school principal who paddled 14 students and has three more to go.

Sessions Court Judge Willard Dixon said whacking errant students was not probable cause for an assault charge—that the boys needed it and the principal was within his legal rights.

The judge called the informal conference to hear the complaints of six mothers and a father who came up fighting mad after their sons were punished for trying to start a school cafeteria boycott.

Dixon cited a 1944 ruling by the State Supreme Court, which said school teachers have—to a reasonable degree — the disciplinary rights of parents while the child is in their care.

A mother argued that the punishment, though perhaps deserved, was too severe. The judge said he didn't think so.

"You should have seen my boy's rear end!" cried Mrs. George B. Scott.

The judge was unmoved. "I have seen my own rear end after similar incidents," he said.

The trouble boiled up when Principal John Barnes of Bartlett High carried out a threat to shut down the soft drink machine in the cafeteria after it became clogged with lead slugs.

In reprisal, Barnes said about 20 boys tried to organize a boycott of the cafeteria. When their efforts failed they left the school grounds without permission.

Barnes said the boys who were caught were given a choice:

Either bring their parents to school for a chat with the principal, or take a paddling—seven whacks on the stern with a maple paddle about 12 inches long, 3 inches wide and ⅜ths of an inch thick—and nothing more said.

Campanella's Son Admits Participating In Burglary

NEW YORK (UPI) — The 15-year-old son of Roy Campanella, paralyzed Negro former baseball star and a leader in the war on youth crime, Tuesday night confessed he participated in a drugstore burglary in which he stole money and cigarets, police reported.

David Campanella was booked at a police station on the theft charge shortly after he was convicted in Children's Court of juvenile delinquency for participating in an interracial treet gang fight.

Children's Court Judge Wilfred A. Waltemade acquitted three white boys who were involved in the fight and then told David he was free to go home with his mother.

Police took the boy instead to a police station for questioning about the Feb. 14 burglary of a drugstore. Lt. Terrence Gaffney said David confessed that he and George Delemos, a white boy, broke a plate glass door to enter the store.

Daniel Statesman, proprietor of the store, claimed $500, cigarets and cosmetics were taken, but David told police he took only $9 and some cigarets.

David was released in the custody of his mother pending a hearing Wednesday. The burglary charge was listed as juvenile delinquency because of the boy's age.

The elder Campanella, paralyzed and confined to a wheelchair as a result of auto accident injuries, was not in court. He is chairman of a special juvenile delinquency committee of the Knights of Pythias March of Youth program.

Carter May Cut Son's Pay Or Take Him Off Payroll

WASHINGTON (AP)—Picturing himself as a man who has just found life again, Rep. Steven V. Carter (D-Iowa) said Tuesday he'll decide in a few days what to do about his 19-year-old son's $11,873 salary.

Carter said he may decide to reduce the salary or take his son off the congressional payroll entirely. But he said he wants to keep him as an assistant if at all possible.

The 43-year-old Carter told newsmen also of his bout with a recurrence of cancer, which originally struck him in 1957. He got word from doctors at nearby Bethesda (Md.) Naval Hospital earlier this month it was back again.

But he said it has been treated successfully so far.

"I had a private guess," Carter said, "that I didn't have too long to live. Now doctors tell me I have not a sure chance but a good one to live out a normal life span."

Carter's son, Steven A., works in his father's office. He also is a freshman prelaw student at George Washington University here.

After he went on the payroll at $11,873 last Jan. 3, and the word got around, the question was raised whether it was proper for anyone so young to get such a big government salary, particularly in a part-time job.

The Des Moines Register Tuesday quoted Rep. Carter as saying he had made a mistake in judgment and "I'm going to correct it."

As for his son's status, Carter said "getting the picture in proper perspective is what's tough."

He said a good stenographer in his home town of Leon probably could be hired for about $2,400 a year but the same one in Washington would receive between $5,000 and $8,000.

"I agree the cost of government is too high," Carter said, "but the cost of living in Washington justifies the difference in salary standards."

He said the $22,500 he makes as a congressman probably won't cover his expenses "and we don't live high. I'll probably have to go into some of my savings."

"Nepotism has become a dirty word," Carter said. "But if a man and wife or man and son are a good team they give better service to the taxpayer" than some other employe would give in the relative's place.

Woman Released In Tavern Slaying

TOWSON, Md. (AP)—A murder charge against a woman who said she meant to shoot at the feet of a man killed in her tavern has been dismissed by the Baltimore County Grand Jury.

The charge was dropped Tuesday against Mrs. Anna DeCato, 44. She was arrested last Thursday after the fatal wounding of Harold Wilson Joseph, 35, of the Middle River section.

Joseph, a Sunpapers linotype operator, was killed by a bullet fired into his abdomen at a distance of five feet, police said.

The visual system of girls matures earlier than does that of boys.

Pullen Would Abolish State Scholarships

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—State School Superintendent Thomas G. Pullen Jr. continued Tuesday to sound a discordant note to a chorus in favor of state-financed college scholarships.

He admitted before the House Education Committee he was the lone dissenter to such a recommendation by a 1955 commission studying higher education and had taken the same stand on a present commission.

Pullen in answering Del. Cook (D-Montgomery) said he would favor abolishing all state scholarships and applying the money toward lowering college tuition costs to within the reach of almost everyone.

The state now pays about one million dollars a year for scholarships. The new proposal would cost a minimum of $320,000 and a maximum of $640,000 a year.

Pullen was the only outright opponent of the scholarship program, although Milson Raver of the Maryland State Teachers Assn. questioned some phases.

President Wilson H. Elkins of the University of Maryland said he would support it as long as the cost would not reduce other state aid to education.

Unqualified endorsement was given it by representatives of Loyola, St. John's, Washington, Western Maryland and Mount St. Agnes colleges.

The first cable streetcar in the world was put in operation in San Francisco in 1873.

Rayburn Breaks Ground For Capitol's Extension

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Speaker Sam Rayburn turned over two spadesful of historic dirt Tuesday to signal the start of work on the controversial face-lifting of the U.S. Capitol's east front.

The veteran Texas Democrat, who led the fight for the project in the face of criticism from architects, newspapers and civic groups, told an audience of several hundred persons the new facade would "be the pride and joy of everybody."

Rayburn said contractors had promised the new marble portico would be ready for the next presidential inauguration in 1961.

The new 10 million dollar front will duplicate the original sandstone structure to the last detail but will extend 32½ feet farther out from the center section of the Capitol.

The east front proposal set off a louder debate than any of its kind since former President Harry S. Truman added a new balcony on the White House.

Rayburn referred to the controversy in his ground - breaking speech, saying he "liked the old things if they're historical." But he said the new front for the Capitol was needed because the old one was dangerous.

The speaker jabbed two silver-plated shovels into the ground where the foundation of the new front will be laid. In front of him, the massive Capitol dome jutted out over an amputated section of wall where the old portico and center steps had stood.

MP Would Ban TV Interruptions For Commercials

LONDON (AP)—An irate lawmaker said Tuesday the commercials on British television have at last gone too far: They are breaking into the action in the horse operas.

"The other week," Laborite Christopher Mayhew told the House of Commons, "a Western film was interrupted—just when the red Indians were about to attack—for an advertisement for a scalp lotion."

This brought down the house, but Mayhew was in earnest. Speaking on behalf of his bill to prohibit the interruption of programs by commercials, he declared:

"The only programs not interrupted are religious programs and the discussion program 'Free Speech' featuring Robert Boothby, now a peer.

"Television advertising holds back only, it seems, for the Lord God and Lord Bob.

Without opposition from the Conservative government, his bill was given a formal first reading. This merely places it before the House. The acid test comes on the second reading, which is approval in principle.

Driller Finds Heat-Has Ice

LAKEVIEW, Ore. (AP) — When Frank Hart wanted some more heat, he drilled into the earth. And that is why his yard is full of ice.

Hart, who lives two miles north of this south central Oregon town, was one of the first to heat his home by tapping the natural hot water that underlies the earth here.

As the area built up, and others tapped the same supply, he found —in the current spell of freezing weather—that he was not getting enough heat.

So he set a well driller to work Monday, searching for a new supply.

The driller was 40 feet down when hot water began shooting out of the hole—a geyser that issues an estimated 100 gallons a minute.

Hart expects eventually to get it under control by lessening pressure with a side tap. In the meantime his yard is spectacular.

"It's pretty slick out here," he said, inspecting the thick ice coating over his yard, driveway and even the trees, as steam from the geyser spreads, then freezes.

Tourist Trade Hurt

State Slot Ban Law Appeal Dismissed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court Tuesday refused to review a decision upholding validity of Maryland's anti-slot machine law.

The court granted a motion by Maryland to dismiss the appeal because of lack of a substantial federal question.

Validity of the law had been upheld by the Maryland Court of Appeals.

Operators of slot machine casinos on the Virginia side of the Potomac River sought to reverse the Maryland court and declare invalid the state law banning their activities.

The law, passed by the 1958 Maryland Legislature, bans gambling devices which cannot be reached by foot from Maryland soil. It was aimed at the operators who ran slot machines on piers jutting into the Maryland-owned Potomac River from Virginia's shore.

Virginia law bans slots, but they are legal in several Maryland counties. Virginia officials objected to the Maryland-licensed slots operating off the Colonial Beach, Va. area.

Counsel for the gambling casinos contended the Maryland law violated the U. S. Constitution's 14th Amendment.

The appeal said the law denied lot operators equal protection of law by discriminating against them arbitrarily. The appeal also contended that without due process of law, the Maryland act deprived the operators of their liberty to engage in a lawful business and destroyed investments they had made.

The court granted a motion by Maryland to dismiss the appeal because of lack of a substantial federal question.

Validity of the law had been upheld by the Maryland Court of Appeals.

Operators of slot machine casinos on the Virginia side of the Potomac River sought to reverse the Maryland court and declare invalid the state law banning their activities.

The law, passed by the 1958 Maryland Legislature, bans gambling devices which cannot be reached by foot from Maryland soil. It was aimed at the operators who ran slot machines on piers jutting into the Maryland-owned Potomac River from Virginia's shore.

Virginia law bans slots, but they are legal in several Maryland counties. Virginia officials objected to the Maryland-licensed slots operating off the Colonial Beach, Va. area.

Counsel for the gambling casinos contended the Maryland law violated the U. S. Constitution's 14th Amendment.

The appeal said the law denied lot operators equal protection of law by discriminating against them arbitrarily. The appeal also contended that without due process of law, the Maryland act deprived the operators of their liberty to engage in a lawful business and destroyed investments they had made.

Bar Unit Gives State Police "Clean Slate"

BALTIMORE (AP) — A committee of the Maryland Bar Assn. reported Tuesday it found nothing basically wrong with the way the State Police Department is being run.

The report in effect cleared the department's executive officer, Maj. William H. Weber, of mishandling the much publicized case of delayed warrants.

Appointed last month by former Gov. McKeldin, the committee submitted its report to McKeldin's successor, Gov. Tawes.

The investigators reported they found "no deep seated maladministration."

One section of the report dealt with the delayed warrants served on Sidney S. Sappington. One charging the Baltimore contractor with a traffic violation was served after a 14 months' delay and after the Criminal Justice Commission had brought the case to light.

Two others charging reckless driving and drunken driving were dropped.

Maj. Weber had held up service of the warrants for 14 months, an act for which he was commended by a State Police board.

The bar committee concluded that neither Weber nor any other superior officer had taken steps to suppress the Sappington case.

It also pointed out that the Criminal Justice Commission, a private agency supported by the Community Chest, had not charged in its complaint any corrupt motives.

The committee also investigated other charges of irregularities in State Police operations, but found no evidence of improprieties.

Among the complaints were alleged improper use of vehicles for private purposes and transportation of whisky in a State vehicle for use at a cocktail party at Ocean City during a convention of crime detection graduates.

Another complaint was that two unauthorized persons were taken on flights in State Police aircraft.

McKeldin asked the state bar to probe police operations after Col. Elmer F. Munshower, State Police superintendent, requested "a final closing of the matter." Munshower suggested it be aired by an impartial commission.

Circuit Judge John B. Gray of Prince Frederick, president of the bar association, named the study group, headed by Baltimore Attorney Hilary W. Gans. It did not have subpoena powers.

Objectors Rebuffed By Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court Tuesday refused to review a decision that the University of Maryland may deny admission to conscientious objectors who refuse to take military training.

The decision was given by the Maryland Court of Appeals in litigation begun by Kenneth George Hanauer, Baltimore, and Jack A. Crabill, Greenbelt, Md.

The court announced its action in a brief order which noted that Justices Black and Douglas dissented. The order said the appeal by the two students was dismissed.

Hanauer and Crabill were classified as conscientious objectors by their draft boards. They served more than two years in civilian work, under the draft laws.

The university as a land grant college received federal funds under the Morrill Act. That act requires the university to offer a course in military training. University regulations require male students to take a two-year basic course provided by the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps. Veterans are exempted. Hanauer and Crabill contended they should have the same exemption as veterans.

Possible Uranium Strike Reported Near Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP)—Frank Giampaoli is as excited as a kid at Christmas out at his farm off busy Washington Boulevard. He thinks he's found a hillside of uranium ore.

Clarence L. Kemper, a contractor who discovered the soft, dark green rock, has been "digging in this stuff more or less all winter" while scooping a new channel for a creek that runs through Giampaoli's property.

Kemper, fascinated by the mineral deposits along the creek, took a sample to a government mining expert at College Park last Friday. A geiger counter began to clock wildly and the expert got interested in where it came from, whether there was more, and so on.

Monday a sand - and - gravel man and part-time prospector, Edward (Zeke) Roberts, brought his geiger counter over to the farm. The needle jumped all over the dial.

Kemper plans to bring a sample to the State Office of Geology, Mines and Water Resources in Baltimore for definite assay tests. Friends, meanwhile, are having samples tested at General Electric and DuPont laboratories.

"Prospecting for Uranium," a pamphlet published by the Atomic Energy Commission and the Coast and Geodetic Survey, says the government will give a $10,000 bonus for delivery of the first 20 tons of high-grade ore from a new strike.

The ore must contain at least 20 per cent uranium oxide—U308—to be eligible.

The government also pays $3.50 a pound for uranium-bearing ores and "mechanical concentrates"—less the cost of refining it to acceptable standards of purity.

The 117-acre farm is about 13 miles from Baltimore. Giampaoli, 69, moved there in 1898—the year of the Klondike Gold Rush.

"We've been repairing the road with truckloads of the stuff," said Kemper.

"Gold is where you find it," said Roberts.

A uranium strike would be rare in this part of the country, although it has been discovered in the East, including New Jersey and New York state.

Most of the precious ore in this country has been dug up in western states.

Revenuers Kept Busy Last Year

BALTIMORE (AP) — Almost 100,000 gallons of mash for moonshine whisky went down the drain in Maryland during the last fiscal year, as revenuers put the ax to illegal stills.

The Alcoholic Beverages Division of the Comptroller's Office said this was more than double the 47,660 gallons of the previous year. The division's enforcement unit raided 59 illegal stills during the year ended June 30, 1958, representing a loss to the state of $187,765 in excise taxes.

Hearing Scheduled

BALTIMORE (AP)—A hearing is set for Friday on a request by the Baltimore Gas and Electric Co. that a recent ruling on its rate increase be clarified.

Judge Joseph L. Carter, who set the hearing date Tuesday, ruled last week that the Gas and Electric rate hike granted by the Public Service Commission last August was calculated incorrectly.

People's Counsel has asked for an order requiring refund of excess rates charged since then.

14-Year-Old Mother Names Second Twin

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 14-year-old mother named her second twin boy Tuesday as the hospital reported both "coming along satisfactorily."

Clarence Matthew was the name chosen by Mrs. Richard W. Gordon, who gave birth to the twins Monday in Lutheran Hospital. At the time, she and her 17-year-old husband, unemployed, had only one name ready—Richard William Jr.

Both babies were in incubators today. Richard weighed 3 pounds 9 ounces and Clarence 3 pounds 2 ounces.

Widow Of Editor Apparent Suicide

CHESTERTOWN, Md. (AP) — The body of Mrs. Addie H. Usilton, widow of long-time Kent News editor Fred G. Usilton, was found Tuesday in the Chester River.

Oldtown Club Sees Home Film

A movie, "Your Home as You Like It," was shown by Gary Nixon and Floyd Wolfe, at the meeting of the Oldtown Homemakers Club. It was held in the school cafeteria, with Mrs. Marie Twigg presiding. The group repeated the collect in unison. The hymn, "Our God, Our Help in Ages Past," was dedicated in memory of Miss Maude A. Bean former home demonstration agent, who died February 3 in David City, Neb.

Roll call was answered by reading the verse on exchange valentines. Antique valentines were displayed by Mrs. Sadie Athey and Miss Mabel Twigg. Mrs. Margaret Carder gave a reading, "Will You Be My Valentine?" which said the first Valentine was composed as a farewell note February 14, 270, by a young Roman named Valentine, on the day of his execution as a Christian. It was said Valentine wore an amethyst ring, on which was engraved Cupid, the Greek god of love, so Cupid became associated with St. Valentine's day.

Routine reports were given by Mrs. Lillian Confer and Mrs. Rose Lewis. A covered dish luncheon was served and a candy sale was held. Miss Vicki Twigg, a guest and 14 members attended. Overabundance Of Tax Revenue Threw Budgets Of Presidents Arthur, Cleveland Out Of Kilter

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chester A. Arthur and Grover Cleveland faced presidential problems that were unique, and almost comical, by today's standards.

Every president, from Washington to Eisenhower, has fretted over the unbalanced budget. But Arthur and Cleveland found theirs out of kilter because tax money poured in too fast—and there was no way to shut it off.

This strange overabundance of money is discussed in a new book just out: "Federal Budget and Fiscal Policy 1789-1958," by Lewis H. Kimmel, published by Brookings Institution.

Kimmel is on the staff at Brookings, an independent organization that does research in social science.

However strange it may seem today, to Arthur and Cleveland the problem was real.

This was before the days of income tax, and most of the nation's expense money came from customs duties. But hardly anyone wanted the tariffs cut.

Arthur glumly looked at the rosy fiscal picture. "Swollen revenues," he said, lead to extravagant spending, "the bane of an overflowing treasury."

Cleveland went a step further. If the national government is extravagant, it "begets extravagance among the people."

Therefore, Cleveland said in 1887, "present tariff laws, the vicious, inequitable, and illogical source of unnecessary taxation," and "ought to be revised and amended."

In the existing profitable situation, Cleveland said the public treasury "becomes a hoarding place for money needlessly withdrawn from trade and the people's use, thus crippling our national energies, suspending our country's development, preventing investment in productive enterprise, threatening financial disturbance, and inviting schemes of public plunder."

Under the scary conditions, it seems almost providential that harder times were soon coming.

Kimmel digs out many a nugget from the fiscal mines.

Do you know who was the first economy president? Thomas Jefferson.

"I am for a government rigorously frugal and simple," Jefferson said. "I place economy among the first and most important of republican virutes, and public debt as the greatest of dangers to be feared."

But Jefferson was no match for a more recent president.

"I am for economy," Calvin Coolidge said. "After that I am for more economy."

Only one president ever took office when this nation was free of debt. That was Martin Van Buren, who became president in 1837.

Until recently, the government's position during a depression was relatively simple. It was to whack its own costs in every way possible.

Even Franklin D. Roosevelt, who later advocated pump priming, was saying in 1933: "Too often in recent history liberal governments have been wrecked on the rocks of loose fiscal policy." Government costs should be cut he said.

Let's end this on a note from the Coolidge era—and a club to be called the "Loyal Order of Woodpeckers."

Coolidge's budget director, Gen. H. M. Lord, said glowingly of the new club: "All hail to the Loyal Order of Woodpeckers, whose persistent tapping away at waste will make cheerful music in government offices and workshops during the coming year. I am confident if these things be done, the humble woodpecker will be given place in history as symbol of a great national thrift crusade."

It may be just a coincidence, but you don't see many woodpeckers around this town any more.

Duke Of Edinburgh Not Very Free Man

SINGAPORE (AP) — The Duke of Edinburgh isn't a very free man, he said Monday.

Speaking at a dinner, he referred to Singapore's new constitution giving the colony selfrule, then joked:

"I have had very little experience of self-government. In fact, I'm one of the most governed people in the world."

The duke, on a tour of the Far East, was the guest of Prime Minister Lim Yew Hock.

The subject of his lecture: Acute backaches.

He didn't make it.

Dr. Herschenson was taken to St. John's Hospital over the weekend. The diagnosis: Acute backache.

Makarios Says Cyprus Won't Join NATO

By R. R. BUCKINGHAM

LONDON (UPI) — Archbishop Makarios of Cyprus, father of his country, said Monday the newly-carved island republic would shun membership in NATO and probably would have some Communist representation in its National Assembly.

The Greek Orthodox churchman who expected to become first president of the Mediterranean island nation, predicted a "great role" in the future for Col. George Grivas, the semi-legendary Greek Cypriot EOKA underground leader who had a $23,000 price on his head.

In an interview at his suite in the Dorchester Hotel here, the 45-year-old bearded churchman said he would accept the presidency of Cyprus if offered, but would not seek the post.

Speaking in English, which he learned at Boston University in 1946-47, the archbishop said he was as surprised as anyone by the British - Greek - Turkish decision to end the bloodstained Cyprus problem by granting the island independence within 12 months.

He said he though the United States exerted behind-the-scenes pressure to bring about a settlement.

Although Britain has reserved for itself two small military bases on the island, the archbishop said flatly that Cyprus would not become a member of NATO. It would seek only membership in the United Nations, he said.

Asked whether Communists would be represented in the assembly, he replied that he "earnestly wished" unity of the people "irrespective of political or social ideologies."

"In the idoelogical sphere we stand firmly for freedom and independence for all peoples and on the principles of democracy within the framework of international morality."

His dark beard now tinged with gray, the Orthodox churchman said his wish was to return to purely religious duties.

"But I would not refuse my services to the people of Cyprus if they were needed," he said.

A herring dies at almost the instant it is lifted out of the water.

Something New Found In Heavens

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Astronomers have found something new in the skies. They think it might be a "neutron star" weighing millions of tons to the square inch.

Whatever they've found, the scientists say it appears to be "a new stellar object" of a kind never before observed.

They are now aiming radio telescopes in its direction to try to pick up signals from the hot gases thrown off by its explosion, which occurred sometime between August of 1954 and November of 1958. The explosion was photographed during that interval but between last November and Jan. 12 this year it disappeared from telescopic view.

Dr. Fritz Zwicky of the California Institute of Technology has predicted the existence of neutron stars but none has ever been observed before. He theorized that forces of contraction in some dying stars becomes so great the atoms are crushed to the dimensions of their nuclei.

In a neutron star, atoms lose nearly all of their volume, but retain all of their mass. This nuclear matter would weigh on the order of 100 million tons per cubic inch, Dr. Geoffrey Keller of the National Science Foundation estimated.

A kind of dying star called a white dwarf which attains densities of 10 to 20 tons or more per cub inch is familiar to astronomers. But white dwarfs are fluffy compared to a neutron star.

The band on a man's hat is a relic of the days when a knight would tie his lady's scarf around his helmet.

Overabundance Of Tax Revenue Threw Budgets Of Presidents Arthur, Cleveland Out Of Kilter

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chester A. Arthur and Grover Cleveland faced presidential problems that were unique, and almost comical, by today's standards.

Every president, from Washington to Eisenhower, has fretted over the unbalanced budget. But Arthur and Cleveland found theirs out of kilter because tax money poured in too fast—and there was no way to shut it off.

This strange overabundance of money is discussed in a new book just out: "Federal Budget and Fiscal Policy 1789-1958," by Lewis H. Kimmel, published by Brookings Institution.

Kimmel is on the staff at Brookings, an independent organization that does research in social science.

However strange it may seem today, to Arthur and Cleveland the problem was real.

This was before the days of income tax, and most of the nation's expense money came from customs duties. But hardly anyone wanted the tariffs cut.

Arthur glumly looked at the rosy fiscal picture. "Swollen revenues," he said, lead to extravagant spending, "the bane of an overflowing treasury."

Cleveland went a step further. If the national government is extravagant, it "begets extravagance among the people."

Therefore, Cleveland said in 1887, "present tariff laws, the vicious, inequitable, and illogical source of unnecessary taxation," and "ought to be revised and amended."

In the existing profitable situation, Cleveland said the public treasury "becomes a hoarding place for money needlessly withdrawn from trade and the people's use, thus crippling our national energies, suspending our country's development, preventing investment in productive enterprise, threatening financial disturbance, and inviting schemes of public plunder."

Under the scary conditions, it seems almost providential that harder times were soon coming.

Kimmel digs out many a nugget from the fiscal mines.

Do you know who was the first economy president? Thomas Jefferson.

"I am for a government rigorously frugal and simple," Jefferson said. "I place economy among the first and most important of republican virutes, and public debt as the greatest of dangers to be feared."

But Jefferson was no match for a more recent president.

"I am for economy," Calvin Coolidge said. "After that I am for more economy."

Only one president ever took office when this nation was free of debt. That was Martin Van Buren, who became president in 1837.

Until recently, the government's position during a depression was relatively simple. It was to whack its own costs in every way possible.

Even Franklin D. Roosevelt, who later advocated pump priming, was saying in 1933: "Too often in recent history liberal governments have been wrecked on the rocks of loose fiscal policy." Government costs should be cut he said.

Let's end this on a note from the Coolidge era—and a club to be called the "Loyal Order of Woodpeckers."

Coolidge's budget director, Gen. H. M. Lord, said glowingly of the new club: "All hail to the Loyal Order of Woodpeckers, whose persistent tapping away at waste will make cheerful music in government offices and workshops during the coming year. I am confident if these things be done, the humble woodpecker will be given place in history as symbol of a great national thrift crusade."

It may be just a coincidence, but you don't see many woodpeckers around this town any more.

Duke Of Edinburgh Not Very Free Man

SINGAPORE (AP) — The Duke of Edinburgh isn't a very free man, he said Monday.

Speaking at a dinner, he referred to Singapore's new constitution giving the colony selfrule, then joked:

"I have had very little experience of self-government. In fact, I'm one of the most governed people in the world."

The duke, on a tour of the Far East, was the guest of Prime Minister Lim Yew Hock.

The subject of his lecture: Acute backaches.

He didn't make it.

Dr. Herschenson was taken to St. John's Hospital over the weekend. The diagnosis: Acute backache.

Makarios Says Cyprus Won't Join NATO

By R. R. BUCKINGHAM

LONDON (UPI) — Archbishop Makarios of Cyprus, father of his country, said Monday the newly-carved island republic would shun membership in NATO and probably would have some Communist representation in its National Assembly.

The Greek Orthodox churchman who expected to become first president of the Mediterranean island nation, predicted a "great role" in the future for Col. George Grivas, the semi-legendary Greek Cypriot EOKA underground leader who had a $23,000 price on his head.

In an interview at his suite in the Dorchester Hotel here, the 45-year-old bearded churchman said he would accept the presidency of Cyprus if offered, but would not seek the post.

Speaking in English, which he learned at Boston University in 1946-47, the archbishop said he was as surprised as anyone by the British - Greek - Turkish decision to end the bloodstained Cyprus problem by granting the island independence within 12 months.

He said he though the United States exerted behind-the-scenes pressure to bring about a settlement.

Although Britain has reserved for itself two small military bases on the island, the archbishop said flatly that Cyprus would not become a member of NATO. It would seek only membership in the United Nations, he said.

Asked whether Communists would be represented in the assembly, he replied that he "earnestly wished" unity of the people "irrespective of political or social ideologies."

"In the idoelogical sphere we stand firmly for freedom and independence for all peoples and on the principles of democracy within the framework of international morality."

His dark beard now tinged with gray, the Orthodox churchman said his wish was to return to purely religious duties.

"But I would not refuse my services to the people of Cyprus if they were needed," he said.

A herring dies at almost the instant it is lifted out of the water.

Something New Found In Heavens

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Astronomers have found something new in the skies. They think it might be a "neutron star" weighing millions of tons to the square inch.

Whatever they've found, the scientists say it appears to be "a new stellar object" of a kind never before observed.

They are now aiming radio telescopes in its direction to try to pick up signals from the hot gases thrown off by its explosion, which occurred sometime between August of 1954 and November of 1958. The explosion was photographed during that interval but between last November and Jan. 12 this year it disappeared from telescopic view.

Dr. Fritz Zwicky of the California Institute of Technology has predicted the existence of neutron stars buf none has ever been observed before. He theorized that forces of contraction in some dying stars becomes so great the atoms are crushed to the dimensions of their nuclei.

In a neutron star, atoms lose nearly all of their volume, but retain all of their mass. This nu clear matter would weigh on the order of 100 million tons per cubic inch, Dr. Geoffrey Keller of the National Science Foundation estimated.

A kind of dying star called a white dwarf which attains densities of 10 to 20 tons or more per cub inch is familiar to astronomers. But white dwarfs are fluffy compared to a neutron star.

The band on a man's hat is a relic of the days when a knight would tie his lady's scarf around his helmet.

Former Union Official Here Is Assaulted

Boyd E. Payton, a former official of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union, was knocked unconscious early yesterday in an incident of violence that has marked a strike at a North Carolina cotton mill plant.

Payton, who now resides at Charlotte, N. C., is a director of the Textile Workers Union and is the Carolinas area representative of the TWUA.

He has been in Henderson, N. C., where two plants of the Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills have been on strike since last November. Payton was found unconscious in his motel quarters there, and authorities surmise that he was struck on the head with a pop bottle after being called to the door of his quarters shortly after midnight.

About midnight, unidentified persons dragged Payton from his motel room, and beat him savagely with a soft drink bottle. Payton suffered serious head injuries and was left unconscious in a pool of blood. He was reported satisfactory.

The attack on Payton added to the strife on the picket lines, and stonings continued despite police re-inforcements. Non-strikers were taunted and threatened.

Assault charges were brought against nearly a score of strikers. A third dynamiting incident in connection with the strike occurred Monday and a non-striker's car was overturned by a crowd of strikers.

There has been sporadic, mostly minor violence since the mills re-opened a week ago after being shut down by the strike since Nov. 17. The company invited strikers to return to their jobs and Monday announced it would begin hiring new employes to replace those strikers who refused. The strike was called in a dispute over an arbitration clause in the contract.

About 1,200 workers were affected. The mills are an economic mainstay of the town of 12,000 located 40 miles north of Raleigh. The strike wiped out an estimated weekly payroll of $60,000.

The union claimed 98 per cent of workers. Tuesday Mills President John D. Cooper estimated one shift was working at about 50 per cent efficiency with some 200 new employes and returning strikers.

The dynamitings last week and Monday did minor damage in the yards of the homes of non-strikers. Some windows were broken, but there were no injuries. Both the union and company offered $1,000 rewards for conviction of those responsible.

The former Amcelle plant worker Monday described the town of Henderson an "armed camp." He has been broadcasting hourly paid appeals for calmness, union spokesmen said.

Sheriff E. A. Cottrell said his officers had it somewhat easier with the crowd yesterday because of highway patrol reinforcements sent in by Gov. Luther Hodges at the request of Mayor Carroll V. Singleton.

James N. Roberson was arrested Tuesday outside the North Henderson plant when about 15 persons attempted to overturn a car bearing workers. Roberson was charged with simple assault.

LE HAVRE, France (UPI) — The retired French liner Ile de France is scheduled to leave here on its final voyage Thursday. A 67-man Japanese crew took formal possession of the 33-year-old luxury ship Monday. It will be sailed to Osaka, Japan, via Suez for demolition.

County School Absenteeism Is Variable

The absenteeism picture in Allegany County schools remained "confused" yesterday with some schools reporting a sharp increase in the number of stay-at-homes due to the "flu" and others noting a decline.

A third of the enrollment at Allegany High was absent yesterday and the figure grew higher as the day advanced and students became ill and went home. With an enrollment of 1,650, Allegany had 540 absent. The normal total is about 50. Monday 377 were absent.

At Fort Hill the total at home rose from 365 Monday to 442 yesterday. The enrollment is 1,800 and the normal figure is 125.

Bruce School at Westernport had 177 out yesterday. The normal figure is 25 in an enrollment of 690.

Beall High which has an enrollment of 900 had 68 out yesterday. The norma' is 40. However, a number is believed to have stayed home due to the icy condition of the streets.

At Valley High in Lonaconing the figure went up from Monday's 146 to 168. The normal is 35 in an enrollment of 700.

However, at Mt. Savage the worst appears to be over. Only 130 out of 758 were absent at Mt. Savage yesterday, compared to 225 Monday and 360 Friday.

Absenteeism at Columbia Street was down yesterday to 46 from Monday's 55; at Gephart it dropped from 25 to 16; at Hill Street, Frostburg, from 28 to 24; and at West Side from 54 to 51.

Mt. Royal went up from 39 to 46 and Corriganville remains steady with 51 Monday and 50 yesterday.

LaVale had 25 out yesterday as compared to a normal of 16; Beall Elementary had 114 out while the normal is 15.

The Hyndman-Mt. Savage basketball game at Hyndman last night was cancelled at Hyndman's request when 103 out of an enrollment of 310 were absent. The normal figure is 15.

Three Wills Admitted To Probate Here

Three wills were admitted to probate yesterday in Orphans Court.

The will of J. Milton Hawk, city, who died February 11 named his daughter, Thelma E. Uhl, as executrix and beneficiary. The will of Annie Lewis, Eckhart, who died January 3, named her son, Reuben O. Lewis, Eckhart, as executor. Her four children, Reuben, Harry B., Charles and Alice L. Solt were named beneficiaries.

The will of Vincent J. Rieg, who died February 14 named his stepson, James B. Harden, 11 Centennial Street, as executor and beneficiary.

Driver Forfeits $490 Bond In Court Here

Richard L. Arnold, 27, Christie Road, forfeited a total of $490.90 yesterday in Police and Trial Magistrates courts on two criminal charges and two motor vehicle counts.

The man surrendered at Police Headquarters Sunday night.

He was wanted after Officer Donald Boggs followed him at speeds in excess of 70 miles an hour on Henderson Avenue and out Baltimore Pike.

Officer Boggs said the speeds were so great that the police cruiser became overheated and had to be towed back to Cumberland.

Banks May Collect County Tax

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday discussed a proposal whereby a program for the collection of county taxes at banks could be instituted.

Commissioner William A. Wilson brought up the subject. He said he has checked into the plan in which banks collect gas and telephone bills for the utility firms. Wilson said that the cost of collecting county taxes would be much less expensive under such a plan and would also be more convenient for many taxpayers.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said that there are certain matters in connection with such a plan which should be delved into before any action is taken. He said he agreed it has merits and probably would save quite a bit of money.

Commissioner John Tucker Mason said that legislation would probably be required to start such a plan. Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the board, said there are legal aspects of the matter which would have to be gone over thoroughly. He said that the collection of utility bills by banks is different in that these are not public funds.

Wilson said that perhaps the legislation could be written as an enabling act which would still allow the county to operate under present laws if such procedure had to be followed. It might be possible to use both plans, he said, as there are no banks in areas such as the eastern part of the county. In these areas a tax collector could visit on schedule and collect taxes.

Clark was instructed to check into the legal question posed by the proposal.

Bridge Renaming Delay Explained

A delay in the renaming of the "Blue Bridge" to George Washington's Crossing was explained in a letter to the Mayor and Council Monday from Norman Pritchett, chief engineer for the Maryland State Roads Commission.

Pritchett said the request must also be approved by the West Virginia SRC, and that he had not yet received an answer to the name changing from Patrick Graney, chairman of the West Virginia unit.

Driver Forfeits $490 Bond In Court Here

Richard L. Arnold, 27, Christie Road, forfeited a total of $490.90 yesterday in Police and Trial Magistrates courts on two criminal charges and two motor vehicle counts.

The man surrendered at Police Headquarters Sunday night.

He was wanted after Officer Donald Boggs followed him at speeds in excess of 70 miles an hour on Henderson Avenue and out Baltimore Pike.

Officer Boggs said the speeds were so great that the police cruiser became overheated and had to be towed back to Cumberland.

Banks May Collect County Tax

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday discussed a proposal whereby a program for the collection of county taxes at banks could be instituted.

Commissioner William A. Wilson brought up the subject. He said he has checked into the plan in which banks collect gas and telephone bills for the utility firms. Wilson said that the cost of collecting county taxes would be much less expensive under such a plan and would also be more convenient for many taxpayers.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said that there are certain matters in connection with such a plan which should be delved into before any action is taken. He said he agreed it has merits and probably would save quite a bit of money.

Commissioner John Tucker Mason said that legislation would probably be required to start such a plan. Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the board, said there are legal aspects of the matter which would have to be gone over thoroughly. He said that the collection of utility bills by banks is different in that these are not public funds.

Wilson said that perhaps the legislation could be written as an enabling act which would still allow the county to operate under present laws if such procedure had to be followed. It might be possible to use both plans, he said, as there are no banks in areas such as the eastern part of the county. In these areas a tax collector could visit on schedule and collect taxes.

Clark was instructed to check into the legal question posed by the proposal.

Bridge Renaming Delay Explained

A delay in the renaming of the "Blue Bridge" to George Washington's Crossing was explained in a letter to the Mayor and Council Monday from Norman Pritchett, chief engineer for the Maryland State Roads Commission.

Pritchett said the request must also be approved by the West Virginia SRC, and that he had not yet received an answer to the name changing from Patrick Graney, chairman of the West Virginia unit.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday by unanimous action approved an amendment to the Civil Service Commission regulations providing that all county employes who are 70 or over must retire as of May 1.

The change in the regulation becomes effective April 1 and employes who are over 70 on that date must retire within 30 days.

The new regulation affects only three workers of whom the board is aware. They are William Bishop and Joseph Cook, clerks in the Trial Magistrates Court in Cumberland and Lloyd Mullin, elevator operator at the Court House.

The three men are all over 70 years of age and must retire under the regulations approved yesterday.

Joseph Cook, the court clerk, has been absent from work recently due to illness. To fill the job in the meantime, the board has unanimously appointed Howard P. Loughrie as temporary clerk for the court. His pay will be based on $2,700 annually for the position.

Loughrie, a former U.S. deputy marshal who was a candidate on the Democratic ticket for sheriff in last November's general election, resides in Cumberland. He is a veteran of World War I.

W.Va. Senate Passes Highway User Tax Bills

Measures Increase Gas, License Fees

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Senate approved $7,800,000 worth of highway user tax bills Tuesday and the House of Delegates — by - passing its hostile Finance Committee —put them in position for possible enactment Thursday.

The three measures would boost the gasoline tax by one - cent a gallon to seven cents and increase motor vehicle and drivers' license fees. Respective yield of new revenue is $4,500,000, $2,400,000 and $300,000.

Senate approval was given by large to overwhelming majorities after relatively little debate. The gasoline tax bill passed 24-8, the motor vehicle registration bill 28-4 and the drivers' license measure, to raise the fee from $1 for four years to $1.25 a year, by 33-1. None of the votes was along party lines.

The Senate met at 10 a. m., three hours earlier than usual, to make sure its action could be reported to the House at its afternoon session.

When they arrived in the House at 4:15 p. m., Majority Leader T. E. Myles asked unanimous consent that committee reference be dispensed with.

The Senate passed 16 other bills mostly minor but including House approved measures that:

—Allow the Road Commission to reissue $5,000,000 in revolving bonds under the 1920 Good Roads Amendment to the constitution.

—Make parents liable for up to $300 for damage caused by forest fires set by their children.

Moved up to a final Senate vote Wednesday was a bill providing for a $50-per-semester "entrance fee" on students at state colleges and the University. The Senate Finance Committee, in approving it Monday, estimated it would raise $3,120,000 for building projects and faculty salaries.

The House defeated for a second time a Senate - approved bill to allow municipalities to collect special charges for street lighting and maintenance. It was voted down last Friday, reconsidered Monday and killed again Tuesday by a 50-38 margin after being amended.

Passed by the House and sent to the Senate were bills to:

—Reverse strip mining laws, especially sections dealing with reclamation of stripped land.

—Allow a judge to impose a 1-to-5 year prison sentence on a hunter convicted of negligent shooting of another person.

—Make bribery or attempted bribery of any county official a felony. It was brought out recently that not all officials are covered by present bribery statutes.

—Provide a fine of $20 to $500 for persons who dump refuse or litter in state streams.

Bill Permits State To Join Oil Commission

OAKLAND — State Sen. Bernard I. Gonder (D-Garrett) plans to introduce a joint resolution in the General Assembly to authorize Gov. Tawes to accept an invitation to Maryland to become a member of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission.

Sen. Gonder's decision was hailed by Dr. Joseph T. Singewald Jr., director of the Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources of Maryland in a statement made public over the weekend.

Dr. Singewald said:

"The return of former Sen. Bernard I. Gonder to the Senate was welcome and encouraging news to the natural resources agencies of Maryland and to the citizens of Maryland interested in the orderly development and prudent use of the natural resources of the state, as he had been a stanch supporter of conservation education and practices.

"He has, by his proposal for a joint resolution on the Oil Compact, demonstrated his continued active participation in such efforts.

"The Compact functions as a forum for the interchange of experiences of the oil and gas producing states in the development and exploration of these important natural resources to obtain maximum recovery, to avoid economic waste of drilling unnecessary wells and to achieve equitable recognition of the correlative rights of all landowners within an area underlain by oil or gas.

"The membership of the Compact comprises 29 out of the 33 oil and gas producing states and two other far-sighted and prudent potential oil and gas producing states.

"Disregarding the tested recommendations of the Compact, Maryland permitted the development of the Mountain Lake gas field under the then already outmoded 'law of capture.' Out of more than 100 wells drilled, only 49 produced any gas, less than half of the producing wells produced enough gas to pay for the cost of drilling them, and the total production of gas from this field will not equal the total spent in drilling wells.

"In contrast under control of the 1955 oil and gas law and with regard for the correlative rights of the landowners, 13 of the 14 wells that have been drilled in the Accident field are producing wells and the value of their combined production at the close of 1958 was $700,000 more than the combined production of the 49 wells that produced gas in the Mt. Lake Park field.

"Obviously, it behooves the Legislature to enact the joint resolution to affirm that Maryland will not permit the disaster of the Mountain Lake Park field to be repeated, but will endeavor to have future oil and gas fields developed and exploited in accordance with accepted good practices.

"Sen. Gonder deserves the whole-hearted support of the members of the Legislature in the enactment of the joint resolution authorizing Maryland membership in the Compact."

Sen. Gonder was elected to the Senate last November from Garrett County by defeating incumbent Clifford Friend.

Sales Tax Hike Measure Comes Before Senate

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A bill to increase the state consumers sales tax from two to three percent on sales of $1 or more was among 14 measures introduced in the State Senate Tuesday.

The bill was sponsored by Sens. Wayne Anderson (R - Kanawha) and Joe Handlan (R-Wood). It's designed to raise about $11,000,000 additional revenue.

A similar measure was introduced in the House by Del. Paul Kidd (D - Gilmer). However, it would put the three per cent tax on sales above 50 cents. It would also channel one-half of the additional penny into the state road fund and the remainder into the general revenue fund in support of public schools.

There was no estimate on the yield of the House bill, but it would produce more.

Among eight other House bills and four senate measures introduced was one by Sens. Hans McCourt (D - Webster) and William Moreland (D - Monongalia) to require that trade - in credits be eliminated under the automobile privilege tax where the vehicles were purchased outside the state.

Del. William J. Parker (D-Marion) introduced a bill to assure municipal policemen of a five-day, 40-hour week.

Another measure, by Del. Philip J. Graziani (D-Randolph), would require insurance adjusters to pay a $5 annual license fee to the state insurance commissioner.

Youthful Prisoners' Plan To Escape Is Thwarted

OAKLAND—A planned escape was stopped yesterday by Maryland State Police as a Garrett County deputy sheriff was transporting two prisoners to the Maryland Reformatory in Hagerstown.

Deputy Sheriff Bruce Close of Garrett County and his wife were hauling two 16-year-old youths to the Hagerstown institution when it was learned the youths had a section of pipe in their possession, and were planning to escape.

The youths, John Allen and William E. Clatterbuck, both of Baltimore, were sentenced to two years last week by Judge Neil C. Fraley in Garrett County Circuit Court on a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

The pair had been confined to the state forestry camp at New Germany, and were accused of stealing the automobile of David C. Humbertson. Accident, a counselor at the camp.

Garrett County Sheriff James Frantz said that about 15 minutes after his deputy and prisoners left Oakland at 7 a. m., one of the men confined at the Oakland lockup informed him of the escape plans.

The man told Sheriff Frantz that the youths had lead pipes and were planning on overpowering the deputy and his wife to make an escape.

Sheriff Frantz notified the Maryland State Police and roadblocks were established at Frostburg, Cumberland, Hancock and Hagerstown. All available state police were assigned to U. S. Route 40 and the immediate area in an effort to locate the automobile.

Sheriff Frantz said the car used to transport the prisoners was not equipped with two-way radio. The prisoners, Frantz said, were both handcuffed.

Shortly after 9 a. m., Trooper Harry Garcia of the LaVale barracks stopped the deputy sheriff's car about 20 miles east of Cumberland.

The trooper and Deputy Close searched the youths and found a section of pipe in Allen's jacket.

Deputy Close said the youths had made no attempt to use the weapon.

After taking the pipe away from Allen and checking both youths for other possible weapons the trip to Hagerstown was continued.

Balmy Weather Foils Frostburg Heart Campaign

Unanswered Doors Greet Volunteers

FROSTBURG — Sunday was a day to delight the heart of the songsmith who dreamed up "June In January." It might have inspired a sequel—called, perhaps, "May In February."

But Sunday's balmy breezes failed to delight the hearts of Frostburg's Heart Sunday volunteers. "May In February" upset their well laid plans for the announced door-to-door collection by enticing the town's winter-weary residents into automobiles for an unexpected sampling of spring. There were many—too many — unanswered doorbells when the diligent volunteers made their rounds to collect for the 1959 Heart Fund.

Heart Sunday collectors slipped a record number of "Sorry I Missed You" envelopes under unopened doors.

"Now we urge that all of our town's residents who made their first "spring" excursion into the country Sunday, pick up their mail-in envelopes, pre-addressed to local heart fund headquarters, insert liberal contributions, and promptly drop them into the mail," the Heart Sunday chairman said.

"Only with the earnest cooperation of all Frostburg residents shall we be able now to meet the quota we have set for ourselves in this year's heart fund campaign," she added.

"A large part of the center of town was missed and we urge these people to call OV 9-8811 between 9 and 5 and your donation will be picked up," Mrs. Thomas Jackson, Heart Sunday chairman, said. "After 5 p. m. dial OV 9-6544 and a volunteer worker will call at your home."

The Heart Sunday campaign will continue this week in order that all residents will have a chance to give to this project.

W.Va. Senate Passes Highway User Tax Bills

Measures Increase Gas, License Fees

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Senate approved $7,800,000 worth of highway user tax bills Tuesday and the House of Delegates — by - passing its hostile Finance Committee —put them in position for possible enactment Thursday.

The three measures would boost the gasoline tax by one - cent a gallon to seven cents and increase motor vehicle and drivers' license fees. Respective yield of new revenue is $4,500,000, $2,400,000 and $300,000.

Senate approval was given by large to overwhelming majorities after relatively little debate. The gasoline tax bill passed 24-8, the motor vehicle registration bill 28-4 and the drivers' license measure, to raise the fee from $1 for four years to $1.25 a year, by 33-1. None of the votes was along party lines.

The Senate met at 10 a. m., three hours earlier than usual, to make sure its action could be reported to the House at its afternoon session.

When they arrived in the House at 4:15 p. m., Majority Leader T. E. Myles asked unanimous consent that committee reference be dispensed with.

The Senate passed 16 other bills mostly minor but including House approved measures that:

—Allow the Road Commission to reissue $5,000,000 in revolving bonds under the 1920 Good Roads Amendment to the constitution.

—Make parents liable for up to $300 for damage caused by forest fires set by their children.

Moved up to a final Senate vote Wednesday was a bill providing for a $50-per-semester "entrance fee" on students at state colleges and the University. The Senate Finance Committee, in approving it Monday, estimated it would raise $3,120,000 for building projects and faculty salaries.

The House defeated for a second time a Senate - approved bill to allow municipalities to collect special charges for street lighting and maintenance. It was voted down last Friday, reconsidered Monday and killed again Tuesday by a 50-38 margin after being amended.

Passed by the House and sent to the Senate were bills to:

—Reverse strip mining laws, especially sections dealing with reclamation of stripped land.

—Allow a judge to impose a 1-to-5 year prison sentence on a hunter convicted of negligent shooting of another person.

—Make bribery or attempted bribery of any county official a felony. It was brought out recently that not all officials are covered by present bribery statutes.

—Provide a fine of $20 to $500 for persons who dump refuse or litter in state streams.

Hearing Set For Purchase Of Phone Co.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The Public Service Commission Tuesday set for hearing March 23 an application by the West Side Telephone Co. at Laurel Point, Monongalia County, to purchase the Dunkard Valley Telephone Co.

The purchase price was listed at $7,000. West Side serves some 215 customers in Grant and Cass Districts, Monongalia County, and would apply present rates there to Dunkard's 125 customers at Core.

West Side said it planned to modernize the Dunkard system with a $180,000 loan it has applied for to the Rural Electrification Administration of the Department of Agriculture. New rates would go into effect when the modernization program is completed.

Bill Permits State To Join Oil Commission

OAKLAND — State Sen. Bernard I. Gonder (D-Garrett) plans to introduce a joint resolution in the General Assembly to authorize Gov. Tawes to accept an invitation to Maryland to become a member of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission.

Sen. Gonder's decision was hailed by Dr. Joseph T. Singewald Jr., director of the Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources of Maryland in a statement made public over the weekend.

Dr. Singewald said:

"The return of former Sen. Bernard I. Gonder to the Senate was welcome and encouraging news to the natural resources agencies of Maryland and to the citizens of Maryland interested in the orderly development and prudent use of the natural resources of the state, as he had been a stanch supporter of conservation education and practices.

"He has, by his proposal for a joint resolution on the Oil Compact, demonstrated his continued active participation in such efforts.

"The Compact functions as a forum for the interchange of experiences of the oil and gas producing states in the development and exploration of these important natural resources to obtain maximum recovery, to avoid economic waste of drilling unnecessary wells and to achieve equitable recognition of the correlative rights of all landowners within an area underlain by oil or gas.

"The membership of the Compact comprises 29 out of the 33 oil and gas producing states and two other far-sighted and prudent potential oil and gas producing states.

"Disregarding the tested recommendations of the Compact, Maryland permitted the development of the Mountain Lake gas field under the then already outmoded 'law of capture.' Out of more than 100 wells drilled, only 49 produced any gas, less than half of the producing wells produced enough gas to pay for the cost of drilling them, and the total production of gas from this field will not equal the total spent in drilling wells.

"In contrast under control of the 1955 oil and gas law and with regard for the correlative rights of the landowners, 13 of the 14 wells that have been drilled in the Accident field are producing wells and the value of their combined production at the close of 1958 was $700,000 more than the combined production of the 49 wells that produced gas in the Mt. Lake Park field.

"Obviously, it behooves the Legislature to enact the joint resolution to affirm that Maryland will not permit the disaster of the Mountain Lake Park field to be repeated, but will endeavor to have future oil and gas fields developed and exploited in accordance with accepted good practices.

"Sen. Gonder deserves the whole-hearted support of the members of the Legislature in the enactment of the joint resolution authorizing Maryland membership in the Compact."

Sen. Gonder was elected to the Senate last November from Garrett County by defeating incumbent Clifford Friend.

Sales Tax Hike Measure Comes Before Senate

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A bill to increase the state consumers sales tax from two to three percent on sales of $1 or more was among 14 measures introduced in the State Senate Tuesday.

The bill was sponsored by Sens. Wayne Anderson (R - Kanawha) and Joe Handlan (R-Wood). It's designed to raise about $11,000,000 additional revenue.

A similar measure was introduced in the House by Del. Paul Kidd (D - Gilmer). However, it would put the three per cent tax on sales above 50 cents. It would also channel one-half of the additional penny into the state road fund and the remainder into the general revenue fund in support of public schools.

There was no estimate on the yield of the House bill, but it would produce more.

Among eight other House bills and four senate measures introduced was one by Sens. Hans McCourt (D - Webster) and William Moreland (D - Monongalia) to require that trade - in credits be eliminated under the automobile privilege tax where the vehicles were purchased outside the state.

Del. William J. Parker (D-Marion) introduced a bill to assure municipal policemen of a five-day, 40-hour week.

Another measure, by Del. Philip J. Graziani (D-Randolph), would require insurance adjusters to pay a $5 annual license fee to the state insurance commissioner.

The Lions Club will provide the usual transportation from the adjoining areas and communities.

Youthful Prisoners' Plan To Escape Is Thwarted

OAKLAND—A planned escape was stopped yesterday by Maryland State Police as a Garrett County deputy sheriff was transporting two prisoners to the Maryland Reformatory in Hagerstown.

Deputy Sheriff Bruce Close of Garrett County and his wife were hauling two 16-year-old youths to the Hagerstown institution when it was learned the youths had a section of pipe in their possession, and were planning to escape.

The youths, John Allen and William E. Clatterbuck, both of Baltimore, were sentenced to two years last week by Judge Neil C. Fraley in Garrett County Circuit Court on a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

The pair had been confined to the state forestry camp at New Germany, and were accused of stealing the automobile of David C. Humbertson, Accident, a counselor at the camp.

Garrett County Sheriff James Frantz said that about 15 minutes after his deputy and prisoners left Oakland at 7 a. m., one of the men confined at the Oakland lockup informed him of the escape plans.

The man told Sheriff Frantz that the youths had lead pipes and were planning on overpowering the deputy and his wife to make an escape.

Sheriff Frantz notified the Maryland State Police and roadblocks were established at Frostburg, Cumberland, Hancock and Hagerstown. All available state police were assigned to U. S. Route 40 and the immediate area in an effort to locate the automobile.

Sheriff Frantz said the car used to transport the prisoners was not equipped with two-way radio. The prisoners, Frantz said, were both handcuffed.

Shortly after 9 a. m., Trooper Harry Garcia of the LaVale barracks stopped the deputy sheriff's car about 20 miles east of Cumberland.

The trooper and Deputy Close searched the youths and found a section of pipe in Allen's jacket.

Deputy Close said the youths had made no attempt to use the weapon.

After taking the pipe away from Allen and checking both youths for other possible weapons the trip to Hagerstown was continued.

Balmy Weather Foils Frostburg Heart Campaign

Unanswered Doors Greet Volunteers

FROSTBURG — Sunday was a day to delight the heart of the songsmith who dreamed up "June In January." It might have inspired a sequel—called, perhaps, "May In February."

But Sunday's balmy breezes failed to delight the hearts of Frostburg's Heart Sunday volunteers. "May In February" upset their well laid plans for the announced door-to-door collection by enticing the town's winter-weary residents into automobiles for an unexpected sampling of spring. There were many—too many — unanswered doorbells when the diligent volunteers made their rounds to collect for the 1959 Heart Fund.

Heart Sunday collectors slipped a record number of "Sorry I Missed You" envelopes under unopened doors.

"Now we urge that all of our town's residents who made their first "spring" excursion into the country Sunday, pick up their mail-in envelopes, pre-addressed to local heart fund headquarters, insert liberal contributions, and promptly drop them into the mail," the Heart Sunday chairman said.

"Only with the earnest cooperation of all Frostburg residents shall we be able now to meet the quota we have set for ourselves in this year's heart fund campaign," she added.

"A large part of the center of town was missed and we urge these people to call OV 9-8811 between 9 and 5 and your donation will be picked up," Mrs. Thomas Jackson, Heart Sunday chairman, said. "After 5 p. m. dial OV 9-6544 and a volunteer worker will call at your home."

The Heart Sunday campaign will continue this week in order that all residents will have a chance to give to this project.

Barton Fire Co. Has 40th Anniversary

BARTON — The 40th anniversary of the Barton Hose Company was celebrated with a dinner Friday evening at the new fire hall.

Women of the Presbyterian Church served the dinner to the firemen, wives and auxiliary members. A check for $300 was presented to the volunteer fire company by the auxiliary.

Wilbur "Farmer" Johnson, president of the company, extended greetings and expressed appreciation in behalf of the company for the assistance of the auxiliary unit.

Rev. James Eakin, pastor of the Barton Presbyterian church, offered the invocation and Rev. Saylor Wampler, minister of the Pekin Methodist Church, gave the benediction. Mrs. Lulu Llewellyn, president of the auxiliary, gave the check and spoke in behalf of her group.

Following the dinner a social hour was held at the firemen's armory.

Conference Set For Managers Of Restaurants

Restaurant sanitation will be discussed at a meeting planned March 6 at 2 p. m. in the Health Department training center in the Union Street County Building.

Some 30 restaurant and tavern operators have been asked to attend, according to Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer.

Sanitation problems in the establishments will be discussed, he added.

In issuing bids to the session, the Health Department pointed out that permits and licenses will be subject to renewal on May 1.

Dr. van Strien told the operators the meeting will provide an opportunity for discussion of any questions they might have in regard to the correction of any sub-standard inspection items.

At present, the Health Department licenses about 290 eating and drinking establishments and is working to boost Allegany County s restaurant rating.

A survey made by the State Health Department last fall resulted in a rating of 46.3 per cent, which is below the national average.

Considerable progress is expected when the 1959 survey is conducted.

New First Graders Register March 12, 13

Children who will enter the first grade in Allegany County public schools next September will be registered at their respective schools on Thursday and Friday, March 12 and 13, from 3:30 until 5 p. m., according to Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel.

Children who will be six years old on or before December 31, 1959, are eligible to enroll as first graders. Each principal will report to Mr. Higgins' office on the children who are vaccinated.

Parents are being requested to contact their own physician or the Health Department, PA 2-3011, so that a time and place for vaccination can be arranged. Those who are not vaccinated will be excluded from school when classes start in September. Between 1,100 and 1,200 first graders are expected to enroll.

TV Collections Total $9,000

Directors of the Cresaptown Community TV Association were told last night that collections are about at the $9,000 mark and that another $2,000 of pledges have been made.

John Yoder, vice president, announced that the next meeting will be held March 3 at 7:30 p. m. in the Allegany Beagle Club, attended by the steering committee and solicitors.

Zoning Appeal Set

The Board of Zoning Appeals will meet Thursday at 8 p. m. in City Hall to hear the appeal of Frederick Graziani, 112 Seymour Street, to occupy a building at 8 Pennsylvania Avenue as a paint shop.

College Budget? Maybe Next Year

Joseph M. Miller, a member of the Allegany County Board of Education, gave the Board of County Commissioners some food for future thought yesterday.

When he accompanied Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster to the Court House he suggested that in another year the county commissioners might be considering a budget for the establishment of a junior college in Cumberland.

The Board of Education had a briefing on the junior college plan at its January 13 meeting. At that time, Dr. Harold D. Reese, supervisor of teacher and higher education for the State Department of Education, discussed the possibility of establishing a junior college here. He explained that existing high school facilities could be used at the beginning. Experience has shown that expenses are divided about equally three ways. The state, county and students each pay about one-third of the cost.

Dr. Reese submitted a report in the fall of 1957 recommending the establishment of a junior college here. That was the result of a survey requested in a resolution adopted that year by the General Assembly in Annapolis.

City Health Board To Meet March 2

The City Board of Health will meet Monday, March 2, at 1:30 p. m. in the office of Mayor J. Edwin Keech, chairman.

The agenda for the meeting includes discussions on the county dog law, the third public housing project, proposed sanitary districts, restaurant control in the city, air pollution and the pigeon and starling nuisance.

Obscene Book

About 71 girls from the Barrett School for Negro girls would be transferred to Montrose upon the abandonment of Barrett because of a proposed expansion of nearby Friendship Airport.

Earlier Tawes signed into law a bill which will mean higher contributions from some employers to the unemployment compensation fund but will preserve the advantage given to employers with low rates of layoffs.

The fund had been so depleted by last year's economic slump that, without this legislation, all employers would have been required to pay into the fund at the highest possible rate.

3-Year Limitation

The Senate enacted and sent to Tawes a bill aimed at relieving some 30,000 drivers from high automobile insurance premiums. It would provide that drivers whose licenses have been revoked and later reinstated would have to show proof of financial responsibility for only three years, instead of indefinitely.

Del. Silver (D-Balto 5th), chairman of the House Motor Vehicles Committee and sponsor of the bill, said such drivers are treated as a "colony of lepers" by insurance companies and have to pay unusually high rates for an indefinite period.

The three year limitation which the act would restore was lifted in 1954. Since then, said Silver, 32,500 Marylanders have been "entrapped" in the higher rates.

Local 26 Holds Over Balloting On Dept. Heads

The election of department chairman for Local 26, Rubber Workers Union, has been continued until tomorrow, according to A. E. Johnson, president.

The final balloting in the election will be held Wednesday from 12:30 to 3 p. m. in the union hall, he said. Candidates for the election follow:

Department 20, Alvin DeBouck and Bernard Nee.

Department 95, Donald G. Crowe and Charles Logue.

Department 91-D, L. E. Frederick, Charles Rafferty and Charles Smouse.

Department 51-D, R. E. Williams, Dale Piery and Frank Warnick.

Department 11-B, James Blank, Victor Merkel and Paul Shook.

Department 16, John Lippold and A. C. Tichnell.

The election was started last Saturday and carried over until Wednesday to give all members a chance to vote.

Police School Begins

A three-day school of instruction for city police officers will begin today at City Hall auditorium, beginning at 9 a. m. Instructors from the Maryland State Police Academy will be on hand and officers from all three shifts will attend.

Study Of College Expansion Plan Sought By Gonder

Senator Bernard I. Gonder, of Garrett County, is one of the sponsors of a resolution requesting Governor Tawes to appoint a commission to study the problem of expansion of the University of Maryland.

It points out that existing facilities now being built will be inadequate to provide for the estimated doubling of enrollment by 1970 and that it may become necessary to set up additional campuses at other sites.

The resolution called for the appointment of a special commission of from 7 to 12 members to study the problems and report back next year.

The Western Maryland section of the American Chemical Society two years ago proposed that a four-year college be established in Western Maryland.

Conference Set For Managers Of Restaurants

Restaurant sanitation will be discussed at a meeting planned March 6 at 2 p. m. in the Health Department training center in the Union Street County Building.

Some 30 restaurant and tavern operators have been asked to attend, according to Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer.

Sanitation problems in the establishments will be discussed, he added.

In issuing bids to the session, the Health Department pointed out that permits and licenses will be subject to renewal on May 1.

Dr. van Strien told the operators the meeting will provide an opportunity for discussion of any questions they might have in regard to the correction of any sub-standard inspection items.

At present, the Health Department licenses about 290 eating and drinking establishments and is working to boost Allegany County's restaurant rating.

A survey made by the State Health Department last fall resulted in a rating of 46.3 per cent, which is below the national average.

Considerable progress is expected when the 1959 survey is conducted.

New First Graders Register March 12, 13

Children who will enter the first grade in Allegany County public schools next September will be registered at their respective schools on Thursday and Friday, March 12 and 13, from 3:30 until 5 p. m., according to Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel.

Children who will be six years old on or before December 31, 1959, are eligible to enroll as first graders. Each principal will report to Mr. Higgins' office on the children who are vaccinated.

Parents are being requested to contact their own physician or the Health Department, PA 2-3011, so that a time and place for vaccination can be arranged. Those who are not vaccinated will be excluded from school when classes start in September. Between 1,100 and 1,200 first graders are expected to enroll.

TV Collections Total $9,000

Directors of the Cresaptown Community TV Association were told last night that collections are about at the $9,000 mark and that another $2,000 of pledges have been made.

John Yoder, vice president, announced that the next meeting will be held March 3 at 7:30 p. m. in the Allegany Beagle Club, attended by the steering committee and solicitors.

Zoning Appeal Set

The Board of Zoning Appeals will meet Thursday at 8 p. m. in City Hall to hear the appeal of Frederick Graziani, 112 Seymour Street, to occupy a building at 8 Pennsylvania Avenue as a paint shop.

College Budget? Maybe Next Year

Joseph M. Miller, a member of the Allegany County Board of Education, gave the Board of County Commissioners some food for future thought yesterday.

When he accompanied Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster to the Court House he suggested that in another year the county commissioners might be considering a budget for the establishment of a junior college in Cumberland.

The Board of Education had a briefing on the junior college plan at its January 13 meeting. At that time, Dr. Harold D. Reese, supervisor of teacher and higher education for the State Department of Education, discussed the possibility of establishing a junior college here. He explained that existing high school facilities could be used at the beginning. Experience has shown that expenses are divided about equally three ways. The state, county and students each pay about one-third of the cost.

Dr. Reese submitted a report in the fall of 1957 recommending the establishment of a junior college here. That was the result of a survey requested in a resolution adopted that year by the General Assembly in Annapolis.

City Health Board To Meet March 2

The City Board of Health will meet Monday, March 2, at 1:30 p. m. in the office of Mayor J. Edwin Keech, chairman.

The agenda for the meeting includes discussions on the county dog law, the third public housing project, proposed sanitary districts, restaurant control in the city, air pollution and the pigeon and starling nuisance.

Obscene Book

About 71 girls from the Barrett School for Negro girls would be transferred to Montrose upon the abandonment of Barrett because of a proposed expansion of nearby Friendship Airport.

Earlier Tawes signed into law a bill which will mean higher contributions from some employers to the unemployment compensation fund but will preserve the advantage given to employers with low rates of layoffs.

The fund had been so depleted by last year's economic slump that, without this legislation, all employers would have been required to pay into the fund at the highest possible rate.

3-Year Limitation

The Senate enacted and sent to Tawes a bill aimed at relieving some 30,000 drivers from high automobile insurance premiums. It would provide that drivers whose licenses have been revoked and later reinstated would have to show proof of financial responsibility for only three years, instead of indefinitely.

Del. Silver (D-Balto 5th), chairman of the House Motor Vehicles Committee and sponsor of the bill, said such drivers are treated as a "colony of lepers" by insurance companies and have to pay unusually high rates for an indefinite period.

The three year limitation which the act would restore was lifted in 1954. Since then, said Silver, 32,500 Marylanders have been "entrapped" in the higher rates.

Local 26 Holds Over Balloting On Dept. Heads

The election of department chairman for Local 26, Rubber Workers Union, has been continued until tomorrow, according to A. E. Johnson, president.

The final balloting in the election will be held Wednesday from 12:30 to 3 p. m. in the union hall, he said. Candidates for the election follow:

Department 20, Alvin DeBouck and Bernard Nee.

Department 95, Donald G. Crowe and Charles Logue.

Department 91-D, L. E. Frederick, Charles Rafferty and Charles Smouse.

Department 51-D, R. E. Williams, Dale Piery and Frank Warnick.

Department 11-B, James Blank, Victor Merkel and Paul Shook.

Department 16, John Lippold and A. C. Tichnell.

The election was started last Saturday and carried over until Wednesday to give all members a chance to vote.

Study Of College Expansion Plan Sought By Gonder

Senator Bernard I. Gonder, of Garrett County, is one of the sponsors of a resolution requesting Governor Tawes to appoint a commission to study the problem of expansion of the University of Maryland.

It points out that existing facilities now being built will be inadequate to provide for the estimated doubling of enrollment by 1970 and that it may become necessary to set up additional campuses at other sites.

The resolution called for the appointment of a special commission of from 7 to 12 members to study the problems and report back next year.

The Western Maryland section of the American Chemical Society two years ago proposed that a four-year college be established in Western Maryland.

A Frankenstein With Ice Cubes?

Announcement by a UCLA research scientist that studies are now under way which could lead to suspension of human life for centuries in a "frozen sleep" is enough to send the chills down one's spine, and not only from the thought of being put on ice for an indefinite period of time.

Dr. John Lyman of the UCLA Bio-Technology Laboratory, chief of the research project, envisions the technique of suspended life via the ice cube as a savior to mankind. Not only, he says, could persons with incurable ailments be put to sleep until a cure is found for their ailments, but during periods of overpopulation humans by the millions could be removed from the economy until such time as they are again needed.

This is indeed the most bizarre antidote for the world's problems yet to be advanced, and it is no mere theoretical folly. Whether ultimately successful or not, the scientist is going ahead with experiments toward this end. Thus far, he and his associates have been successful only in freezing hot dogs, although this unspectacular feat had as its main purpose the testing of equipment. In a few weeks the doctor intends to begin freezing mice, and after that, who knows?

Utilizing dry ice and alcohol, Dr. Lyman hopes to drop the temperature of his experimental animals to 100 degrees below zero, and then bring them back to life. A sort of Frankenstein type experiment, employing freezing temperatures instead of electricity.

Sometimes the advancement of science, or at least the attempt to increase man's capabilities, becomes frightening.

Congressmen Riled By Strauss Statements While AEC Chairman

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Ordinarilly there is nothing that so riles Congress as to have a cabinet officer tell its members an untruth. Adm. Lewis L. Strauss, the Wall Street banker now up for confirmation as Secretary of Commerce, has been either caught or charged before Congress with seven untruths or attempts to cover up the truth.

Congressman Melvin Price, Illinois Democrat, long a member of the Atomic Energy Committee, put it in less polite language. "AEC Chairman Lewis Strauss," said the Congressman, referring to the speech of the then AEC chairman, "was filled with distortions and outright misstatements of fact about the present nuclear power program. His remarks ranged from blatant nonsense to ill-concealed perversions of the truth."

The amazing development is that the President, who had been warned that Strauss would have great difficulty being reconfirmed at atomic chairman, nevertheless appointed him to a more important post in his own cabinet.

Congress' Tab

Here are the untruths or deceptions which Congress has chalked up against Strauss:

UNDERGROUND BOMB TESTING—on March 6, 1958, Strauss's Commission announced that its underground test in Nevada was "recorded at Los Angeles about 250 miles air line from the shot mesa. This was the maximum distance at which the shock was recorded."

It happened however, that Harold Stassen, a member of the White House staff, had previously stated that this same test had been picked up on "every seismic instrument within 1,000 miles." It also developed that the underground blast had been heard 2,500 miles away in Alaska and that nine seismic stations more than 250 miles away had all picked up the Nevada blast clearly.

Caught red-handed, Strauss squirmed and alibied before the wrathy cross-examination of Sen. Clinton Anderson (N. Mex.) but gave no adequate explanation for his deception.

The deception was extremely important because in our negotiations with Russia to end H-bomb testing, it was necessary to know whether an underground test by the Soviets could be detected by stations outside Russia. The Nevada test showed that they could be, but the fact was hidden by Strauss.

RADIOACTIVE CONTAMINATION NEAR DETROIT — In announcing the establishment of a fast breeder atomic reactor at Lagoona Beach outside Detroit, Strauss claimed it would be safe for the people of Detroit by the time it was completed in 1960.

Memo Suppressed

But he suppressed a memo written by his own scientists which found just the contrary. He even refused to give it to the Congressional joint committee. That memo read: "It appears doubtful that sufficient experimental information will be available in time to give assurance of safe operation of this reactor unless the present program of the AEC is amplified and accelerated.

"The committee does not feel that the steps to be taken should be so bold as to risk the health and safety of the public."

DIRTY H-BOMBS — When Senator Anderson charge that the Administration was taking nuclear bombs out of its stockpile and inserting something that makes them dirtier (more radioactive) Strauss countered with a denial that "no material is being inserted for the purpose of increasing the amount of fission products or to add to the total fall-out."

The dispute raged back and forth with Senator Anderson and Rep. Chet Holafield (D., Cal.) getting the best of it. Finally Strauss wrote a letter to Congressman Carl Durham of the Joint Atomic Congressional Committee complaining that Anderson "four times called me a liar."

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, noting the exchange, remarked: "I have found him (Strauss) considerably less than frank."

BRITISH CENSORED — After the first Russian sputnik was launched Oct. 4, 1957, the British wanted to announce that they had made notable progress in controlling hydrogen radioactivity. This would have helped allied prestige in the rest of the world, but might have hurt American prestige.

It was reported from London that Admiral Strauss had demanded that the British not make this announcement. Strauss denied this.

"A report to the effect that the United Kingdom Atomic Authority has suppressed announcement of success in control of the fusion reaction at my request is completely false."

Technically, the denial was accurate, because the British had not achieved success. They had only achieved partial success. Senators, knowing all the facts, chalked this up as another Strauss deception.

CREDIT FOR SHIPPINGPORT REACTOR — When Westinghouse unveiled the first peacetime atomic reactor at Shippingport, Pa., credit for the achievement was taken in full-page ads in various newspapers on behalf of Westinghouse and the AEC. The inside story of who deserved the credit, however, came out at a Congressional hearing, Dec. 25, 1957, at which Commissioner Tom Murray testified that he and Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, father of the Nautilus, had conceived the idea of the Shippingport reactor, despite opposition from inside the Atomic Energy Commission.

Other deceptions which Senators have charged to the Admiral who now seeks a Senate OK as Secretary of Commerce will be continued tomorrow.

U.S. Treasury Faces Crisis In Refunding Bonds

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Lots of members of Congress are making speeches these days to the wrong audience.

Many of the Democrats, and even some Republicans, are deriding a balanced budget and talking about "growth" through bigger and bigger spending by government. But this time the politicians are barking up the wrong tree—they may be convincing those of their constituents who think they are going to be the beneficiaries of the bigger spending, but it is the investors who remain unconvinced and are scared. For the Treasury is up against a crisis in refunding its maturing bonds. Investors are seeking refuge in the stock market, which is recording new high marks.

Ever since the election last November, investors have been growing increasingly worried about what the Democratic Party, with its overwhelming control of Congress, might do to the fiscal condition of the United States. Also, many industrial leaders have held up their expansion plans. Unemployment has not been materially reduced, largely because of the failure of the heavy-goods industries to come back. This is in part due to the uncertainty about interest rates on borrowings and to the threatening rise in labor costs. For, while there is a good deal of pious talk here about proposed legislation to check abuses in the labor field, not much of anything is really going to be done by a labor-controlled Congress to remove the monopoly power from the national unions.

The outlook for the heavy-goods industries is clouded when it should be booming. Psychological factors are holding up the fulfillment of many plans for plant expansion that were completed months ago. This is the "growth" that should be encouraged instead of discouraged.

Congress has failed to come to grips with the crisis. Many of its so-called "Liberals" think the answer lies in bigger and bigger deficits and that it doesn't matter whether the budget is balanced. But the speeches along that line from Capitol Hill are scaring the investors away from bonds and fixed-interest securities.

While some of the speeches in Congress make headlines that can mislead millions of voters—so many of whom are partisanly inclined anyhow—the investors of the country cannot be influenced by anything except sound economics and solid facts. Here, for example, is an extract from the February 14th news letter of "The Whaley-Eaton Service," a non-political weekly published in Washington for many years and read regularly by the very men who handle funds in the financial and business institutions of the country:

"The flight from government bonds is more ominous than most Washington officials care to admit publicly. Several recent Treasury financing operations have failed badly. As a result, the Treasury is being forced to run faster and faster merely to keep up with its maturities. The fact is that the richest nation in the world is now operating on a hand-to-mouth basis.

"The effect of all this seems utterly lost on advocates of dynamic new spending programs to speed business expansion, eliminate unemployment. The Treasury cannot spend more money than it gets through taxes and government-security issues. Yet professional and naive investors both now distrust the latter. This means recourse to financing through the banks, which increases money supply and is directly inflationary. . . .

"As Federal Reserve Chairman Martin puts it: 'Investors cannot be induced to purchase fixed-income securities if they fear a steady erosion in the purchasing power of the dollar.' Yet this is precisely what they do fear. . . .

"Restoration of faith in the dollar requires facing up to the Treasury's dilemma. But that is something Congress seems unprepared to do."

Another penetrating comment comes from Aubrey Lanston, head of one of the best-known firms in New York that deal in government securities. In a recent speech before the Kansas City Society of Financial Analysts, Mr. Lanston said:

"I think it can be demonstrated that a close interaction has slowly but persistently developed between what goes on in the govern security market and what goes on in Congress regarding proposed and actual Federal spending and in the budget. . . .

"Altogether it seems to me clear that the Treasury has quite a job on its hands. It is going to be difficult indeed for it to do much financing outside of the banks. Such a prospect carries with it the usual inflationary connotations. Therefore, if Congress elects to spend money over and above the $77 billion proposed by the President—for whatever purposes—the future inflationary potential will be enlarged. . . .

"I hope that we will find that Congress is fully aware of what is needed. I hope that we will find that there are enough people in this country who care enough about what happens to it to scream the House down from here on, so that Congress will not be tempted to be lax in its number one duty. This is to repair the condition of the government's finances and to make clear that the credit of the Treasury will be maintained—by promoting a stable currency."

These quotations are typical of what financial men everywhere are saying. They have been frightened by Congress and by the speeches which seem to argue that two and two can make five any time the government says so.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Raiders

I watched a show on "Playhouse 90" which seemed to me much more important than a mere TV escape from work and thought. It was called "The Raider" and portrayed some of the methods employed by men of dubious scruples to undermine the builders of industry and then to deprive them of the fruit of their labor which most often is the opportunity to continue to work and to build.

It also disclosed, with rare insight, the weakness of the corporate structure. Who actually owns a corporation? According to the text-books, the stockholders own a corporation and the text-book writers are legalistically correct. But the fact is that nobody really owns a corporation and anybody usually can own it who sets out to do it and has sufficient capital or backing to accomplish his end. Thus a few financiers and a few banking houses can so rig the stock that after clever manipulation, they become the masters.

The linguistic purists make a great distinction between own and control. They would say that the stockholders own the corporation but that the financiers control it. The fact is that most stockholders hardly know what they own and therefore are referred to as "sheep." They buy on advice or tips; they sell for the same reason. They put their money into mutuals and others buy and sell for them. They do not know it but the premiums they pay to life insurance companies are loaned out and can eventually find their way into controlling situations.

Other elements now enter into the realm of ownership. For instance, all the racketeering money in the world must in some manner or other become legitimatized to be useful to their owners. One mechanism for legitimacy is Swiss banking, the bank acting for the racketeer as the manager of his money.

A Swiss bank differs from an American bank in that it will accommodate itself to any degree of secrecy required by its customer. If he wants to hide behind a number or a thumb print, the bank will agree. Of course, American stock brokers act as nominees, or "street names," for those who do not care to be identified, but they can be investigated by SEC and by law officers, or by a Congressional committee which can be very unpleasant. Nevertheless the tricky operator prefers to keep or get his base money outside the United States where he can hide his methods and where he is better protected. For racketeers and ordinary thieves this is always important.

The raider finds the flaw in a corporation's methods. There are always flaws. They are always easy to find. The basic flaws are human — ambition, cupidity, deceit, disloyalty. As nobody really owns the public corporation, why should not B get hold of it as well as the man who created and built it and gave his life blood for its continued existence? And if B can get hold of it, why not C who is a traitor and who has joined with those who would make a profit by breaking it up, particularly when the real value of a company is greater than either its book value or its stock-market value, as often happens?

One of the most usual attacks is on expense accounts which are part of salesmanship and of public relations. The outward manifestations of success are an important part of salesmanship. That is why companies build huge buildings and banks build palaces for themselves. They are manifestations not only of success but of immediate profits and of stability. Mr. J. P. Morgan's palace at 23 Wall Street was too small for his business, much of which was conducted in an office building next door, but 23 stood out as something distinct and separate and represented power.

Similarly a corporation will want its chairman to live well, to dine his guests respectably, to entertain in genteel fashion. More big contracts are signed over good brandy than over hamburgers. But these expense accounts run high and raiders can make a noise about them which the little stockholder, who maybe does live on hamburger, does not understand. Many members of Congress do not understand the function of "prestige publicity," which is the core of the expense account.

"Playhouse 90" is to be congratulated for opening this subject. It would be interesting to see the Swiss account dramatized.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

WASHINTON — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' current illness — the third in less than three years — spotlights the critical problem of conducting foreign affairs in these perilous times.

While President Eisenhower is charged by the Constitution with the conduct of American diplomacy, Dulles has been the architect of the Allied approach to keeping the cold war from heating up.

It has been a personal, almost a one-man operation for Dulles ever since he entered the Cabinet with the advent of the Eisenhower administration six years ago. However, the 71-year-old Dulles is obviously tiring. His vitality and endurance have been admirable.

What causes concern in Washington is that this latest evidence of physical weakness might cause the Communist-bloc nations to press still harder in the cold war to gain advantages while people less skilled than Dulles are at the helm of the State Department.

After a previous Dulles illness more than two years ago, a basic decision was reached by President Eisenhower to provide, insofar as it was humanly possible, for a continuance of U. S. foreign policy leadership in the event of Dulles' future incapacitation.

Christian Herter was brought in as Undersecretary of State, and since that time has undergone an intensive course in United States foreign policy objectives and the means of achieving them.

Herter is now actively in charge of the department and of American foreign policy, in the absence of Dulles. Should Dulles not return to his desk, Herter will take over in name, as well as in fact.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

This is for Muggsy Anderson, 13. He wants to know what, in my opinion, is the most beautiful writing ever to pass under my eyes. The answer is the start of Chapter 72 of Carl Sandburg's "The War Years." It concerns itself with Good Friday 1865, the day on which President Abraham Lincoln was assassinated. It goes, Muggsy, something like this:

"The purple lilacs bloomed April the Fourteenth of the year Eighteen Sixty Five. And the shining air held a balance of miracles good and evil.

"Wrens on the White House lawn chattered a fast evil gossip soon forgotten. Cardinals streaked in crimson curves and whistled happy landing on tall treetops. A veery thrush and a brown thrush in a circle of bushes poured out a living waterfall of cool song.

"The oaks and chestnuts stood grave and thoughtful. From any window of the honorable Executive Mansion they were beyond reproach. In mist or moonlight or noonday sun they kept their serene stature and measured men without praise or blame. . .

"The sidewalk passersby glanced through the iron fence pickets to see how the White House looked this morning of April the Fourteenth. Teamsters and horsemen rattling over the street cobblestones took their look too at the famous old house where all the Presidents since Washington had made a home. . .

"Not till afterward did they know they might have listened for deep sea bells calling and looked for a dreamship and studied over the fabrics of fate and the brotherhoods of dust and shadow. . .

"Did any lover of trees have a daybreak dream of a Great Oak on a high hill under the flash of a lightning prong crashing down helpless, a loss for all time to the winds and sky who had loved it and not known how much they loved it?

"Did any Negro preacher notify the world beforehand that the Almighty on the Great White Throne had spoken to the Angel on the Pale Horse saying: 'Go down now, go down to the United States, to Chesapeake Bay and the Potomac River, and find Washington, D. C., and find One Man for me there and touch him on the shoulder and tell him it's time for him to come, I'm wanting him here, his time is up today'?

"Did any fortune teller, any dealer in abracadabra, any reader of the mystic Crystal Ball, see that day a phantom horseman come riding on a phantom horse, a skeleton rider on a skeleton steed, a rider with a red rose in his teeth, a grim rider laughing softly as though he might be a bringer of Judgment Day, a keeper of a Doomsday Book, singing 'John Brown's Body Lies A-Mouldering,' singing 'Go Down, Moses, Let My People Go,' singing of the grapes of wrath trampled red and crushed scarlet and how in the beauty of the lilies Christ was born across the sea—a white-skulled rider with a flame-rose in his teeth?

"Did any poet or genius of imagination picture the ancient crowded Hall of Valhalla alive with tumult over a newcome arrival, who would stand before them only a trifle abashed drawling: 'Well, this reminds me. . .'?

"No, there seemed to be nothing foretold in essential particulars except to the Dreamer himself most concerned, who had it from a dream he accepted, though himself not in the slightest aware of the way, the method, the arrangements, the timing."

I would stand by this, Muggsy, as the best. It is small remnant of a great tapestry of poetry, a thing I have read many times over many years, always fondling it carefully with my eyes, then folding it back into the book and wishing that I could write like that. I can't Muggsy, and so I do the next best thing: read it.

Of the Confederacy, Carl Sandburg wrote a single sentence of requiem: "In the sky its final embers of hope had flickered and sunk and the overhead constellations lighted tall candles for remembrance."

If you and your father ever come this way, Muggsy — well, you know. . .

Most People Need Some Fat In Their Diets

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The relationship between food and heart disease has led many persons to eliminate fat from the diet. This is unwise, unless a definite reason exists for doing so. Much that has been written on the subject still is in the realm of speculation. In addition, fats are essential foods; small amounts go a long way toward maintaining normal growth, health, and strength.

Fats are a concentrated source of energy and are valuable in improving the capacity for work. They help the body spare its protein reserves, improve lactation and reproduction, and help protect the skin by covering it with a slightly oily film. Vitamins A and D dissolve in fats and are absorbed by the body in this way.

Fat inhibits the secretions and churning movements of the stomach, delaying the digestion of food and staving off hunger. This is the rationale behind weight reducing diets that are high in fat. The purpose is to suppress appetite. On the other hand, fat adds flavor to food. The most delicious steaks have a high fat content.

These are the reasons why the rigid restriction of fat in the diet is not recommended. The exceptions are the obese and those who have hardening of the arteries or are recovering from a heart attack. They may be told to limit their fat intake in an attempt to lower the amount of cholesterol in the blood.

In such instances, reference is made chiefly to animal fats. Vegetable fats are allowed. Corn, safflower, cottonseed, or peanut oil may be recommended as part of the plan of treatment. Lean meats are permitted but excess fat must be trimmed from roasts and chops. The menus contain less butter, margarine, cheese (except cottage), bacon, and egg yolk. Skim milk is substituted for cream and whole milk.

Many other substances are used to lower blood cholesterol. The list includes nicotinic acid, certain fatty acids, and sterols such as Cytellin. But evidence is increasing that the level of blood cholesterol is related more closely to stress than to diet. If true, we may live longer by cutting down on our excitement rather than on fat in the diet.

A Frankenstein With Ice Cubes?

Announcement by a UCLA research scientist that studies are now under way which could lead to suspension of human life for centuries in a "frozen sleep" is enough to send the chills down one's spine, and not only from the thought of being put on ice for an indefinite period of time.

Dr. John Lyman of the UCLA Bio-Technology Laboratory, chief of the research project, envisions the technique of suspended life via the ice cube as a savior to mankind. Not only, he says, could persons with incurable ailments be put to sleep until a cure is found for their ailments, but during periods of overpopulation humans by the millions could be removed from the economy until such time as they are again needed.

This is indeed the most bizarre antidote for the world's problems yet to be advanced, and it is no mere theoretical folly. Whether ultimately successful or not, the scientist is going ahead with experiments toward this end. Thus far, he and his associates have been successful only in freezing hot dogs, although this unspectacular feat had as its main purpose the testing of equipment. In a few weeks the doctor intends to begin freezing mice, and after that, who knows?

Utilizing dry ice and alcohol, Dr. Lyman hopes to drop the temperature of his experimental animals to 100 degrees below zero, and then bring them back to life. A sort of Frankenstein type experiment, employing freezing temperatures instead of electricity.

Sometimes the advancement of science, or at least the attempt to increase man's capabilities, becomes frightening.

Magnifying Glass

Congressmen Riled By Strauss Statements While AEC Chairman

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Ordinarilly there is nothing that so riles Congress as to have a cabinet officer tell its members an untruth. Adm. Lewis L. Strauss, the Wall Street banker now up for confirmation as Secretary of Commerce, has been either caught or charged before Congress with seven untruths or attempts to cover up the truth.

Congressman Melvin Price, Illinois Democrat, long a member of the Atomic Energy Committee, put it in less polite language. "AEC Chairman Lewis Strauss," said the Congressman, referring to the speech of the then AEC chairman, "was filled with distortions and outright misstatements of fact about the present nuclear power program. His remarks ranged from blatant nonsense to ill-concealed perversions of the truth."

The amazing development is that the President, who had been warned that Strauss would have great difficulty being reconfirmed at atomic chairman, nevertheless appointed him to a more important post in his own cabinet.

Congress' Tab

Here are the untruths or deceptions which Congress has chalked up against Strauss:

UNDERGROUND BOMB TESTING—on March 6, 1958, Strauss's Commission announced that its underground test in Nevada was "recorded at Los Angeles about 250 miles air line from the shot mesa. This was the maximum distance at which the shock was recorded."

It happened however, that Harold Stassen, a member of the White House staff, had previously stated that this same test had been picked up on "every seismic instrument within 1,000 miles." It also developed that the underground blast had been heard 2,500 miles away in Alaska and that nine seismic stations more than 250 miles away had all picked up the Nevada blast clearly.

Caught red-handed, Strauss squirmed and alibied before the wrathy cross-examination of Sen. Clinton Anderson (N. Mex.) but gave no adequate explanation for his deception.

The deception was extremely important because in our negotiations with Russia to end H-bomb testing, it was necessary to know whether an underground test by the Soviets could be detected by stations outside Russia. The Nevada test showed that they could be, but the fact was hidden by Strauss.

RADIOACTIVE CONTAMINATION NEAR DETROIT — In announcing the establishment of a fast breeder atomic reactor at Lagoona Beach outside Detroit, Strauss claimed it would be safe for the people of Detroit by the time it was completed in 1960.

Memo Suppressed

But he suppressed a memo written by his own scientists which found just the contrary. He even refused to give it to the Congressional joint committee. That memo read: "It appears doubtful that sufficient experimental information will be available in time to give assurance of safe operation of this reactor unless the present program of the AEC is amplified and accelerated.

"The committee does not feel that the steps to be taken should be so bold as to risk the health and safety of the public."

DIRTY H-BOMBS — When Senator Anderson charge that the Administration was taking nuclear bombs out of its stockpile and inserting something that makes them dirtier (more radioactive) Strauss countered with a denial that "no material is being inserted for the purpose of increasing the amount of fission products or to add to the total fall-out."

The dispute raged back and forth with Senator Anderson and Rep. Chet Holafield (D., Cal.) getting the best of it. Finally Strauss wrote a letter to Congressman Carl Durham of the Joint Atomic Congressional Committee complaining that Anderson "four times called me a liar."

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, noting the exchange, remarked: "I have found him (Strauss) considerably less than frank."

BRITISH CENSORED — After the first Russian sputnik was launched Oct. 4, 1957, the British wanted to announce that they had made notable progress in controlling hydrogen radioactivity. This would have helped allied prestige in the rest of the world, but might have hurt American prestige.

It was reported from London that Admiral Strauss had demanded that the British not make this announcement. Strauss denied this.

"A report to the effect that the United Kingdom Atomic Authority has suppressed announcement of success in control of the fusion reaction at my request is completely false."

Technically, the denial was accurate, because the British had not achieved success. They had only achieved partial success. Senators, knowing all the facts, chalked this up as another Strauss deception.

CREDIT FOR SHIPPINGPORT REACTOR — When Westinghouse unveiled the first peacetime atomic reactor at Shippingport, Pa., credit for the achievement was taken in full-page ads in various newspapers on behalf of Westinghouse and the AEC. The inside story of who deserved the credit, however, came out at a Congressional hearing, Dec. 25, 1957, at which Commissioner Tom Murray testified that he and Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, father of the Nautilus, had conceived the idea of the Shippingport reactor, despite opposition from inside the Atomic Energy Commission.

Other deceptions which Senators have charged to the Admiral who now seeks a Senate OK as Secretary of Commerce will be continued tomorrow.

U.S. Treasury Faces Crisis In Refunding Bonds

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Lots of members of Congress are making speeches these days to the wrong audience.

Many of the Democrats, and even some Republicans, are deriding a balanced budget and talking about "growth" through bigger and bigger spending by government. But this time the politicians are barking up the wrong tree—they may be convincing those of their constituents who think they are going to be the beneficiaries of the bigger spending, but it is the investors who remain unconvinced and are scared. For the Treasury is up against a crisis in refunding its maturing bonds. Investors are seeking refuge in the stock market, which is recording new high marks.

Ever since the election last November, investors have been growing increasingly worried about what the Democratic Party, with its overwhelming control of Congress, might do to the fiscal condition of the United States. Also, many industrial leaders have held up their expansion plans. Unemployment has not been materially reduced, largely because of the failure of the heavy-goods industries to come back. This is in part due to the uncertainty about interest rates on borrowings and to the threatening rise in labor costs. For, while there is a good deal of pious talk here about proposed legislation to check abuses in the labor field, not much of anything is really going to be done by a labor-controlled Congress to remove the monopoly power from the national unions.

The outlook for the heavy-goods industries is clouded when it should be booming. Psychological factors are holding up the fulfillment of many plans for plant expansion that were completed months ago. This is the "growth" that should be encouraged instead of discouraged.

Congress has failed to come to grips with the crisis. Many of its so-called "Liberals" think the answer lies in bigger and bigger deficits and that it doesn't matter whether the budget is balanced. But the speeches along that line from Capitol Hill are scaring the investors away from bonds and fixed-interest securities.

While some of the speeches in Congress make headlines that can mislead millions of voters—so many of whom are partisanly inclined anyhow—the investors of the country cannot be influenced by anything except sound economics and solid facts. Here, for example, is an extract from the February 14th news letter of "The Whaley-Eaton Service," a non-political weekly published in Washington for many years and read regularly by the very men who handle funds in the financial and business institutions of the country:

"The flight from government bonds is more ominous than most Washington officials care to admit publicly. Several recent Treasury financing operations have failed badly. As a result, the Treasury is being forced to run faster and faster merely to keep up with its maturities. The fact is that the richest nation in the world is now operating on a hand-to-mouth basis.

"The effect of all this seems utterly lost on advocates of dynamic new spending programs to speed business expansion, eliminate unemployment. The Treasury cannot spend more money than it gets through taxes and government-security issues. Yet professional and naive investors both now distrust the latter. This means recourse to financing through the banks, which increases money supply and is directly inflationary. . . .

"As Federal Reserve Chairman Martin puts it: 'Investors cannot be induced to purchase fixed-income securities if they fear a steady erosion in the purchasing power of the dollar.' Yet this is precisely what they do fear. . . .

"Restoration of faith in the dollar requires facing up to the Treasury's dilemma. But that is something Congress seems unprepared to do."

Another penetrating comment comes from Aubrey Lanston, head of one of the best-known firms in New York that deal in government securities. In a recent speech before the Kansas City Society of Financial Analysts, Mr. Lanston said:

"I think it can be demonstrated that a close interaction has slowly but persistently developed between what goes on in the govern security market and what goes on in Congress regarding proposed and actual Federal spending and in the budget. . . .

"Altogether it seems to me clear that the Treasury has quite a job on its hands. It is going to be difficult indeed for it to do much financing outside of the banks. Such a prospect carries with it the usual inflationary connotations. Therefore, if Congress elects to spend money over and above the $77 billion proposed by the President—for whatever purposes—the future inflationary potential will be enlarged. . . .

"I hope that we will find that Congress is fully aware of what is needed. I hope that we will find that there are enough people in this country who care enough about what happens to it to scream the House down from here on, so that Congress will not be tempted to be lax in its number one duty. This is to repair the condition of the government's finances and to make clear that the credit of the Treasury will be maintained—by promoting a stable currency."

These quotations are typical of what financial men everywhere are saying. They have been frightened by Congress and by the speeches which seem to argue that two and two can make five any time the government says so.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

This is for Muggsy Anderson, 13. He wants to know what, in my opinion, is the most beautiful writing ever to pass under my eyes. The answer is the start of Chapter 72 of Carl Sandburg's "The War Years." It concerns itself with Good Friday 1865, the day on which President Abraham Lincoln was assassinated. It goes, Muggsy, something like this:

"The purple lilacs bloomed April the Fourteenth of the year Eighteen Sixty Five. And the shining air held a balance of miracles good and evil.

"Wrens on the White House lawn chattered a fast evil gossip soon forgotten. Cardinals streaked in crimson curves and whistled happy landing on tall treetops. A veery thrush and a brown thrush in a circle of bushes poured out a living waterfall of cool song.

"The oaks and chestnuts stood grave and thoughtful. From any window of the honorable Executive Mansion they were beyond reproach. In mist or moonlight or noonday sun they kept their serene stature and measured men without praise or blame. . .

"The sidewalk passersby glanced through the iron fence pickets to see how the White House looked this morning of April the Fourteenth. Teamsters and horsemen rattling over the street cobblestones took their look too at the famous old house where all the Presidents since Washington had made a home. . .

"Not till afterward did they know they might have listened for deep sea bells calling and looked for a dreamship and studied over the fabrics of fate and the brotherhoods of dust and shadow. . .

"Did any lover of trees have a daybreak dream of a Great Oak on a high hill under the flash of a lightning prong crashing down helpless, a loss for all time to the winds and sky who had loved it and not known how much they loved it?

"Did any Negro preacher notify the world beforehand that the Almighty on the Great White Throne had spoken to the Angel on the Pale Horse saying: 'Go down now, go down to the United States, to Chesapeake Bay and the Potomac River, and find Washington, D. C., and find One Man for me there and touch him on the shoulder and tell him it's time for him to come, I'm wanting him here, his time is up today'?

"Did any fortune teller, any dealer in abracadabra, any reader of the mystic Crystal Ball, see that day a phantom horseman come riding on a phantom horse, a skeleton rider on a skeleton steed, a rider with a red rose in his teeth, a grim rider laughing softly as though he might be a bringer of Judgment Day, a keeper of a Doomsday Book, singing 'John Brown's Body Lies A-Mouldering,' singing 'Go Down, Moses, Let My People Go,' singing of the grapes of wrath trampled red and crushed scarlet and how in the beauty of the lilies Christ was born across the sea—a white-skulled rider with a flame-rose in his teeth?

"Did any poet or genius of imagination picture the ancient crowded Hall of Valhalla alive with tumult over a newcome arrival, who would stand before them only a trifle abashed drawling: 'Well, this reminds me. . .'?

"No, there seemed to be nothing foretold in essential particulars except to the Dreamer himself most concerned, who had it from a dream he accepted, though himself not in the slightest aware of the way, the method, the arrangements, the timing."

I would stand by this, Muggsy, as the best. It is small remnant of a great tapestry of poetry, a thing I have read many times over many years, always fondling it carefully with my eyes, then folding it back into the book and wishing that I could write like that. I can't Muggsy, and so I do the next best thing: read it.

Of the Confederacy, Carl Sandburg wrote a single sentence of requiem: "In the sky its final embers of hope had flickered and sunk and the overhead constellations lighted tall candles for remembrance."

If you and your father ever come this way, Muggsy — well, you know. . .

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Raiders

I watched a show on "Playhouse 90" which seemed to me much more important than a mere TV escape from work and thought. It was called "The Raider" and portrayed some of the methods employed by men of dubious scruples to undermine the builders of industry and then to deprive them of the fruit of their labor which most often is the opportunity to continue to work and to build.

It also disclosed, with rare insight, the weakness of the corporate structure. Who actually owns a corporation? According to the text-books, the stockholders own a corporation and the text-book writers are legalistically correct. But the fact is that nobody really owns a corporation and anybody usually can own it who sets out to do it and has sufficient capital or backing to accomplish his end. Thus a few financiers and a few banking houses can so rig the stock that after clever manipulation, they become the masters.

The linguistic purists make a great distinction between own and control. They would say that the stockholders own the corporation but that the financiers control it. The fact is that most stockholders hardly know what they own and therefore are referred to as "sheep." They buy on advice or tips; they sell for the same reason. They put their money into mutuals and others buy and sell for them. They do not know it but the premiums they pay to life insurance companies are loaned out and can eventually find their way into controlling situations.

Other elements now enter into the realm of ownership. For instance, all the racketeering money in the world must in some manner or other become legitimatized to be useful to their owners. One mechanism for legitimacy is Swiss banking, the bank acting for the racketeer as the manager of his money.

A Swiss bank differs from an American bank in that it will accommodate itself to any degree of secrecy required by its customer. If he wants to hide behind a number or a thumb print, the bank will agree. Of course, American stock brokers act as nominees, or "street names," for those who do not care to be identified, but they can be investigated by SEC and by law officers, or by a Congressional committee which can be very unpleasant. Nevertheless the tricky operator prefers to keep or get his base money outside the United States where he can hide his methods and where he is better protected. For racketeers and ordinary thieves this is always important.

The raider finds the flaw in a corporation's methods. There are always flaws. They are always easy to find. The basic flaws are human — ambition, cupidity, deceit, disloyalty. As nobody really owns the public corporation, why should not B get hold of it as well as the man who created and built it and gave his life blood for its continued existence? And if B can get hold of it, why not C who is a traitor and who has joined with those who would make a profit by breaking it up, particularly when the real value of a company is greater than either its book value or its stock-market value, as often happens?

One of the most usual attacks is on expense accounts which are part of salesmanship and of public relations. The outward manifestations of success are an important part of salesmanship. That is why companies build huge buildings and banks build palaces for themselves. They are manifestations not only of success but of immediate profits and of stability. Mr. J. P. Morgan's palace at 23 Wall Street was too small for his business, much of which was conducted in an office building next door, but 23 stood out as something distinct and separate and represented power.

Similarly a corporation will want its chairman to live well, to dine his guests respectably, to entertain in genteel fashion. More big contracts are signed over good brandy than over hamburgers. But these expense accounts run high and raiders can make a noise about them which the little stockholder, who maybe does live on hamburger, does not understand. Many members of Congress do not understand the function of "prestige publicity," which is the core of the expense account.

"Playhouse 90" is to be congratulated for opening this subject. It would be interesting to see the Swiss account dramatized.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

WASHINTON — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' current illness — the third in less than three years — spotlights the critical problem of conducting foreign affairs in these perilous times.

While President Eisenhower is charged by the Constitution with the conduct of American diplomacy, Dulles has been the architect of the Allied approach to keeping the cold war from heating up.

It has been a personal, almost a one-man operation for Dulles ever since he entered the Cabinet with the advent of the Eisenhower administration six years ago. However, the 71-year-old Dulles is obviously tiring. His vitality and endurance have been admirable.

What causes concern in Washington is that this latest evidence of physical weakness might cause the Communist-bloc nations to press still harder in the cold war to gain advantages while people less skilled than Dulles are at the helm of the State Department.

After a previous Dulles illness more than two years ago, a basic decision was reached by President Eisenhower to provide, insofar as it was humanly possible, for a continuance of U. S. foreign policy leadership in the event of Dulles' future incapacitation.

Christian Herter was brought in as Undersecretary of State, and since that time has undergone an intensive course in United States foreign policy objectives and the means of achieving them.

Herter is now actively in charge of the department and of American foreign policy, in the absence of Dulles. Should Dulles not return to his desk, Herter will take over in name, as well as in fact.

Most People Need Some Fat In Their Diets

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The relationship between food and heart disease has led many persons to eliminate fat from the diet. This is unwise, unless a definite reason exists for doing so. Much that has been written on the subject still is in the realm of speculation. In addition, fats are essential foods; small amounts go a long way toward maintaining normal growth, health, and strength.

Fats are a concentrated source of energy and are valuable in improving the capacity for work. They help the body spare its protein reserves, improve lactation and reproduction, and help protect the skin by covering it with a slightly oily film. Vitamins A and D dissolve in fats and are absorbed by the body in this way.

Fat inhibits the secretions and churning movements of the stomach, delaying the digestion of food and staving off hunger. This is the rationale behind weight reducing diets that are high in fat. The purpose is to suppress appetite. On the other hand, fat adds flavor to food. The most delicious steaks have a high fat content.

These are the reasons why the rigid restriction of fat in the diet is not recommended. The exceptions are the obese and those who have hardening of the arteries or are recovering from a heart attack. They may be told to limit their fat intake in an attempt to lower the amount of cholesterol in the blood.

In such instances, reference is made chiefly to animal fats. Vegetable fats are allowed. Corn, safflower, cottonseed, or peanut oil may be recommended as part of the plan of treatment. Lean meats are permitted but excess fat must be trimmed from roasts and chops. The menus contain less butter, margarine, cheese (except cottage), bacon, and egg yolk. Skim milk is substituted for cream and whole milk.

Many other substances are used to lower blood cholesterol. The list includes nicotinic acid, certain fatty acids, and sterols such as Cytellin. But evidence is increasing that the level of blood cholesterol is related more closely to stress than to diet. If true, we may live longer by cutting down on our excitement rather than on fat in the diet.

Charles Robinson and Donnie Lewis accounted for 50 of Fort Hill's 72 points. Robinson, the league's leading scorer slammed in eight goals from the field, converted 13 of 14 foul shots for a total of 29 points and upped his CVAL total to 182 in nine games for an average of 20.2. Beall Loses To Explorer Quint, 64-50

Mike Long, Frosh Guard, Scores 10 Goals, 20 Points

LaSalle High's Explorers copped their second victory in as many days and set their season record at 13-10 last night by easily defeating Beall's Mountaineers for the second time this campaign by the score of 64-50 on the SS. Peter and Paul floor.

The Explorers, in prepping for their city battle Friday night against Allegany, broke the game wide open in the second period of play and controlled the contest over the remaining distance. The score was knotted at 2, 4, 7 and 9 in the initial quarter with Ed Finn's bucket bringing Beall to within one point, 15-14, as the stanza ended.

But then sparked by Mike Long's five field goals in that period, LaSalle, winner over Mt. Savage Monday, built up a 28-14 edge before the visitors were able to dent the scoring column. The Mounties, who closed out their season with a 6-14 mark, tallied only one two-pointer in the second quarter.

Long, freshman LaSalle guard, once again put on a personal show against the Frostburgers. It was Long's long goal at the final whistle that won for LaSalle in the Frostburg part of the series, 68-66. Last night Long led LaSalle scorers with 10 field goals in 14 shots from the floor for 20 points. Mickey Scaletta and Mike Mackert, who hauled down 20 rebounds, chipped in with 16 and 15 tallies. West Virginia And Davidson Tourney Foes

Conference Games Open Thursday

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Virginia Tech's Gobblers, the glamour boys and sentimental favorites of the Southern Conference, drew the toughest opening round assignment of any first division club for the conference tournament starting Thursday.

Second place Tech automatically plays the league's seventh place team. This year it's George Washington's rugged Colonials, whom Tech Coach Chuck Noe rated "the best seventh place team in the history of basketball."

The luck of the draw actually gives perennial champion and favorite West Virginia an advantage over its challengers.

The Mountaineers play Davidson, a hardy but not overly imposing squad which has drawn West Virginia each of the past three years and gone home after one day of play.

Otherwise, Thursday's opening round shows a couple of toss-ups, with the third place Citadel getting a slight nod over flashy but erratic Furman. William at Mary and Richmond, the league's fourth and fifth place teams, are rated even.

Beall Loses To Explorer Quint, 64-50

Mike Long, Frosh Guard, Scores 10 Goals, 20 Points

LaSalle High's Explorers copped their second victory in as many days and set their season record at 13-10 last night by easily defeating Beall's Mountaineers for the second time this campaign by the score of 64-50 on the SS. Peter and Paul floor.

The Explorers, in prepping for their city battle Friday night against Allegany, broke the game wide open in the second period of play and controlled the contest over the remaining distance. The score was knotted at 2, 4, 7 and 9 in the initial quarter with Ed Finn's bucket bringing Beall to within one point, 15-14, as the stanza ended.

But then sparked by Mike Long's five field goals in that period, LaSalle, winner over Mt. Savage Monday, built up a 28-14 edge before the visitors were able to dent the scoring column. The Mounties, who closed out their season with a 6-14 mark, tallied only one two-pointer in the second quarter.

Long, freshman LaSalle guard, once again put on a personal show against the Frostburgers. It was Long's long goal at the final whistle that won for LaSalle in the Frostburg part of the series, 68-66. Last night Long led LaSalle scorers with 10 field goals in 14 shots from the floor for 20 points. Mickey Scaletta and Mike Mackert, who hauled down 20 rebounds, chipped in with 16 and 15 tallies. Jim Hansel had 20 and Jim Evans 13 for Beall.

LaSalle out-goaled Beall, 27-18, and converted on 10 of 19 free throws to the Mounties' 14 of 20. Box score:

West Virginia And Davidson Tourney Foes

Conference Games Open Thursday

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Virginia Tech's Gobblers, the glamour boys and sentimental favorites of the Southern Conference, drew the toughest opening round assignment of any first division club for the conference tournament starting Thursday.

Second place Tech automatically plays the league's seventh place team. This year it's George Washington's rugged Colonials, whom Tech Coach Chuck Noe rated "the best seventh place team in the history of basketball."

The luck of the draw actually gives perennial champion and favorite West Virginia an advantage over its challengers.

The Mountaineers play Davidson, a hardy but not overly imposing squad which has drawn West Virginia each of the past three years and gone home after one day of play.

Otherwise, Thursday's opening round shows a couple of toss-ups, with the third place Citadel getting a slight nod over flashy but erratic Furman. William at Mary and Richmond, the league's fourth and fifth place teams, are rated even.

Scheffing Is Happy Cubs Are Rated 100-1

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Manager Bob Scheffing of the Chicago Cubs says he is happy the Las Vegas gamblers rate his club as a 100-1 shot for the pennant.

"But we may do some surprising," he adds. "What we do will depend largely on the kid pitchers. If two or three of them come through — and there's no reason they can't—we could do a lot of surprising."

Paw Paw Cops Final PVC Tilt From Berkeley

Pirates Win, 67-48, Southern Triumphs

The 1958-59 Potomac Valley Conference drew its last breath last night as Paw Paw's Pirates and the Southern Highlanders took victorious bows in the only two loop games played. Paw Paw breezed by Berkeley Springs, 67-48, at Berkeley Springs and Southern won before its home fans, 82-60, over Petersburg.

Last night's games also marked the close of the regular season for all four quints, each of which will participate in its respective sectional tournament this week, excluding Southern — the only Maryland team in the conference.

Paw Paw notched its 10th circuit win with the decision against four losses, good for fourth place behind champion Keyser High. Fourteen games is the maximum allowed for PVC quints, with all wins after 14 not counting. Losses after 14 games have been played, however, are incorporated in the team's record.

The Pirates won easily last night as they led by 14-8, 31-23, and 52-36 at the quarters in setting their season mark at 15-6. Berkeley's defeat was the ninth against the same number wins overall, and placed the losers' PVC tab at 1-4.

Kevin Edmonson slammed in 24 points for Paw Paw on 11 field goals and 2-4 at the foul line. Jim Sharp hit for 18, while Junior Householder and Tom Malcolm tossed in 12 and 11. High for Berkeley was Kenny Kerns, who bucketed 19.

Southern, winding up with a 4-2 conference record and an overall mark of 12-8, built a 24-8 first quarter lead and coasted the rest of the way. The Highlanders led, 43-27, at halftime and by 61-48 going into the final heat.

Guard Don Stemple was the big factor in Southern tally-making with 14 field goals, 5-9 in fouls and 33 points. The sophomore-studded Petersburg squad was led in scoring by Alvin Alt's 20 digits and the 18-point performance of Ernie Nelson.

Petersburg thus closed with a 3-11 PVC mark and a 4-17 all-inclusive record. Box scores:

The Needler Takes Bowie Main Event

Bernie Bond Leads In Trainers' Race

BOWIE, Md., Feb. 24 (AP) — The Needler lost a two-length lead in the stretch but saved the margin of a nose victory over Poppy Jay in the Glen Burnie Purse at Bowie Race Course today.

The Melvin H. Scholosberg thoroughbred won his second race of the Bowie meeting, turning the six furlongs in 1.13 1-5 for an $8, $4, $3.80 payoff.

Poppy Jay paid $4.40 and $3.20 while third place Dust Jacket paid $8.20.

The Needler's victory enabled Trainer Bernie Bond to retain the lead in the Bowie conditioning contest. Bond has one winner more than Charley Coco, who had saddled Right Bit to win the first race.

The daily double combination of Right Bit (3) and Baby Man (6) paid $167.40.

Delightful racing weather brought out 8,414 fans on the 15th day of the 44-day winter-spring meeting.

Webb And Boyd Clash Tonight

Spider 9-5 Choice In Chicago Scrap

CHICAGO (AP) — Spider Webb, hopefully eyeing Sugar Ray Robinson's dust-collecting middleweight title, risks his No. 3 ranking against Bobby Boyd in Chicago Stadium Wednesday night.

Webb is a 9-5 choice in the 10-round battle of Chicagoans which is the first bout and national TV presentation of National Boxing Enterprises, Inc., formerly the Chicago branch of the dissolved International Boxing Club.

The match will be televised via ABC-TV, beginning at 10 p.m. EST.

Webb, 27, and seventh-ranked Boyd, 25, met once before, March 17, 1954, when Webb knocked out Boyd in the sixth round.

This could be one of the year's best middleweight scraps, unless Robinson finally decides to defend his 160-pound crown against Carmen Basilio.

Last Sept. 11, Webb lost a 10-round decision to Gene Fullmer, currently ranked No. 2 challenger behind Basilio.

North Carolina Drops To Third In AP Cage Poll

Kentucky Leader, W.V.U. Is Tenth

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Kentucky Wildcats were back Tuesday as the country's No. 1 college basketball team after an absence of one week. They may even be headed for a berth in the NCAA Basketball Tournament again and a chance for a fifth national championship.

North Carolina, which took the lead a week ago, skidded to third place after an upset by Maryland.

Kentucky knocked off Auburn, the No. 2 team with a 30-game winning streak last week, and the Tigers slid to sixth place. Kansas State moved into the runner-up spot after clinching an NCAA tournament berth with victories over Oklahoma and Oklahoma State.

A total of 100 sports writers and broadcasters took part in the poll, based on results through last Saturday.

Kentucky received 35 first place ballots, and on the basis of 10 points for first, nine for second, etc., the Wildcats totaled 822 points. Kansas State, with 24 first-place votes, had 737 points.

Kentucky and other Southeastern Conference teams wind up their regular season play this weekend and the NCAA tournament representative from that league depends upon a decision by Mississippi State.

Mississippi State, the nation's No. 5 team leads the conference but may shun NCAA play because of racial issues.

The top 10 teams, with first place votes and won-lost records through last Saturday in parentheses:

1. Kentucky	(35)	(21-2) 822
2. Kansas St.	(24)	(21-1) 737

Erskine Gets Decision Over Willie Pastrano

Heavy From Wales Is Winner Before 10,000 At Wembley

WEMBLEY, England (UPI) — Joe Erskine of Wales won an upset 10-round decision over heavyweight contender Willie Pastrano of the United States Tuesday night before a sellout crowd of 10,000 at Wembley Arena.

Erskine, former British Empire champion but now unrated among world contenders, weighed 193 pounds to 185 for speedy Pastrano of Miami Beach, Fla.

Erskine's victory was on a decision by Referee Andy Smythe of Belfast, Ireland.

It was Pastrano's second consecutive defeat by a British heavyweight. He had been kayoed in the fifth round by Brian London of England, last Sept. 30.

Willie tired badly after the sixth round and seemed unable to avoid Erskine's left jabs and left hooks.

In the third round Pastrano's own jabbing attack drew blood from Erskine's nose.

Erskine, 25, dropped out of the top 10 ratings last year after knockouts by Ingemar Johansson of Sweden (13) and by Brian London (8).

Pastrano, fifth - ranking contender, was aggressive in the early rounds but did little damage against the elusive Welshman. And the pace began to tell on Willie at the start of the seventh.

There was no sign of Pastrano's widely publicized new "wonder punch," which he allegedly had been developing for the past four months in preparation for Erskine.

In his dressing room after the fight, Pastrano said dejectedly, "he was as good as I was bad." He had no complaints about the verdict.

Pettit Needs 237 To Break Record

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks needs only 237 points in his remaining 11 games to smash the one-season National Basketball Assn. scoring record of 2,001 points set by George Yardley during the 1957-58 campaign.

Pettit collected 95 in his last three games to boost his season total to 1,765 for 61 games. He currently is leading the league's scorers with a 28.9-point average and can better Yardley's mark by averaging 21.5 the rest of the season.

Bob is a cinch to better his own previous season high of 1,849 points, produced during the 1955-56 campaign.

Stewards Fail To Take Action Against Hartack

Refused To Ride In Saturday Race

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI) — Stewards at Hialeah Park Tuesday announced that no official action would be taken against jockey Willie Hartack for taking a horse to the post Saturday and then refusing to ride him.

Hartack claimed that Fred W. Hooper's Greek Circle was sore. The track veterinarian ruled otherwise. Then, pressed for time because the Widener Handicap was next on the program and television commitments had to be met, Greek Circle was ordered scratched.

Hooper was infuriated. He then asked for permission to run Greek Circle between races to prove the horse was fit. This was refused. Monday Hooper sent Greek Circle through a five-furlong workout. He turned in the best time trial of the day, clicking off the distance in 1:00 2-5 handily. Two other veterinarians could find nothing wrong with the horse.

The stewards had a long talk with Hartack Tuesday and a track spokesman said, "the case is closed."

Scheffing Is Happy Cubs Are Rated 100-1

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Manager Bob Scheffing of the Chicago Cubs says he is happy the Las Vegas gamblers rate his club as a 100-1 shot for the pennant.

"But we may do some surprising," he adds. "What we do will depend largely on the kid pitchers. If two or three of them come through — and there's no reason they can't—we could do a lot of surprising."

Paw Paw Cops Final PVC Tilt From Berkeley

Pirates Win, 67-48, Southern Triumphs

The 1958-59 Potomac Valley Conference drew its last breath last night as Paw Paw's Pirates and the Southern Highlanders took victorious bows in the only two loop games played. Paw Paw breezed by Berkeley Springs, 67-48, at Berkeley Springs and Southern won before its home fans, 82-60, over Petersburg.

Last night's games also marked the close of the regular season for all four quints, each of which will participate in its respective sectional tournament this week, excluding Southern — the only Maryland team in the conference.

Paw Paw notched its 10th circuit win with the decision against four losses, good for fourth place behind champion Keyser High. Fourteen games is the maximum allowed for PVC quints, with all wins after 14 not counting. Losses after 14 games have been played, however, are incorporated in the team's record.

The Pirates won easily last night as they led by 14-8, 31-23, and 52-36 at the quarters in setting their season mark at 15-6. Berkeley's defeat was the ninth against the same number wins overall, and placed the losers' PVC tab at 1-4.

Kevin Edmonson slammed in 24 points for Paw Paw on 11 field goals and 2-4 at the foul line. Jim Sharp hit for 18, while Junior Householder and Tom Malcolm tossed in 12 and 11. High for Berkeley was Kenny Kerns, who bucketed 19.

Southern, winding up with a 4-2 conference record and an overall mark of 12-8, built a 24-8 first quarter lead and coasted the rest of the way. The Highlanders led 43-27, at halftime and by 61-48 going into the final heat.

Guard Don Stemple was the big factor in Southern tally-making with 14 field goals, 5-9 in fouls and 33 points. The sophomore-studded Petersburg squad was led in scoring by Alvin Alt's 20 digits and the 18-point performance of Ernie Nelson.

Petersburg thus closed with a 3-11 PVC mark and a 4-17 all-inclusive record. Box scores:

Round Table Out Of $145,000 Race

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI)—Round Table, considered one of the soundest horses in Thoroughbred racing, Tuesday was declared out of Saturday's $145,000 Santa Anita Handicap because of a deep leg cut he suffered in Monday's Washington's Birthday Handicap.

Owner Travis M. Kerr officially removed the all-time money-winning champion from the race after conferring with veterinarian Dr. John Peters.

Moose Is A Slugger

HUNTINGTON, N. Y. (AP) — The fourth annual sports night for YMCA, Kiwanis and Little League players in this township showed that Yankee slugger Bill (Moose) Skowron does a bit of heavy hitting in the winter, too. He batted .474 with the kids. Of 352 postal cards bearing questions about baseball, 167 were addressed to Skowron. Moose, the guest of honor, picked out 72 cards and the lucky youngsters received $700 in prizes.

The Needler Takes Bowie Main Event

Bernie Bond Leads In Trainers' Race

BOWIE, Md., Feb. 24 (AP) — The Needler lost a two-length lead in the stretch but saved the margin of a nose victory over Poppy Jay in the Glen Burnie Purse at Bowie Race Course today.

The Melvin H. Scholosberg thoroughbred won his second race of the Bowie meeting, turning the six furlongs in 1.13 1-5 for an $8, $4, $3.80 payoff.

Poppy Jay, owned by Maryknoll Farm, broke poorly in the 10-horse field but almost caught The Needler, ridden by Larry Adams.

Poppy Jay paid $4.40 and $3.20 while third place Dust Jacket paid $8.20.

The Needler's victory enabled Trainer Bernie Bond to retain the lead in the Bowie conditioning contest. Bond has one winner more than Charley Coco, who had saddled Right Bit to win the first race.

The daily double combination of Right Bit (3) and Baby Man (6) paid $167.40.

Delightful racing weather brought out 8,414 fans on the 15th day of the 44-day winter-spring meeting.

Webb And Boyd Clash Tonight

Spider 9-5 Choice In Chicago Scrap

CHICAGO (AP) — Spider Webb, hopefully eyeing Sugar Ray Robinson's dust-collecting middleweight title, risks his No. 3 ranking against Bobby Boyd in Chicago Stadium Wednesday night.

Webb is a 9-5 choice in the 10-round battle of Chicagoans which is the first bout and national TV presentation of National Boxing Enterprises, Inc., formerly the Chicago branch of the dissolved International Boxing Club.

The match will be televised via ABC-TV, beginning at 10 p.m. EST.

Webb, 27, and seventh-ranked Boyd, 25, met once before, March 17, 1954, when Webb knocked out Boyd in the sixth round.

This could be one of the year's best middleweight scraps, unless Robinson finally decides to defend his 160-pound crown against Carmen Basilio.

Last Sept. 11, Webb lost a 10-round decision to Gene Fullmer, currently ranked No. 2 challenger behind Basilio.

North Carolina Drops To Third In AP Cage Poll

Kentucky Leader, W.V.U. Is Tenth

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Kentucky Wildcats were back Tuesday as the country's No. 1 college basketball team after an absence of one week. They may even be headed for a berth in the NCAA Basketball Tournament again and a chance for a fifth national championship.

North Carolina, which took the lead a week ago, skidded to third place after an upset by Maryland.

Kentucky knocked off Auburn, the No. 2 team with a 30-game winning streak last week, and the Tigers slid to sixth place. Kansas State moved into the runner-up spot after clinching an NCAA tournament berth with victories over Oklahoma and Oklahoma State.

A total of 100 sports writers and broadcasters took part in the poll, based on results through last Saturday.

Kentucky received 35 first place ballots, and on the basis of 10 points for first, nine for second, etc., the Wildcats totaled 822 points. Kansas State, with 24 first-place votes, had 737 points.

Kentucky and other Southeastern Conference teams wind up their regular season play this weekend and the NCAA tournament representative from that league depends upon a decision by Mississippi State.

Mississippi State, the nation's No. 5 team leads the conference but may shun NCAA play because of racial issues.

The top 10 teams, with first place votes and won-lost records through last Saturday in parentheses:

Erskine Gets Decision Over Willie Pastrano

Heavy From Wales Is Winner Before 10,000 At Wembley

WEMBLEY, England (UPI) — Joe Erskine of Wales won an upset 10-round decision over heavyweight contender Willie Pastrano of the United States Tuesday night before a sellout crowd of 10,000 at Wembley Arena.

Erskine, former British Empire champion but now unrated among world contenders, weighed 193 pounds to 185 for speedy Pastrano of Miami Beach, Fla.

Erskine's victory was on a decision by Referee Andy Smythe of Belfast, Ireland.

It was Pastrano's second consecutive defeat by a British heavyweight. He had been kayoed in the fifth round by Brian London of England, last Sept. 30.

Willie tired badly after the sixth round and seemed unable to avoid Erskine's left jabs and left hooks.

In the third round Pastrano's own jabbing attack drew blood from Erskine's nose.

Erskine, 25, dropped out of the top 10 ratings last year after knockouts by Ingemar Johansson of Sweden (13) and by Brian London (8).

Pastrano, fifth - ranking contender, was aggressive in the early rounds but did little damage against the elusive Welshman. And the pace began to tell on Willie at the start of the seventh.

There was no sign of Pastrano's widely publicized new "wonder punch," which he allegedly had been developing for the past four months in preparation for Erskine.

In his dressing room after the fight, Pastrano said dejectedly, "he was as good as I was bad." He had no complaints about the verdict.

Pettit Needs 237 To Break Record

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks needs only 237 points in his remaining 11 games to smash the one-season National Basketball Assn. scoring record of 2,001 points set by George Yardley during the 1957-58 campaign.

Pettit collected 95 in his last three games to boost his season total to 1,765 for 61 games. He currently is leading the league's scorers with a 28.9-point average and can better Yardley's mark by averaging 21.5 the rest of the season.

Bob is a cinch to better his own previous season high of 1,849 points, produced during the 1955-56 campaign.

Stewards Fail To Take Action Against Hartack

Refused To Ride In Saturday Race

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI) — Stewards at Hialeah Park Tuesday announced that no official action would be taken against jockey Willie Hartack for taking a horse to the post Saturday and then refusing to ride him.

Hartack claimed that Fred W. Hooper's Greek Circle was sore. The track veterinarian ruled otherwise. Then, pressed for time because the Widener Handicap was next on the program and television commitments had to be met, Greek Circle was ordered scratched.

Hooper was infuriated. He then asked for permission to run Greek Circle between races to prove the horse was fit. This was refused.

Monday Hooper sent Greek Circle through a five-furlong workout. He turned in the best time trial of the day, clicking off the distance in 1:00 2-5 handily. Two other veterinarians could find nothing wrong with the horse.

The stewards had a long talk with Hartack Tuesday and a track spokesman said, "the case is closed."

Mountaineers Play Vandy In 1961-62

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —A home-and-home football series with Vanderbilt in 1961 and 62 was announced Tuesday by West Virginia University Director Red Brown.

Brown said the first game would be played Sept. 23, 1961 at night at Nashville, Tenn., the second Sept. 22, 1962 at Morgantown. The Mountaineers and Commodores have not met previously in football.

Vanderbilt is coached by Art Guepe, formerly of Virginia. Last season it won five, lost two and tied three, placing high in the Southeastern Conference. The two losses were by a total of nine points.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

(Copyright 1959. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited)

HOLLYWOOD — It isn't often casting news hands me a laugh—but I just can't keep it secret any longer that Jack Benny has the inside track for the title role in "The Billionaire." In view of Jack's professional reputation as a penny-pincher and a tightwad—it's really a stroke of imagination on Jerry Wald's part to want "Jackson" for "The Billionaire."

Jack Lemmon probably will live a long time but he'll never have a compliment like the one producer - director Billy Wilder gave him after "Some Like It Hot." Said Billy, "Jack is the greatest comedy talent in the entire industry."

So I wasn't surprised when I heard that Wilder and the Mirisch Company have arranged with Columbia to star Jack in a new film titled "The Apartment." But I was surprised when I heard Jack's co - star will be Shirley MacLaine. Shirley is the girl all the companies are trying to sign. She's now doing "Career" for Hal Wallis and she's one of the five actresses nominated by the academy for "best performance by an actress" in "Some Came Running."

American citizen Mike Romanoff (used to be "Prince") gets a real acting role in "Five Fingers" when he reports this morning to Martin Manulis for the 20th TV series. Mike should feel at home in his role. He plays a proprietor of a swank Paris restaurant—but his chief pursuit is spying not food.

Romanoff is a running character through the series although he does not appear in all chapters. There's a chance his posh Beverly Hills "Romanoff's" will be used for some of the backgrounds.

Al Hedison and Luciana Paluzzi, the Italian beauty, are the stars of "Five Fingers."

So many of Tony Bartley's advisors and friends begged him not to make a big scandal out of his separation from Deborah Kerr that he has consented to let her have a quiet divorce. I had hoped in some way that Tony and Debbie would get together again, but apparently that was impossible, since she completely lost her heart to Peter Viertel. Those things happen, but somehow it didn't seem that it could possibly happen to Debbie.

The Frank Sinatra-Sammy Davis Jr., friendship is as cold as the icebergs of Greenland. Sammy made a speech in which he said a few things about his close friend, Sinatra, that didn't set well with Frankie. When it was repeated to the thin one, he asked that a tape of the show which had been made, be read to him.

The result is that Sammy won't be in "Never So Few" nor "Oceans 11" with Sinatra. I can only feel that Sammy didn't realize what he was saying, or that he meant his remarks as a joke, because Frankie has been his idol for years.

As the "last of the movie moguls," my friend Sam Goldwyn has been getting more national publicity this month than most movie stars. Sam's latest honor is from the Hollywood Foreign Press Association to annually present a plaque to be known as the Samuel Goldwyn International Film Award. First presentation will be made at the foreign press awards banquet at the Cocoanut Grove March 5.

I really could write a book on Sam and his sayings and doings. I quite agree with the foreign press association that "because of the pivotal position he occupies in international motion pictures" it is a distinguished honor to have him select the best foreign film each year.

Health Officer Seeks Reports On Dog Bites

Procedure to be followed in reporting dog complaints was outlined yesterday by Dr. Ton van Strien, Allegany County health officer.

Dr. van Strien said his department is interested in getting prompt reports on dog bites to permit prompt action in quarantining any apparently vicious dog. He said it would be helpful to the Health Department if hospitals, physicians and interested citizens would report dog bites promptly.

On the other hand, stray dog complaints about dogs simply running at large should be referred to the dog wardens. Merwin R. Hast Jr., Union Grove, who is the dog warden for the Cumberland area, has his phone number listed under Allegany County as well as with his own name. It is PA 2-6048. Burza Hanlan of Westernport serves the Frostburg-Westernport area. His home number, FL 9-9156, also is listed in two places. Frostburg area residents are asked to call OV 9-8222, which also is listed among the Allegany County numbers.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

(Copyright 1959. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited)

HOLLYWOOD — It isn't often casting news hands me a laugh—but I just can't keep it secret any longer that Jack Benny has the inside track for the title role in "The Billionaire." In view of Jack's professional reputation as a penny-pincher and a tightwad—it's really a stroke of imagination on Jerry Wald's part to want "Jackson" for "The Billionaire."

Jack Lemmon probably will live a long time but he'll never have a compliment like the one producer - director Billy Wilder gave him after "Some Like It Hot." Said Billy, "Jack is the greatest comedy talent in the entire industry."

So I wasn't surprised when I heard that Wilder and the Mirisch Company have arranged with Columbia to star Jack in a new film titled "The Apartment." But I was surprised when I heard Jack's co - star will be Shirley MacLaine. Shirley is the girl all the companies are trying to sign. She's now doing "Career" for Hal Wallis and she's one of the five actresses nominated by the academy for "best performance by an actress" in "Some Came Running."

American citizen Mike Romanoff (used to be "Prince") gets a real acting role in "Five Fingers" when he reports this morning to Martin Manulis for the 20th TV series. Mike should feel at home in his role. He plays a proprietor of a swank Paris restaurant—but his chief pursuit is spying not food.

Romanoff is a running character through the series although he does not appear in all chapters. There's a chance his posh Beverly Hills "Romanoff's" will be used for some of the backgrounds.

Al Hedison and Luciana Paluzzi, the Italian beauty, are the stars of "Five Fingers."

So many of Tony Bartley's advisors and friends begged him not to make a big scandal out of his separation from Deborah Kerr that he has consented to let her have a quiet divorce. I had hoped in some way that Tony and Debbie would get together again, but apparently that was impossible, since she completely lost her heart to Peter Viertel. Those things happen, but somehow it didn't seem that it could possibly happen to Debbie.

The Frank Sinatra-Sammy Davis Jr., friendship is as cold as the icebergs of Greenland. Sammy made a speech in which he said a few things about his close friend, Sinatra, that didn't set well with Frankie. When it was repeated to the thin one, he asked that a tape of the show which had been made, be read to him.

The result is that Sammy won't be in "Never So Few" nor "Oceans 11" with Sinatra. I can only feel that Sammy didn't realize what he was saying, or that he meant his remarks as a joke, because Frankie has been his idol for years.

As the "last of the movie moguls," my friend Sam Goldwyn has been getting more national publicity this month than most movie stars. Sam's latest honor is from the Hollywood Foreign Press Association to annually present a plaque to be known as the Samuel Goldwyn International Film Award. First presentation will be made at the foreign press awards banquet at the Cocoanut Grove March 5.

I really could write a book on Sam and his sayings and doings. I quite agree with the foreign press association that "because of the pivotal position he occupies in international motion pictures" it is a distinguished honor to have him select the best foreign film each year.

Health Officer Seeks Reports On Dog Bites

Procedure to be followed in reporting dog complaints was outlined yesterday by Dr. Ton van Strien, Allegany County health officer.

Dr. van Strien said his department is interested in getting prompt reports on dog bites to permit prompt action in quarantining any apparently vicious dog. He said it would be helpful to the Health Department if hospitals, physicians and interested citizens would report dog bites promptly.

On the other hand, stray dog complaints about dogs simply running at large should be referred to the dog wardens. Merwin R. Hast Jr., Union Grove, who is the dog warden for the Cumberland area, has his phone number listed under Allegany County as well as with his own name. It is PA 2-6048. Burza Hanlan of Westernport serves the Frostburg-Westernport area. His home number, FL 9-9156, also is listed in two places. Frostburg area residents are asked to call OV 9-8222, which also is listed among the Allegany County numbers.

Card of Thanks

The family of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Smith wishes to thank all of the people of Barton and the different organizations for all the things that were done for us since the burning of our home. Everything that was done for us; big or little, is deeply appreciated by us. We just can not say what is in our hearts for the many things done. We thank all of you from the bottom of our hearts.
THE SMITH FAMILY OF BARTON

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved son and brother, Francis L. Beck, who gave his all 14 years ago today, Feb. 25, 1945, in Germany for the cause of Freedom.
Fourteen years have passed, dear Francis,
Since you did last feel pain.
Far from loved ones to comfort you,
As you gave your all that day.
The source of sorrow has not stopped.
Neither has the horror of war,
God alone knows how much we miss you,
Throughout these fourteen years.
Sadly missed by
Father, Mother, Sister & Brother

Card of Thanks

The family of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Smith wishes to thank all of the people of Barton and the different organizations for all the things that were done for us since the burning of our home. Everything that was done for us; big or little, is deeply appreciated by us. We just can not say what is in our hearts for the many things done. We thank all of you from the bottom of our hearts.
THE SMITH FAMILY OF BARTON

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved son and brother, Francis L. Beck, who gave his all 14 years ago today, Feb. 25, 1945, in Germany for the cause of Freedom.
Fourteen years have passed, dear Francis,
Since you did last feel pain.
Far from loved ones to comfort you,
As you gave your all that day.
The source of sorrow has not stopped.
Neither has the horror of war,
God alone knows how much we miss you.
Throughout these fourteen years.
Sadly missed by
Father, Mother, Sister & Brother

Building Lag May Be Ending

There are signs that the lag in county building activity may be ending with the promise that spring is near.

Three building permits for dwellings costing a total of $26,000 have just been issued by the Allegany County assessment department.

Ray E. Smith, 127 Valley View Drive, Cresaptown, obtained a permit to build a $10,000 frame and brick house on Lots 217 and 218 of Oakwood Avenue in Cresap Park in Election District 7. The building will be 24.5 feet by 40 feet in size.

Another $10,000 project is planned by Grant Hymes, Star Route, Flintstone. He obtained a permit to build a 26 by 38 foot frame dwelling on Green Ridge Road north of Baltimore Pike in Election District 3 east of Flintstone.

Anthony Lepore, 525 Fayette Street, has been issued a permit to construct a six-room frame house on Braddock Road near the State Roads Commission garage in Election District 29 for $6,000.

Higher Paper Prices Seen During 1959

NEW YORK (AP)—A paper industry economist has predicted that rising costs will nudge pulp and paper prices about three per cent higher during 1959.

In an address at the American Paper & Pulp Assn. annual convention, Peter W. Hoguet, economist for the U. S. Pulp Producers Assn., said this year's expected business upturn means paper "prices will no longer remain stable but will start to rise." The increase "is likely to be . . . three per cent," he added.

Wood pulp sales, Hoguet forecast, will climb by five per cent this year. But the advance, he said, "will mean almost a 10 per cent increase in production because of the shift from inventory liquidation in 1958 to inventory stability in 1959."

Mayor Keech Displays Parking Lot Maps

Mayor J. Edwin Keech on Monday placed on his office bulletin board two Cumberland parking lot maps.

The maps show the commercial and business parking lots in the downtown area, and indicate there are spaces for more than 1,000 vehicles.

To Give Address

LONACONING — A public address, "What Is The Divine Will For Our Day?" by L. R. Beda, traveling representative of the Watch Tower Society, will be given Sunday at 3 p. m. in the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah Witnesses.

Visits With Parent

WESTERNPORT—John Reeves, medical student at University of Maryland, Baltimore, visited his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Raymond W. Reeves, Main Street.

Ladies Aid To Meet

FROSTBURG — The Ladies Aid of Congregational United Church of Christ will meet Thursday at 8 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Clara Vogtman, Grant Street. Mrs. Ruth Kreitzburg will be in charge of the program.

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

See whether you need the antidote suggested for tired, weakened arches!

Put Wings On Your Heels

Even the daintiest of beautifully designed shoes and the sheerest of stockings can't make a woman's feet look pretty when they hurt! Just by the way she stands and walks, she gives away her secret and evokes pity instead of admiration.

As a bit of trouble prevention, make this test today:

Stand bare-footed, placing your feet nearly together and pointed straight ahead. Now examine your balance. Do the inner borders of your feet tend to flop inward and almost touch the floor?

If so, don't be unduly alarmed. Structurally, flat feet are very rare. Far more common is the foot with an arch that tends to flatten out as you put your weight on it.

If your feet behave this way, you need to strengthen your foot muscles and correct your step when you walk.

Foot strengthening exercise: Sit on the floor with your legs straight out and together. Turn your feet inward toward each other and try to make your soles touch. Tighten all the muscles of your toes and feet as you do this. Do not bend your knees. Hold the position for a count of five. Repeat ten times and rest. Then repeat again.

Now, for correcting your step: The transference of your weight is the most important factor! Force your weight through the center of your foot from heel to toe. Do not permit the inner border of your foot to lean toward the ground. If you still have trouble after some practice, exaggerate the motion by actually placing your weight on the outside edge of your foot for a while. Do it slowly; see an arch develop and feel how springy it is!

In no time at all your feet will feel as though they've sprouted wings!

TOMORROW: Choose the Foundation For You.

HOW MUCH SHOULD YOU WEIGH? — A new, lightning calculator that tells you how to compute your own individual ideal weight. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper, enclosing 10c (in coin) and a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Ask for "How Much Should You Weigh?"

Escapees Caught At Moundsville

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va. (UPI)—Two escapees from the Moundsville Penitentiary's medium security compound, Camp Fairchance, were captured here Tuesday before prison authorities reported they were missing.

The pair was identified as George Bailey, 24, serving 1-to-10 years from Kanawha County for breaking and entering, and Perry E. Willis, 25, serving a similar sentence from Fayette County.

The two were spotted by Moundsville police atop a supermarket building and were captured a short time later near a bowling alley. Guards at Camp Fairchance were looking for the escapees in the compound grounds when local police brought them in.

Bill Sponsors Jail Activities

CHARLESTON — Inmates of the Mineral County jail will be getting plenty of fresh air in the near future if the State Senate sees eye-to-eye with the House of Delegates.

The House passed Friday by a vote of 91-3 a bill introduced by Del. Joe Bill Kessel (R-Mineral) providing for the Mineral County Court to authorize "outside" activities on the part of the prisoners.

The "permissive" legislation, suggested by some members of the Mineral County court, would permit the county to pay up to 25 cents per day to each prisoner-worker.

The prisoners could engage in any project entailing improvements to county properties and such work as improving roads outside the Keyser corporate limits.

"We have a heavily-populated area, Potomac Heights which is located outside the city limits," Kessel observed.

He said the section has a number of streets and roads that do not fall under the jurisdiction of either the city or the state.

"It is my thought that these prisoners whenever possible could be used to improve these streets," the veteran lawmaker stated.

Building Lag May Be Ending

There are signs that the lag in county building activity may be ending with the promise that spring is near.

Three building permits for dwellings costing a total of $26,000 have just been issued by the Allegany County assessment department.

Ray E. Smith, 127 Valley View Drive, Cresaptown, obtained a permit to build a $10,000 frame and brick house on Lots 217 and 218 of Oakwood Avenue in Cresap Park in Election District 7. The building will be 24.5 feet by 40 feet in size.

Another $10,000 project is planned by Grant Hymes, Star Route, Flintstone. He obtained a permit to build a 26 by 38 foot frame dwelling on Green Ridge Road north of Baltimore Pike in Election District 3 east of Flintstone.

Anthony Lepore, 525 Fayette Street, has been issued a permit to construct a six-room frame house on Braddock Road near the State Roads Commission garage in Election District 29 for $6,000.

Higher Paper Prices Seen During 1959

NEW YORK (AP)—A paper industry economist has predicted that rising costs will nudge pulp and paper prices about three per cent higher during 1959.

In an address at the American Paper & Pulp Assn. annual convention, Peter W. Hoguet, economist for the U. S. Pulp Producers Assn., said this year's expected business upturn means paper "prices will no longer remain stable but will start to rise." The increase "is likely to be . . . three per cent," he added.

Wood pulp sales, Hoguet forecast, will climb by five per cent this year. But the advance, he said, "will mean almost a 10 per cent increase in production because of the shift from inventory liquidation in 1958 to inventory stability in 1959."

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

See whether you need the antidote suggested for tired, weakened arches!

Put Wings On Your Heels

Even the daintiest of beautifully designed shoes and the sheerest of stockings can't make a woman's feet look pretty when they hurt! Just by the way she stands and walks, she gives away her secret and evokes pity instead of admiration.

As a bit of trouble prevention, make this test today:

Stand bare-tooted, placing your feet nearly together and pointed straight ahead. Now examine your balance. Do the inner borders of your feet tend to flop inward and almost touch the floor?

If so, don't be unduly alarmed. Structurally, flat feet are very rare. Far more common is the foot with an arch that tends to flatten out as you put your weight on it.

If your feet behave this way, you need to strengthen your foot muscles and correct your step when you walk.

Foot strengthening exercise: Sit on the floor with your legs straight out and together. Turn your feet inward toward each other and try to make your soles touch. Tighten all the muscles of your toes and feet as you do this. Do not bend your knees. Hold the position for a count of five. Repeat ten times and rest. Then repeat again.

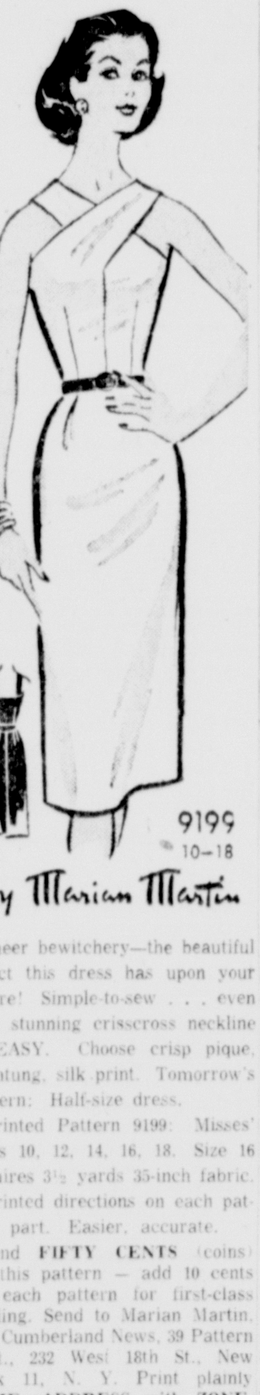

Now, for correcting your step: The transference of your weight is the most important factor! Force your weight through the center of your foot from heel to toe. Do not permit the inner border of your foot to lean toward the ground. If you still have trouble after some practice, exaggerate the motion by actually placing your weight on the outside edge of your foot for a while. Do it slowly; see an arch develop and feel how springy it is!

In no time at all your feet will feel as though they've sprouted wings!

TOMORROW: Choose the Foundation For You.

HOW MUCH SHOULD YOU WEIGH? — A new, lightning calculator that tells you how to compute your own individual ideal weight. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper, enclosing 10c (in coin) and a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Ask for "How Much Should You Weigh?"

Bill Sponsors Jail Activities

CHARLESTON — Inmates of the Mineral County jail will be getting plenty of fresh air in the near future if the State Senate sees eye-to-eye with the House of Delegates.

The House passed Friday by a vote of 91-3 a bill introduced by Del. Joe Bill Kessel (R-Mineral) providing for the Mineral County Court to authorize "outside" activities on the part of the prisoners.

The "permissive" legislation, suggested by some members of the Mineral County court, would permit the county to pay up to 25 cents per day to each prisoner-worker.

The prisoners could engage in any project entailing improvements to county properties and such work as improving roads outside the Keyser corporate limits.

"We have a heavily-populated area, Potomac Heights which is located outside the city limits," Kessel observed.

He said the section has a number of streets and roads that do not fall under the jurisdiction of either the city or the state.

"It is my thought that these prisoners whenever possible could be used to improve these streets," the veteran lawmaker stated.

The pair was identified as George Bailey, 24, serving 1-to-10 years from Kanawha County for breaking and entering, and Perry E. Willis, 25, serving a similar sentence from Fayette County.

The two were spotted by Moundsville police atop a supermarket building and were captured a short time later near a bowling alley. Guards at Camp Fairchance were looking for the escapees in the compound grounds when local police brought them in.

Industrial Stocks Climb To Another Record High

NEW YORK (UPI) — Industrial stocks established another new record high in their average against a background of over-all irregularity following Friday's break-through of the 600-mark.

The rise, reflecting chiefly strength in the chemical and electrical equipment stocks used in the average compilation, was achieved on post-holiday volume of 4,340,000 shares, heaviest turnover since Jan. 15, compared with 4,190,000 shares on Friday.

Along with the gains in chemicals, there was strength in copper stocks, selected television, aircraft and miscellaneous issues; and softness in some of the oil shares.

Activity centered in auto stocks —the small-car makers in particular. Studebaker Packard, the day's most actively traded issue fell 1⅜ points to 11⅞ while American Motors lost 1⅛ to 29, following Studebaker in the actives. Both had good news announcements (hint of a dividend for American and a good earnings forecast for Studebaker) but these apparently were outweighed by concern over small-car competition expected to come from the "big three" before year-end.

General Motors lost nearly a point and Chrysler and Ford declined fractionally.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	2 NT.	Pass
3 ♦	Pass	3 NT.	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♠.

In today's hand by logical deduction, West hit upon the one lead to defeat the contract of three no trump.

South opened the bidding with one heart, and North elected to respond with his shorter spade suit. Since his hand contained no great strength, he preferred not to increase the contract by naming his longer diamond suit. South was unduly aggressive in now leaping to two no trump. This call normally designates a holding containing 19-20 points in high cards.

North's three diamond rebid is a wasted effort. He has no intention of playing a spade contract even if he gets a delayed preference, nor should he contemplate a minor suit game which requires 11 tricks. North should therefore bid three no trump directly, inasmuch as his 7 points are sufficient for the raise.

Had West chosen to lead the unbid club suit, the three no trump contract probably would have been fulfilled unless East shifted immediately to a spade. But he realized that the only entries dummy could have for the diamond suit were no doubt in spades, and if these entries were attacked, it might be possible to prevent the run of diamonds after they became established, and West knew that it would take at least two diamond leads for declarer to clear that suit.

With that definite purpose, the jack of spades was led. When West regained the lead with a diamond, he continued with the ten of spades, depriving the dummy of its last entry. By merely holding up one round of diamonds, West was able to shut out the dummy and declarer was held to seven tricks.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grains were steady and firm at the close Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed up ½ to 1⅛ cents; corn (old) off ¼ cent; (new) off ¼ to up ⅛ cent; oats unchanged to up ⅛ cent; rye up ¼ to 1½ cents; soybeans up ½ to 1⅝ cents.

Despite the accumulated receipts over the extended holiday week end, trade was rather quiet and disinterested.

Wheat pushed into firm and strong tones. Under scattered commission house buying, the March delivery advanced ⅝ cent; July, September and December scored gains of more than a cent. Southwest terminals reported sales of May continuing and general selling of cash contracts during the week end were liberal. Friday will be the first delivery notice day for March contracts.

About half of the day's corn receipts were tagged for CCC accounts and most futures prices were steady. March positions declined ¼ cent, other new options lost only ⅛ or nothing. Northwest brokers took some new March.

Selling was more prominent in oats, but prices stayed near the steady line. Advancing power in rye drove nearby contracts up more than a cent.

Mixed trade in soybeans pushed prices up ⅝ to 1 cent. March, July and September made good advances. Meal and oil also moved into higher ranges.

The U.S. visible supply of wheat increased 975,000 bushels this week, leaving stocks of 350,159,000, according to Chicago Board of Trade statisticians. Corn increased 752,000, leaving 85,368,000; oats decreased 372,000, leaving 20,190,000; rye decreased 99,000, leaving 2,939,000; barley increased 420,000, leaving 21,217,000, and soybeans decreased 1,003,000, leaving 27,370,000.

Grains at outside markets were about steady. The range:

Industrial Stocks Climb To Another Record High

NEW YORK (UPI) — Industrial stocks established another new record high in their average against a background of over-all irregularity following Friday's break-through of the 600-mark.

The rise, reflecting chiefly strength in the chemical and electrical equipment stocks used in the average compilation, was achieved on post-holiday volume of 4,340,000 shares, heaviest turnover since Jan. 15, compared with 4,190,000 shares on Friday.

Along with the gains in chemicals, there was strength in copper stocks, selected television, aircraft and miscellaneous issues; and softness in some of the oil shares.

Activity centered in auto stocks —the small-car makers in particular. Studebaker Packard, the day's most actively traded issue fell 1⅜ points to 11⅞ while American Motors lost 1⅛ to 29, following Studebaker in the actives. Both had good news announcements (hint of a dividend for American and a good earnings forecast for Studebaker) but these apparently were outweighed by concern over small-car competition expected to come from the "big three" before year-end.

General Motors lost nearly a point and Chrysler and Ford declined fractionally.

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	2 NT.	Pass
3 ♦	Pass	3 NT.	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♠.

In today's hand by logical deduction, West hit upon the one lead to defeat the contract of three no trump.

South opened the bidding with one heart, and North elected to respond with his shorter spade suit. Since his hand contained no great strength, he preferred not to increase the contract by naming his longer diamond suit. South was unduly aggressive in now leaping to two no trump. This call normally designates a holding containing 19-20 points in high cards.

North's three diamond rebid is a wasted effort. He has no intention of playing a spade contract even if he gets a delayed preference, nor should he contemplate a minor suit game which requires 11 tricks. North should therefore bid three no trump directly, inasmuch as his 7 points are sufficient for the raise.

Had West chosen to lead the unbid club suit, the three no trump contract probably would have been fulfilled unless East shifted immediately to a spade. But he realized that the only entries dummy could have for the diamond suit were no doubt in spades, and if these entries were attacked, it might be possible to prevent the run of diamonds after they became established, and West knew that it would take at least two diamond leads for declarer to clear that suit.

With that definite purpose, the jack of spades was led. When West regained the lead with a diamond, he continued with the ten of spades, depriving the dummy of its last entry. By merely holding up one round of diamonds, West was able to shut out the dummy and declarer was held to seven tricks.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grains were steady and firm at the close Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed up ½ to 1⅝ cents; corn (old) off ¼ cent; (new) off ¼ to up ⅛ cent; oats unchanged to up ¼ cent; rye up ¼ to 1½ cents; soybeans up ½ to 1⅝ cents.

Despite the accumulated receipts over the extended holiday week end, trade was rather quiet and disinterested.

Wheat pushed into firm and strong tones. Under scattered commission house buying, the March delivery advanced ⅝ cent; July, September and December scored gains of more than a cent. Southwest terminals reported sales of May continuing and general selling of cash contracts during the week end were liberal. Friday will be the first delivery notice day for March contracts.

About half of the day's corn receipts were tagged for CCC accounts and most futures prices were steady. March positions declined ¼ cent, other new options lost only ⅛ or nothing. Northwest brokers took some new March.

Selling was more prominent in oats, but prices stayed near the steady line. Advancing power in rye drove nearby contracts up more than a cent.

Mixed trade in soybeans pushed prices up ⅝ to 1 cent. March, July and September made good advances. Meal and oil also moved into higher ranges.

The U.S. visible supply of wheat increased 975,000 bushels this week, leaving stocks of 350,159,000, according to Chicago Board of Trade statisticians. Corn increased 752,000, leaving 85,368,000; oats decreased 372,000, leaving 20,190,000; rye decreased 99,000, leaving 2,939,000; barley increased 420,000, leaving 21,217,000, and soybeans decreased 1,003,000, leaving 27,370,000.

Grains at outside markets were about steady. The range:

School Budget Up $135,075

County Share Of Boost $14,524

An Allegany County school budget totaling $4,848,339, but which seeks only $14,524 more in county funds during the 1959-60 fiscal year starting July 1, was submitted to the Board of County Commissioners yesterday by Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster and four of the five members of the County Board of Education.

Total school budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 includes $2,934,815 in estimated receipts from state and other sources compared with $1,918,524 requested receipts from county sources. Mr. Webster explained that about 61 per cent of the school funds come from the state, to only 39 per cent from the county.

For the current year, schools are receiving $1,904,000 from county sources. Actually, the school superintendent last year submitted a budget calling for $1,929,000 from the county but $25,000, including a $5,000 capital outlay item, was stricken out as the county commissioners slashed a number of budgets in order to hold the county tax rate at $2.05 for each $100 of assessed valuation.

The $1,918,524 which Mr. Webster requests from the county for the next fiscal year includes a $5,000 item for capital outlay, which ordinarily is used for such aquipment as furniture, fixtures, including laboratory equipment.

Equalization Money Up

Overall, the school budget for the new fiscal year is $135,075 above the $4,713,264 level of this year. Most of the increase comes from equalization funds received from the state. This fund is up a whopping $128,614 from $1,697,464 to $1,826,078 for 1959-60.

The equalization payments are based on an estimated assessed valuation of $169,278,000, which includes a valuation of $7,100,000 for A through J motor vehicles. This assessed valuation figure was obtained from the State Department of Education from figures made available by the State Tax Commission. In figuring last year's county budget, the commissioners used an assessment of $158,000,000 which at that time was considered the full assessed value of county property.

All of the major divisions of the 1959-60 school budget are up over this year's figures but the biggest increase of $80,080 is for instructional services, up from $3,632,780 to $3,712,860.

Despite the fact that Allegany County's starting pay for beginning teachers is $3,700, which is tied with four other counties for 14th place among Maryland's 23 counties, salaries for principals and teachers in the new year will total $3,400,660. That's $57,880 more than this year.

Under the salary scale of $3,700 t $5,500 which will prevail again next year if there is no legislation raising pay on a state-wide basis, the top figure will be reached next year in the 11th year, whereas it is the 13th year now.

Administration Up

The administration budget for next year stands at $86,665, an increase of $2,700. The superintendent's salary in this new budget is set at $15,000, up $1,000 from this year.

Some $381,000, a hike of $12,970 is budgeted for operation of the school plant. The budget for maintenance of school plant and repair and replacement of equipment stands at $152,360 for 1959-60, a boost of $12,500 from this year's $139,860.

The item for repair of buildings and upkeep of grounds is upped from $98,000 to $112,000 in this budget. Mr. Webster explained that most of this increase is necessary to fulfill the fire safety recommendations made by Cumberland Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker and Jesse Jacobs of Frostburg, area representative of the state fire marshal.

Transportation budget for the new year is set at $376,800, up $14,600 from this year. The superintendent said most of this increase is needed because some obsolete buses must be replaced by the contractors.

Other Services

Other school services in the 1959-60 budget are listed for $63,250, a $7,600 hike while fixed charges will cost $75,404, a $5,000 increase because of higher Social Security payments. A $375 item in this year's budget for payment to Pennsylvania for educating a boy living near Flintstone is dropped next year. Mr. Webster said the boy who was sent to Pennsylvania this year will have a brother in school next year so that it will be cheaper to send a bus in to transport the boys rather than pay Pennsylvania $750.

Another item included in the 1959-60 budget is $238,361 for debt service. This year the amount is $271,383.38.

Accompanying Mr. Webster to present the budget were Kenneth R. Malcolm, president; Mrs. Albert C. Cook, vice president; Mrs. L. Brooks Starcher and Joseph M. Miller, all members of the County Board of Education. J. Goodloe Jackson, the fifth board member, was out of town.

Wind-Swept Fire Controlled At Cresaptown

Homes Endangered; Truck Is Burned

Cresaptown Volunteer Firemen fought a wind-whipped grass fire in the heart of the community for 30 minutes yesterday afternoon before bringing the blaze under control.

Eight firemen answered the alarm at 2:45 p. m. and battled the fire which threatened several times to get out of control, and endangered several nearby residences.

Firemen said the blaze started when a Cresaptown resident attempted to burn rubbish in a vacant lot. The wind whipped the fire out of control and spread it over the area, burning nearly 300 feet of grass before being extinguished.

The Cresaptown company was called out again at 7:10 last night to put out a fire which destroyed the interior of the cab of a pickup truck owned by Clarence H. McCarty, Winchester Road.

The blaze, which apparently started from a short circuit or a burning cigaret, was discovered by a passing motorist who gave the alarm. The truck was parked in the driveway of the McCarty home at the time and firemen at first feared the blaze would spread to the residence.

Two trucks and 21 firemen answered the second alarm, officials of the fire company said.

Meanwhile, two Cumberland fire companies extinguished grass fires yesterday afternoon. South End was called to the end of Lamont Street where grass and debris was being burned. The alarm was received at 2:33 p. m.

Later, at 3:18 p. m., East Side Fire Company was called to Shriver Hill where a grass fire started at the rear of 400 Independence Street. Firemen quickly extinguished the blaze with no damage reported.

Man Jailed After Fire

Fire damaged a Decatur Street rooming house early today, but no one was injured.

Police arrested Homer Brill, 33, occupant of the third-floor room at 216 Decatur Street.

They said Brill will be taken to the state's attorney's office for questioning today.

Nearly simultaneous reports of the fire were received at 12:14 a. m. from a cab driver and from Sacred Heart Hospital across the street.

When firemen from Central and East Side companies arrived, flames were leaping from a window of the room on the Charles Street side of the building. Brill, meanwhile, had been led out of the burning building by an unidentified cab driver who reported the fire.

Firemen quickly brought the fire under control and confined it to Brill's room. They said the fire apparently started in a mattress.

Two Local Men Reported Missing

City Police have received reports that two local men are missing from their homes.

He was wearing a blue work shirt, grey corduroy trousers, blue and grey check jacket, a dark brown fel. hat and brown oxfords spattered with paint. He reportedly left his home Thursday, according to his wife, Elizabeth Imes.

Mr. Timbrook is said to be five feet, six inches tall, weighs 145 pounds, has brown hair and blue eyes, and was last seen wearing a blue shirt, grey trousers, and a brown jacket. He reportedly left his home on Friday, according to Mrs. Dora Lee Timbrook.

Juvenile Court Contribution Bill Is Entered

House Approves Garrett Proposal

A bill to eliminate the $2,500 a year the City of Cumberland must make toward the support of the Allegany County Juvenile Court is moving through the Senate.

State Senator Charles M. See said Senate Bill 329, which he introduced, received a favorable report and was adopted on second reading by the Senate yesterday.

He said the bill should go to its third and final reading tomorrow.

City Pays $2,500

Under present legislation, the court is under the jurisdiction of a magistrate for juvenile causes who receives a salary of $4,500. Two-thirds of his salary is paid by the County Commissioners and one third by the Mayor and Council of Cumberland.

It also provides the magistrate may appoint a clerk who is paid $3,000. Two-thirds of the clerk's salary is paid by the county and one-third by the City of Cumberland.

This is one of the bills requested by the City of Cumberland during the current session of the Legislature. It was termed double taxation, since residents of Cumberland already pay for the court through their county taxes. Senator See's bill states the court is a county function."

Garrett Bill Passes

The House on Monday night passed House Bill 305, sponsored by Del. Elza R. Bray of Garrett County, to liberalize the county's gambling laws.

Garrett County now authorizes bingo to raise funds for church, charitable, fraternal and volunteer fire units.

His bill would allow such groups to use raffles and carnival paddle wheels as fund raisers and include any non-profit organization which wishes to make money for charitable, athletic or educational purposes.

Easter Chick Sale Opposed By Society

The Animal Welfare Society took a stand against the sale of chicks, duckling, and rabbits as Easter pets at a meeting Monday evening at the Cumberland Free Public Library.

The society said, "Animals are too fragile and for such a sacred holiday as Easter most inappropriate. Little animals suffer being sold as novelties."

Louis Young presided at the meeting. The group voted to donate books on animal welfare to the library as part of its educational program. Plans also were made to supply free booklets on dog training and care to the two county pounds. Routine reports were given by Mrs. Helen Wise, Mrs. Winifred Bigler and Mrs. Peter Boniece.

Obscene Book Bill Is Given Tentative OK

No Dissents Heard As Delegates Vote

By LOUIS G. PANOS

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A tighter clamp on the circulation of obscene literature received tentative approval in the House Tuesday.

Without a dissenting vote the delegates gave semi-final assent to a bill which would affect the distribution of material considered obscene or objectionable for children.

The measure would make a storekeeper responsible for the sale of such material in his place, even though the sale is made by an employe.

It also would make it a crime to permit a child under 18 to look at objectionable literature. It would prohibit the display of such literature in store windows or other places where it can be seen from the street.

The latter provisions were worked out as a compromise after opposition arose to an earlier proposal. That proposal would have branded a storekeeper as guilty of intending to sell objectionable literature to minors if he merely displayed it on his magazine rack or bookshelf and contended it was for sale to adults only.

"Grace And Discretion"

Noting the elimination of this feature in the compromise amendment, Del. Robinson (D-Balto 4th) said he believed the House had "with grace and discretion, proved that we can maintain and respect our constitutional rights and yet move to preserve decency."

Robinson expressed regret that the bill in its original form had not contained the compromise feature.

"This would have spared many members of the General Assembly from embarrassment," he said.

One of the foremost backers of the bill was Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore, who had urged the 36 members of the city delegation to vote for it "without amendment." When the fight over the presumption-of-guilt provision developed, the mayor made a hurried trip to Annapolis to convince some reluctant city delegates to switch their votes.

Gov. Tawes and James H. (Jack) Pollack, northwest Baltimore Democratic leader who wields heavy influence over some members, helped muster a few more votes — enough to beat down opponents of the presumption-of-guilt provisions. But the verdict was so narrow that backers of the bill agreed to work out the compromise.

Integration Approved

Moments before acting on the obscene literature bill, the House gave tentative approval to a measure under which the Montrose Training School for delinquent white girls would be integrated.

New First Aid Classes Planned By Red Cross

Three new classes in first aid are being started under the sponsorship of the Allegany County Chapter American Red Cross, Mrs. George Legge, executive secretary, announced yesterday.

Mrs. Legge said a class in advanced first aid is being conducted by Helene Knippenberg at Fort Hill High School.

Two courses in standard first aid also are under way, being taught by Mrs. Bertha Rice at Northeast Elementary School, Bowman's Addition; and by Frank Winterstein at the Wiley Ford Fire hall. The latter course is being sponsored for the fire company auxiliary, although other Wiley Ford women may attend the classes.

In addition to the three new courses in first aid an instructors class will be held at the Red Cross office in the Post Office Building Friday at 7:30 p. m.

At this class a Civil Defense film on the "new" method of resuscitation (mouth to mouth) will be shown, Mrs. Legge stated.

A class of 10 persons has been graduated from a first aid course conducted by Chester E. Moody. The course was held for the Sunshine Sisters, St. John's Reformed Church in Corriganville.

The class received 10 hours of instruction on how to care for wounds, shock, artificial respiration, poison treatment, bone injuries, joint and muscle injuries, and treatment of burns.

Receiving certificates were Catherine M. Murray, 436 Columbia Street; and Sheila M. Glass, Lois Virginia Matthews, Imogene Murray, Betty Cubbage, Genevieve Lucile Poorbaugh, Anna Colleen Smith, Harriet Catherine Wolfe, Shirley Marie Conway and Betty Virginia Smith, all of Corriganville.

Milk Commission Sought For State

Washington Co. Delegates Back Bill In House

Dairymen Say Measure Would Increase Prices

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Legislation to regulate Maryland's milk industry was introduced in the House of Delegates Tuesday.

It proposes a three-man commission to regulate "the production, transportation, manufacture, processing, storage, distribution and sale of milk in the state."

Dels. Hodges (D-Balto 6th) and McElwee (D-Washington), sponsors of the bill, said controls are necessary to prevent fraud against milk producers. McElwee is a Hagerstown dairy operator.

The bill began with a statement of legislative intent which said production and distribution of milk "have been surrounded by costly sanitary requirements" now footed by producers.

Producers should be reimbursed for these costs in order to assure a continued flow of high standard milk to consumers, the sponsors indicated.

Claims Health Dangers

"If this is not done, large numbers dispose of their herds or engage in milk strikes, and remaining producers supply unhealthful milk or milk of lower quality because of financial inability to comply with sanitary requirements to keep vigilant against contamination.

"Public health is menaced when milk dealers do not or cannot pay a price to producers commensurate with the cost of sanitary production, or when consumers are required to pay excessive prices for this necessity of life."

The milk commission would have full authority over regulating prices of milk at all levels, from production to retail, and could conduct public hearings and subpoena records in exercising these powers.

The legislation was immediately described by a leading Maryland milk distributor as "unnecessary, inflationary, irresponsible, ill-conceived and an insult to the people of Maryland."

C. Y. Stephens, president of High's Dairy Products Corp., issued the statement as the milk bill hit the hopper.

"Dog-Eat-Dog"

He said it is patterned after Virginia's Milk Commission and that that agency's price-fixing at the retail level prevents retail milk firms from lowering the prices charged consumers.

McElwee said that at present, outside of controls established by various milk cooperatives in the state, milk production and marketing "is a dog-eat-dog situation in Maryland."

A spokesman for the Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers said "we understand it is based on the Pennsylvania state law, a complicated document." He added that the measure had not been examined yet by legal counsel or any cooperative official.

"Since any Maryland milk control commission law would also affect members of the Maryland and Virginia Producers associations," he said, "quite naturally that group is interested and the committee from the two organizations have met informally to discuss possible action."

Four Cumberland area dairymen last night issued a joint statement criticizing the proposed establishment of a state milk commission.

The dairymen are B. A. Mason, Mason's Dairy; John J. Hafer, Happy Hills Dairy; E. A. Dashiell, Dashiell Dairy, Inc., all of Cumberland, and John Barton of Barton's Dairy, Pinto.

Mr. Mason, as spokesman for the group, charged that the bill which the House of Delegates received yesterday is designed "solely for the benefit of certain special interest groups," and that its end result would be greatly increased consumer milk prices.

Under the proposed legislation, said Mr. Mason, retail milk prices must be set by a commission. Such prices would be set at excessively high levels "so that even the most inefficient milk processor would be assured a profit," he declared.

Would Raise Prices

"You can easily see what this would do to consumer prices. In fact, all you need to do is check milk prices in Virginia to see what it is already doing in a state where commission controls operate."

Mr. Mason said retail milk prices in Virginia are as much as 18 cents a gallon higher than in Maryland. He said the only reason for this is that "a milk commission dictates the price in Virginia whereas free enterprise prevails in Maryland."

"Now they're trying to saddle Maryland with this same setup," he said.

May Hurt Farmers

"They claim this is going to help our farmers, but it will actually do them more harm than good." Mr. Mason said that high retail prices always reduce fluid milk consumption, and that therefore "the farmer is bound to lose in the long run simply because he gets more for Class I fluid milk than for milk sold for any other use."

If high prices reduce the market for fluid milk, Mr. Mason said, farmers are forced to channel a greater share of their production into the less profitable Class II and III markets.

"How this benefits farmers is something the backers of the bill have yet to explain," he said.

The four dairymen urged that local milk consumers write to Governor Tawes and the county's members of the General Assembly to express opposition to the bill.

Police Check Store Entry, Grate Theft

City Police are checking the reported theft of a cast iron grate, weighing about 100 to 150 pounds, from the Brotemarkle Construction Company lot on Maple Street.

Police said the heavy grate apparently was rolled off the lot and along an alleyway to a garage, where it was loaded on a vehicle and carried off.

They added that two similar grates and five H-beams were reported taken from the same lot last week.

Meanwhile, the detective bureau is continuing its investigation into the attempted safe-cracking of the Southern States Feed Store, 811 North Mechanic Street, sometime Monday night.

Police said the intruder apparently entered the building after breaking glass in a rear window and unlatching the window.

Reported missing was an electric drill and six wood bits valued at $30. The bits were in a red plastic case, police said.

The intruder also attempted to crack the store's safe, knocking off the dial, but company officials said the safe was not broken open and no cash was missing.

Police investigation said tire tracks at the rear of the building between the structure and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks indicated a car was pulled alongside the store.

They also said the culprit may have injured himself in attempting to crack the safe, as several drops of blood were found on the floor of the building in front of the safe.

Women Begin New Classes

Two new adult education classes for women are starting this week, according to Miss Ruth McColly, supervisor of home economics in the county public schools.

Today from 1:15 until 3:15 a. m. at Parkside Elementary School in LaVale, women will begin the second series of classes in which Mrs. Wilma Haines, the instructor, will discuss phases of clothing alterations. She will demonstrate such activities as shortening dress and skirt hems, replacing zippers and cuffing trousers.

The current series will continue for six successive Wednesdays ending on April 1.

On Thursday from 10 a. m. until noon, Mrs. Marie Farrell will begin a six-week series on fitting problems at Corriganville Elementary School. This series will continue with only one interruption on March 26, which is Maundy Thursday and a school holiday. The last session will be Thursday, April 9.

Area Bills Are Entered In House

A number of bills of area interest have been introduced in the General Assembly recently.

House Bill 367, sponsored by Delegate William Walsh and six others, would make it a misdemeanor for railroads to fail to keep their rights-of-way reasonably free of debris and vegetation.

House Bill 335, by House Minority Leader Lester B. Reed, would require the Department of Public Improvements to prepare plans and specifications for school construction.

House Bill 370, sponsored by the Garrett County Delegation would require a $30 annual license fee for the operation of coin-operated amusement machines in Garrett County.

Miners Hospital Cites Needs For State Support

Says Phase-Out Would Cut Services

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Officials of Miners Hospital said Tuesday they'll have to curtail services in order to operate with the state funds allotted them in the proposed new budget.

The general hospital at Frostburg, begun as a state hospital in 1912, is being converted to a self-supporting status. The 4-year phasing-out program began two years ago with the state appropriation to decrease 25 per cent each year.

James E. Bangerd, administrative assistant to the hospital board, told the Senate Finance Committee at a budget hearing that the hospital needs some $330,000 to operate next fiscal year.

The state grant, at the halfway point of the phase-out, would be about $80,000, leaving the hospital with $250,000 to get. Bangerd estimated its income from patient fees would be only about $190,000.

Up To Governor

Chairman Northrop (D - Montgomery) reminded Bangerd the Legislature may only cut the governor's budget request, not increase it. "I don't think we can resolve this problem for you here," Northrop said. "They're going to have to go to the governor."

He suggested a bill introduced by Del. Cook (R-Allegany) in the House may help the hospital over the transition hump. This would let the hospital use any money it collects on old debts instead of reverting it to the state as under current law.

James G. Rennie, budget director, said the hospital would have to increase rates, cut services, get a local subsidy or ask for a revamping of the phase-out plan. He said he would like to see hospital officials try another year under the current plan.

Bangerd admitted rates charged by the hospital are "substantially" below the state average, but he said this is necessary because of an economic depression in the area.

Sen. James (D-Harford) suggested the state could help the hospital by beginning immediately to pay for indigent patients treated there. Under the current plan, the state would not pay Miners for welfare patients, as it does other hospitals, until it became self-supporting on June 30, 1960.

"But we can't starve them to death in the meantime," James commented.

Can Ask Help

Bangerd's statements about the need for more funds were made in response to questioning by Sen. See (R-Allegany).

Pressed as to what services might have to be curtailed, he said personnel cuts would have to be made down the line and nursing care would be curtailed.

Michael J. Byrnes, a member of the hospital board, said a 25 per cent cut in the general fund appropriation this year would put the hospital in a hole and defeat the board's aim of making the institution attractive to private interests who might support it.

Rennie noted the hospital is still a state agency and could go to the board of public works with a request for help if it runs into a deficit next year.

Sens. Rasin (D-Kent) and North (D-Talbot) suggested more might be done to encourage community contributions to the 68-bed hospital. "As long as the state contributes, there will be no pressure for local support," North said.

School Budget Up $135,075

County Share Of Boost $14,524

An Allegany County school budget totaling $4,848,339, but which seeks only $14,524 more in county funds during the 1959-60 fiscal year starting July 1, was submitted to the Board of County Commissioners yesterday by Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster and four of the five members of the County Board of Education.

Total school budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 includes $2,934,815 in estimated receipts from state and other sources compared with $1,918,524 requested receipts from county sources. Mr. Webster explained that about 61 per cent of the school funds come from the state, to only 39 per cent from the county.

For the current year, schools are receiving $1,904,000 from county sources. Actually, the school superintendent last year submitted a budget calling for $1,929,000 from the county but $25,000, including a $5,000 capital outlay item, was stricken out as the county commissioners slashed a number of budgets in order to hold the county tax rate at $2.05 for each $100 of assessed valuation.

The $1,918,524 which Mr. Webster requests from the county for the next fiscal year includes a $5,000 item for capital outlay, which ordinarily is used for such aquipment as furniture, fixtures, including laboratory equipment.

Equalization Money Up

Overall, the school budget for the new fiscal year is $135,075 above the $4,713,264 level of this year. Most of the increase comes from equalization funds received from the state. This fund is up a whopping $128,614 from $1,697,464 to $1,826,078 for 1959-60.

The equalization payments are based on an estimated assessed valuation of $169,278,000, which includes a valuation of $7,100,000 for A through J motor vehicles. This assessed valuation figure was obtained from the State Department of Education from figures made available by the State Tax Commission. In figuring last year's county budget, the commissioners used an assessment of $158,000,000 which at that time was considered the full assessed value of county property.

All of the major divisions of the 1959-60 school budget are up over this year's figures but the biggest increase of $80,080 is for instructional services, up from $3,632,780 to $3,712,860.

Despite the fact that Allegany County's starting pay for beginning teachers is $3,700, which is tied with four other counties for 14th place among Maryland's 23 counties, salaries for principals and teachers in the new year will total $3,400,660. That's $57,880 more than this year.

Under the salary scale of $3,700 t $5,500 which will prevail again next year if there is no legislation raising pay on a state-wide basis, the top figure will be reached next year in the 11th year, whereas it is the 13th year now.

Administration Up

The administration budget for next year stands at $86,665, an increase of $2,700. The superintendent's salary in this new budget is set at $15,000, up $1,000 from this year.

Some $381,000, a hike of $12,970 is budgeted for operation of the school plant. The budget for maintenance of school plant and repair and replacement of equipment stands at $152,360 for 1959-60, a boost of $12,500 from this year's $139,860.

The item for repair of buildings and upkeep of grounds is upped from $98,000 to $112,000 in this budget. Mr. Webster explained that most of this increase is necessary to fulfill the fire safety recommendations made by Cumberland Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker and Jesse Jacobs of Frostburg, area representative of the state fire marshal.

Transportation budget for the new year is set at $376,800, up $14,600 from this year. The superintendent said most of this increase is needed because some obsolete buses must be replaced by the contractors.

Other Services

Other school services in the 1959-60 budget are listed for $63,250, a $7,600 hike while fixed charges will cost $75,404, a $5,000 increase because of higher Social Security payments. A $375 item in this year's budget for payment to Pennsylvania for educating a boy living near Flintstone is dropped next year. Mr. Webster said the boy who was sent to Pennsylvania this year will have a brother in school next year so that it will be cheaper to send a bus in to transport the boys rather than pay Pennsylvania $750.

Another item included in the 1959-60 budget is $238,361 for debt service. This year the amount is $271,383.38.

Accompanying Mr. Webster to present the budget were Kenneth R. Malcolm, president; Mrs. Albert C. Cook, vice president; Mrs. L. Brooks Starcher and Joseph M. Miller, all members of the County Board of Education. J. Goodloe Jackson, the fifth board member, was out of town.

Wind-Swept Fire Controlled At Cresaptown

Homes Endangered; Truck Is Burned

Cresaptown Volunteer Firemen fought a wind-whipped grass fire in the heart of the community for 30 minutes yesterday afternoon before bringing the blaze under control.

Eight firemen answered the alarm at 2:45 p. m. and battled the fire which threatened several times to get out of control, and endangered several nearby residences.

Firemen said the blaze started when a Cresaptown resident attempted to burn rubbish in a vacant lot. The wind whipped the fire out of control and spread it over the area, burning nearly 300 feet of grass before being extinguished.

The Cresaptown company was called out again at 7:10 last night to put out a fire which destroyed the interior of the cab of a pickup truck owned by Clarence H. McCarty, Winchester Road.

The blaze, which apparently started from a short circuit or a burning cigaret, was discovered by a passing motorist who gave the alarm. The truck was parked in the driveway of the McCarty home at the time and firemen at first feared the blaze would spread to the residence.

Two trucks and 21 firemen answered the second alarm, officials of the fire company said.

Meanwhile, two Cumberland fire companies extinguished grass fires yesterday afternoon. South End was called to the end of Lamont Street where grass and debris was being burned. The alarm was received at 2:33 p. m.

Later, at 3:18 p. m., East Side Fire Company was called to Shriver Hill where a grass fire started at the rear of 400 Independence Street. Firemen quickly extinguished the blaze with no damage reported.

Man Jailed After Fire

Fire damaged a Decatur Street rooming house early today, but no one was injured.

Police arrested Homer Brill, 33, occupant of the third-floor room at 216 Decatur Street.

They said Brill will be taken to the state's attorney's office for questioning today.

Nearly simultaneous reports of the fire were received at 12:14 a. m. from a cab driver and from Sacred Heart Hospital across the street.

When firemen from Central and East Side companies arrived, flames were leaping from a window of the room on the Charles Street side of the building. Brill, meanwhile, had been led out of the burning building by an unidentified cab driver who reported the fire.

Firemen quickly brought the fire under control and confined it to Brill's room. They said the fire apparently started in a mattress.

Two Local Men Reported Missing

City Police have received reports that two local men are missing from their homes.

They are Walter Imes, 51, of 418 Williams Street, and John Timbrook, 42, of 890 Sperry Terrace.

Police said Mr. Imes is described as six feet, two inches tall, slender, 150 pounds, has brown eyes and greying hair. He was wearing a blue work shirt, grey corduroy trousers, blue and grey check jacket, a dark brown fel. hat and brown oxfords spattered with paint. He reportedly left his home Thursday, according to his wife, Elizabeth Imes.

Mr. Timbrook is said to be five feet, six inches tall, weighs 145 pounds, has brown hair and blue eyes, and was last seen wearing a blue shirt, grey trousers, and a brown jacket. He reportedly left his home on Friday, according to Mrs. Dora Lee Timbrook.

Juvenile Court Contribution Bill Is Entered

House Approves Garrett Proposal

A bill to eliminate the $2,500 a year the City of Cumberland must make toward the support of the Allegany County Juvenile Court is moving through the Senate.

State Senator Charles M. See said Senate Bill 329, which he introduced, received a favorable report and was adopted on second reading by the Senate yesterday.

He said the bill should go to its third and final reading tomorrow.

City Pays $2,500

Under present legislation, the court is under the jurisdiction of a magistrate for juvenile causes who receives a salary of $4,500. Two-thirds of his salary is paid by the County Commissioners and one third by the Mayor and Council of Cumberland.

It also provides the magistrate may appoint a clerk who is paid $3,000. Two-thirds of the clerk's salary is paid by the county and one-third by the City of Cumberland.

This is one of the bills requested by the City of Cumberland during the current session of the Legislature. It was termed double taxation, since residents of Cumberland already pay for the court through their county taxes. Senator See's bill states the court is a "county function."

Garrett Bill Passes

The House on Monday night passed House Bill 305, sponsored by Del. Elza R. Bray of Garrett County, to liberalize the county's gambling laws.

Garrett County now authorizes bingo to raise funds for church, charitable, fraternal and volunteer fire units.

His bill would allow such groups to use raffles and carnival paddle wheels as fund raisers and include any non-profit organization which wishes to make money for charitable, athletic or educational purposes.

Easter Chick Sale Opposed By Society

The Animal Welfare Society took a stand against the sale of chicks, duckling, and rabbits as Easter pets at a meeting Monday evening at the Cumberland Free Public Library.

The society said, "Animals are too fragile and for such a sacred holiday as Easter most inappropriate. Little animals suffer being sold as novelties."

Louis Young presided at the meeting. The group voted to donate books on animal welfare to the library as part of its educational program. Plans also were made to supply free booklets on dog training and care to the two county pounds. Routine reports were given by Mrs. Helen Wise, Mrs. Winifred Bigler and Mrs. Peter Boniece.

The "Kindness" award for the month was given to Thomas and John Ray Hull, sons of Mrs. Maria Hull, 413 Pulaski Street, for rescuing an injured pigeon, which now they have as a pet.

Obscene Book Bill Is Given Tentative OK

No Dissents Heard As Delegates Vote

By LOUIS G. PANOS

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A tighter clamp on the circulation of obscene literature received tentative approval in the House Tuesday.

Without a dissenting vote the delegates gave semi-final assent to a bill which would affect the distribution of material considered obscene or objectionable for children.

The measure would make a storekeeper responsible for the sale of such material in his place, even though the sale is made by an employe.

It also would make it a crime to permit a child under 18 to look at objectionable literature. It would prohibit the display of such literature in store windows or other places where it can be seen from the street.

The latter provisions were worked out as a compromise after opposition arose to an earlier proposal. That proposal would have branded a storekeeper as guilty of intending to sell objectionable literature to minors if he merely displayed it on his magazine rack or bookshelf and contended it was for sale to adults only.

"Grace And Discretion"

Noting the elimination of this feature in the compromise amendment, Del. Robinson (D-Balto 4th) said he believed the House had "with grace and discretion, proved that we can maintain and respect our constitutional rights and yet move to preserve decency."

Robinson expressed regret that the bill in its original form had not contained the compromise feature.

"This would have spared many members of the General Assembly from embarrassment," he said.

One of the foremost backers of the bill was Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore, who had urged the 36 members of the city delegation to vote for it "without amendment." When the fight over the presumption-of-guilt provision developed, the mayor made a hurried trip to Annapolis to convince some reluctant city delegates to switch their votes.

Gov. Tawes and James H. (Jack) Pollack, northwest Baltimore Democratic leader who wields heavy influence over some members, helped muster a few more votes — enough to beat down opponents of the presumption-of-guilt provisions. But the verdict was so narrow that backers of the bill agreed to work out the compromise.

Integration Approved

Moments before acting on the obscene literature bill, the House gave tentative approval to a measure under which the Montrose Training School for delinquent white girls would be integrated.

New First Aid Classes Planned By Red Cross

Three new classes in first aid are being started under the sponsorship of the Allegany County Chapter American Red Cross, Mrs. George Legge, executive secretary, announced yesterday.

Mrs. Legge said a class in advanced first aid is being conducted by Helene Knippenberg at Fort Hill High School.

Two courses in standard first aid also are under way, being taught by Mrs. Bertha Rice at Northeast Elementary School, Bowman's Addition; and by Frank Winterstein at the Wiley Ford Fire hall. The latter course is being sponsored for the fire company auxiliary, although other Wiley Ford women may attend the classes.

In addition to the three new courses in first aid an instructors class will be held at the Red Cross office in the Post Office Building Friday at 7:30 p. m.

At this class a Civil Defense film on the "new" method of resuscitation (mouth to mouth) will be shown, Mrs. Legge stated.

A class of 10 persons has been graduated from a first aid course conducted by Chester E. Moody. The course was held for the Sunshine Sisters, St. John's Reformed Church in Corriganville.

The class received 10 hours of instruction on how to care for wounds, shock, artificial respiration, poison treatment, bone injuries, joint and muscle injuries, and treatment of burns.

Receiving certificates were Catherine M. Murray, 436 Columbia Street; and Sheila M. Glass, Lois Virginia Matthews, Imogene Murray, Betty Cuboage, Genevieve Lucile Poorbaugh, Anna Colleen Smith, Harriet Catherine Wolfe, Shirley Marie Conway and Betty Virginia Smith, all of Corriganville.

Milk Commission Sought For State

Washington Co. Delegates Back Bill In House

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Legislation to regulate Maryland's milk industry was introduced in the House of Delegates Tuesday.

It proposes a three-man commission to regulate "the production, transportation, manufacture, processing, storage, distribution and sale of milk in the state."

Dels. Hodges (D-Balto 6th) and McElwee (D-Washington), sponsors of the bill, said controls are necessary to prevent fraud against milk producers. McElwee is a Hagerstown dairy operator.

The bill began with a statement of legislative intent which said production and distribution of milk "have been surrounded by costly sanitary requirements" now footed by producers.

Producers should be reimbursed for these costs in order to assure a continued flow of high standard milk to consumers, the sponsors indicated.

Claims Health Dangers

"If this is not done, large numbers dispose of their herds or engage in milk strikes, and remaining producers supply unhealthful milk or milk of lower quality because of financial inability to comply with sanitary requirements to keep vigilant against contamination.

"Public health is menaced when milk dealers do not or cannot pay a price to producers commensurate with the cost of sanitary production, or when consumers are required to pay excessive prices for this necessity of life."

The milk commission would have full authority over regulating prices of milk at all levels, from production to retail, and could conduct public hearings and subpoena records in exercising these powers.

The legislation was immediately described by a leading Maryland milk distributor as "unnecessary, inflationary, irresponsible, ill-conceived and an insult to the people of Maryland."

C. Y. Stephens, president of High's Dairy Products Corp., issued the statement as the milk bill hit the hopper.

"Dog-Eat-Dog"

He said it is patterned after Virginia's Milk Commission and that that agency's price-fixing at the retail level prevents retail milk firms from lowering the prices charged consumers.

McElwee said that at present, outside of controls established by various milk cooperatives in the state, milk production and marketing "is a dog-eat-dog situation in Maryland."

A spokesman for the Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers said "we understand it is based on the Pennsylvania state law, a complicated document." He added that the measure had not been examined yet by legal counsel or any cooperative official.

"Since any Maryland milk control commission law would also affect members of the Maryland and Virginia Producers associations," he said, "quite naturally that group is interested and the committee from the two organizations have met informally to discuss possible action."

Dairymen Say Measure Would Increase Prices

Four Cumberland area dairymen last night issued a joint statement criticizing the proposed establishment of a state milk commission.

The dairymen are B. A. Mason, Mason's Dairy; John J. Hafer, Happy Hills Dairy; E. A. Dashiell, Dashiell Dairy, Inc., all of Cumberland, and John Barton of Barton's Dairy, Pinto.

Mr. Mason, as spokesman for the group, charged that the bill which the House of Delegates received yesterday is designed "solely for the benefit of certain special interest groups," and that its end result would be greatly increased consumer milk prices.

Under the proposed legislation, said Mr. Mason, retail milk prices must be set by a commission. Such prices would be set at excessively high levels "so that even the most inefficient milk processor would be assured a profit," he declared.

Would Raise Prices

"You can easily see what this would do to consumer prices. In fact, all you need to do is check milk prices in Virginia to see what it is already doing in a state where commission controls operate."

Mr. Mason said retail milk prices in Virginia are as much as 18 cents a gallon higher than in Maryland. He said the only reason for this is that "a milk commission dictates the price in Virginia whereas free enterprise prevails in Maryland."

"Now they're trying to saddle Maryland with this same setup," he said.

May Hurt Farmers

"They claim this is going to help our farmers, but it will actually do them more harm than good." Mr. Mason said that high retail prices always reduce fluid milk consumption, and that therefore "the farmer is bound to lose in the long run simply because he gets more for Class I fluid milk than for milk sold for any other use."

If high prices reduce the market for fluid milk, Mr. Mason said, farmers are forced to channel a greater share of their production into the less profitable Class II and III markets.

"How this benefits farmers is something the backers of the bill have yet to explain," he said.

The four dairymen urged that local milk consumers write to Governor Tawes and the county's members of the General Assembly to express opposition to the bill.

Women Begin New Classes

Two new adult education classes for women are starting this week, according to Miss Ruth McColly, supervisor of home economics in the county public schools.

Today from 1:15 until 3:15 a. m. at Parkside Elementary School in LaVale, women will begin the second series of classes in which Mrs. Wilma Haines, the instructor, will discuss phases of clothing alterations. She will demonstrate such activities as shortening dress and skirt hems, replacing zippers and cuffing trousers.

The current series will continue for six successive Wednesdays ending on April 1.

On Thursday from 10 a. m. until noon, Mrs. Marie Farrell will begin a six-week series on fitting problems at Corriganville Elementary School. This series will continue with only one interruption on March 26, which is Maundy Thursday and a school holiday. The last session will be Thursday, April 9.

Area Bills Are Entered In House

A number of bills of area interest have been introduced in the General Assembly recently.

House Bill 367, sponsored by Delegate William Walsh and six others, would make it a misdemeanor for railroads to fail to keep their rights-of-way reasonably free of debris and vegetation.

House Bill 335, by House Minority Leader Lester B. Reed, would require the Department of Public Improvements to prepare plans and specifications for school construction.

House Bill 370, sponsored by the Garrett County Delegation would require a $30 annual license fee for the operation of coin-operated amusement machines in Garrett County.

Police Check Store Entry, Grate Theft

City Police are checking the reported theft of a cast iron grate, weighing about 100 to 150 pounds, from the Brotemarkle Construction Company lot on Maple Street.

Police said the heavy grate apparently was rolled off the lot and along an alleyway to a garage, where it was loaded on a vehicle and carried off.

They added that two similar grates and five H-beams were reported taken from the same lot last week.

Meanwhile, the detective bureau is continuing its investigation into the attempted safecracking of the Southern States Feed Store, 811 North Mechanic Street, sometime Monday night.

Police said the intruder apparently entered the building after breaking glass in a rear window and unlatching the window.

Reported missing was an electric drill and six wood bits valued at $30. The bits were in a red plastic case, police said.

The intruder also attempted to crack the store's safe, knocking off the dial, but company officials said the safe was not broken open and no cash was missing.

Police investigation said tire tracks at the rear of the building between the structure and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks indicated a car was pulled alongside the store.

They also said the culprit may have injured himself in attempting to crack the safe, as several drops of blood were found on the floor of the building in front of the safe.

Nearly 1,000 See 'School Daze'

Nearly 1,000 persons witnessed the first performance last night of "School Daze," the talent show being presented by Allegany County teachers in the Fort Hill High School auditorium.

Final performance is scheduled for 8 o'clock tonight. Proceeds will be used to benefit handicapped children.

Film To Be Shown At Masonic Lodge

Cumberland Scottish Rite Bodies will sponsor an educational film in color Monday at 8 p. m. at the Masonic Temple.

The movie is open to all Blue Lodge Masons. Refreshments will be served after the film. The committee in charge of arrangements includes Julius E. Schindler, Dr. J. Russell Cook and Harold C. Wickard.

Miners Hospital Cites Needs For State Support

Says Phase-Out Would Cut Services

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Officials of Miners Hospital said Tuesday they'll have to curtail services in order to operate with the state funds allotted them in the proposed new budget.

The general hospital at Frostburg, begun as a state hospital in 1912, is being converted to a self-supporting status. The 4-year phasing-out program began two years ago with the state appropriation to decrease 25 per cent each year.

James E. Bangerd, administrative assistant to the hospital board, told the Senate Finance Committee at a budget hearing that the hospital needs some $330,000 to operate next fiscal year.

The state grant, at the halfway point of the phase-out, would be about $80,000, leaving the hospital with $250,000 to get. Bangerd estimated its income from patient fees would be only about $190,000.

Up To Governor

Chairman Northrop (D - Montgomery) reminded Bangerd the Legislature may only cut the governor's budget request, not increase it. "I don't think we can resolve this problem for you here," Northrop said. "They're going to have to go to the governor."

He suggested a bill introduced by Del. Cook (R-Allegany) in the House may help the hospital over the transition hump. This would let the hospital use any money it collects on old debts instead of reverting it to the state as under current law.

James G. Rennie, budget director, said the hospital would have to increase rates, cut services, get a local subsidy or ask for a revamping of the phase-out plan. He said he would like to see hospital officials try another year under the current plan.

Bangerd admitted rates charged by the hospital are "substantially" below the state average, but he said this is necessary because of an economic depression in the area.

Sen. James (D-Harford) suggested the state could help the hospital by beginning immediately to pay for indigent patients treated there. Under the current plan, the state would not pay Miners for welfare patients, as it does other hospitals, until it became self-supporting on June 30, 1960.

"But we can't starve them to death in the meantime," James commented.

Can Ask Help

Bangerd's statements about the need for more funds were made in response to questioning by Sen. See (R-Allegany).

Pressed as to what services might have to be curtailed, he said personnel cuts would have to be made down the line and nursing care would be curtailed.

Michael J. Byrnes, a member of the hospital board, said a 25 per cent cut in the general fund appropriation this year would put the hospital in a hole and defeat the board's aim of making the institution attractive to private interests who might support it.

Rennie noted the hospital is still a state agency and could go to the board of public works with a request for help if it runs into a deficit next year.

Sens. Rasin (D-Kent) and North (D-Talbot) suggested more might be done to encourage community contributions to the 68-bed hospital. "As long as the state contributes, there will be no pressure for local support," North said.
